President Opening Season

Today

Baseball Starts.
King Alfonso Abdicates.
An Admirable Will.
An Eel, Our Relative.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

THE BIG NEWS in America is the official beginning of the professional baseball season. Seventy thousand watched the Yankees and the Boston Red Sox players pitching, hitting, throwing, sliding and running.

Those are things that our caveman ancestors did, their lives depending on agility, skill and strength. And, although we don't know it, that's why baseball interests us.

EUROPE'S BIG news is the abdication of King Alfonso. He goes, and a republic rules Spain. It is one thing to vote for a republic, another to make it go. Having a king, or no king, makes little difference.

England has long been, in reality, an actual republic, with a king drawing his salary, and avoiding frequent elections. Some republics, on the other hand, have not been very republican, although they have had no king, with the possible exception of MONEY.

THE WILL of the late Col. Friedsam sets a fine example of good citizenship. He provides generously for those dependent on him and related to him and gives to the public his magnificent and skillfully collected works of art, that cost $10,000,000 and are worth double that amount.

He leaves the bulk of his large fortune to the public, to be spent by his executors for the young and "comfort of the old," words that express a beautiful thought clearly.

HE LEAVES to J. S. Burke, vice president of his organization, who, for years, had helped carry the heavy load of business, a large interest in that business, and the controlling influence in carrying out his philanthropic plans.

All of his life Michael Friedsam worked hard. He lived without ostentation or extravagance, and now leaves the result of his life's work to the people among whom he lived.

YOU PERHAPS never heard of a rare sea eel, which lives in the ocean mud and has for a scientific title a name as long as the eel. Nevertheless, science says you are closely related to him.

You do know that you got your five fingers from the foot of a salamander that lived in the carboniferous era, millions of years ago. If that salamander had had six toes, you would have six fingers, including the thumb, also the duodecimal instead of the decimal system, much better for mathematics. And the violin would have six strings.

YOU OWE even more to the little mud eel than you do to the salamander. The brain of that little eel was the beginning of yours. It has five lobes, like yours, and a little cortex like the thick cortex on top of your brain. The five divisions of an eel brain are found only in the full developed human brain, and they function as in man.

Dr. Conel, at the Boston University, is studying brains in 100 of these eels.

To be related to the five-lobe-brain mud eel is interesting.

RUSSIAN AUTHORITIES announce complete success for their five-year plan. All the work mapped out will be accomplished in 1932. Part was accomplished in two and one-half years, and, remembering, perhaps, Napoleon's question "What did you do the next day?" they announce another five-year plan.

They say, and with truth, that the success of their recent efforts commands the respect of foreign countries, and there is less danger of attack from without. Therefore, they will devote five more years to building up agriculture, machinery and prosperity. But for the more peaceful outlook, presumably the next five years would have been devoted to building up a giant fighting machine.

If Russia should do that, under the direction of some undiscovered Genghis Khan, or some imported Von Moltke, the rest of Europe would REALLY worry.

SAMUEL INSULL, in Ireland, has been inspecting the gigantic power plant developed by the Irish Free State, and OWNED BY THE IRISH PEOPLE.

Some Irishmen might ask Mr. Insull:

"How is it that in America the people do not own and control their own power? Why have they found it necessary to look to you, a highly intelligent Britisher, to control power for them?

If that question were asked, Insull might accurately reply:

"The American people don't own much, first, because they don't let them, and, second, because their government lacks capacity, or honesty, or both."

SUSPENSION FOR FAILURE TO ANSWER

Inspector's Stock Records Demanded by Evans in Public Works Inquiry

Developments in the Department of Public Works investigation in City Council today were:

1. Director Edward G. Lang promised suspension for city inspectors and other employes of department for refusal to answer questioning.

2. Attorney Henry Oliver Evans demanded brokerage account of Joseph L. Dingfelder, a $141-a-month city inspector.

3. Charge made by Joseph J. Darney, house-wrecker, that Bertram L. Succop, disposed director of Department of Supplies, promised to get him a contract for razing five houses.

4. Lie was passed between Tom M. Reed, chief engineer in department of engineering, and Darney when Reed entered general denial to Darney's charges of "playing favorites" in contract awards.

5. Assistant District Attorney William H. Colvin expressed belief that four-year statute of limitations applies to city employes who may be found guilty of fraud.

6. Hearing adjourned until 10 a. m. tomorrow after Attorney Evans questioned seven city inspectors.

Director Lang read his ultimatum to city inspectors and employes of the Public Works Department when the hearing opened before an audience which crowded the Council chambers.

TOLD TO TESTIFY

Lang urged that all employes summoned by Attorney Evans answer all questions put to them so that a "free, full and dispassionate consideration may be given to the questions incolved." He added:

"If any employes refuse to answer on the grounds of in-

BENN DENIES STOCK DEALS

PHILADELPHIA, April 15.—(AP.)—James S. Benn, Public Service Commissioner, in a statement today through his counsel, said that he had "never owned, bought, sold or traded in any public utilities securities" during his tenure as commissioner.

William A. Gray, counsel for Gov. Pinchot in the Senate committee investigation of the Public Service Commission, yesterday recommended to the committee that it examine the accounts of a Philadelphia brokerage house to ascertain whether Benn was interested in any utility stock.

The statement, issued by Ira Jewell Williams, Benn's counsel, said:

"In view of this statement of actual facts, it is flagrantly unjust to employ tactics of innuendo and insinuation against a public official, even in a situation of bitter political rancor. The facts could have been obtained for the asking from Mr. Benn, or from me as his counsel. Therefore, the defamatory purpose of proceeding otherwise becomes apparent."

HOOVER SEES WOMEN DRY LAW FOES

'Glad to Have You,' President Tells Group Asking Help In Repealing Prohibition

WASHINGTON, April 15.—(AP.)—More than 530 women, armed with a resolution calling for outright repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, today waited personally upon President Hoover to ask his aid to this end.

The White House offices were filled to overflowing, and a long line stretched into the courtyard, as members of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform waited to shake hands with the Chief Executive.

ACTION URGED

The organization's second annual convention a few minutes earlier had named Mrs. Courtlandt Nicoll, of New York, their secretary, to present the unanimously adopted resolution. It concluded:

"We petition the President and the Congress of the United States to take such action as will give to the people of the United States an opportunity to put into effect the principles to which we adhere."

Mrs. Nicoll, in presenting the resolution to President Hoover, said:

"At the second annual convention of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, comprising membership of over 300,000 from every state, it was voted the copy of the resolution passed by the convention this morning be presented to you and to the Congress. I, therefore, have the honor to present you with this resolution."

PRESIDENT SMILES

President Hoover smiled and said:

"Very glad to have you."

He shook hands with several hundred of the women.

Officers of the Pennsylvania division of the group served notice today the state branch would attempt to elect anti-dry delegates to the two national conventions next year.

REPORT 19 DEAD IN NICARAGUA

COLON, Panama, April 15.—(INS.)—Reports of a serious situation at Puerto Cabezas on the east coast of Nicaragua continued to flow in here today, but United States Navy officials maintained an attitude of strictest secrecy.

Intercepted radio messages from Bluefields contained unconfirmed reports that 11 Americans, six Britishers and two Panamanians had been killed battling insurgent outlaws in and near Puerto Cabezas.

Heavily armed forces were reported surrounding the town and neighboring farms, while Marines and bluejackets from the U. S. S. Asheville were entrenched awaiting a threatened rebel attack.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—(INS.)—A strict censorship placed on the Navy, by Secretary of State Stimson, continued today to obscure the situation near Puerto Cabezas, Nicaragua.

'Cinderella Girl' Marries Law Clerk

GREENWICH, Conn., April 15.—(AP.)—Miss Fredericka Fry, heiress to millions, and known here as the Cinderella Girl because of the good fortune which came to her by adoption, was married to Eliseo del Guercio, a law clerk, in St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church this morning. The bride has just attained her legal age and inherits more than $2,000,000 by the will of her foster mother, Mrs. Georgia Timken Fry, who died in 1921.

Estelle to File Divorce Papers; 'Still Loves' Jack Dempsey

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., April 15.—Estelle Taylor Dempsey, film actress wife of the former world's heavyweight champion, today summed up the closing chapter of her romance and married life with Jack Dempsey in these words:

"I still love Jack Dempsey, even if I am going to file suit for divorce from him within 48 hours."

Her attorney, Joseph Scott, was preparing to file in California a divorce complaint for her. Mental cruelty will in all probability form the basis of the complaint, Miss Taylor said. She added:

"At any rate, the charges will be just as mild and devoid of sensation as they can possibly be. I have made up my mind not to wait any longer, but to seek the protection of my home in the courts.

NEVER SAW FIGHT

"That's one thing I've always resented. People have said that I married Jack because he was the champion—because of the glamor attached to the title.

"But that's not true. I never saw Jack fight and always kept in the background in anything pertaining to his battles. And for that matter, Jack's real glamor and his greatest popularity came to him after he lost the crown, not while he was the champion.

"Yes, Jack was good to me. He loved me I know and I loved him—even now. Those stories that he beat me are silly—not so. But even if they were, I would never say so.

"Jack started this. I didn't. But this is our legal residence

CHICAGO, April 15.—(AP.)—The American Opera Society is to hear a "Love Song Cycle" whose words come from the pen of one of the world's richest women, Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick. Her poems, set to music by Mrs. Eleanor Everest Freer, will be sung at a luncheon of the society Saturday. Mrs. McCormick, the daughter of John D. Rockefeller, has achieved a reputation as collector of rare works of literature and art, psychologist, poetess, and real estate operator on a broad scale.

NEW MANAGER BILL LIKELY

By ED PRENDERGAST
Staff Correspondent.

HARRISBURG, April 15.—From the grave of the Moore city manager bill, defeated last night in the House, 103 to 91, may arise a new bill aimed directly at Pittsburgh.

In the lobbies and corridors today discussion centered about a possible local option measure which with some changes would drop the third class city clause and make the act apply only to those of the second class or Pittsburgh exclusively.

KILLED FOR SESSION

The Moore bill was definitely killed last night for this session, after two days of intense struggling for votes, and a bitter debate in which Dr. Joseph G. Steedle, Kline floor leader in the House, criticized the members of Pittsburgh civic organizations, the Chamber of Commerce and Pittsburgh newspapers. He claimed civic groups members were "disgruntled."

He branded the newspapermen "lobbyists" and claimed that Pittsburgh was satisfied with its present form of government.

KING ABOARD CRUISER ON WAY TO EXILE

Last of Royal Family Quits Madrid Under Guard; May Reunite Later in England

Meantime, King Alfonso, who boarded a cruiser at Cartagena this morning, was sailing westward on the Mediterranean, presumably for England, former home of the queen, where the royal family is expected to reunite.

BID ADIEU

The final scene of parting took place in the little station of Escurial, near the palace, today as the Queen and her two daughters and two sons, last of the family to depart, bade adieu on the station platform to a little band of faithful retainers, grandees and aristocrats who had gathered to wish them godspeed.

Scores of members of the aristocracy of Spain were also bound out of Spain on express trains, pending a settlement of the country's affairs.

With the Queen were the Infantas Cristina and Beatriz, the Crown Prince of the Asturias and Prince Gonzalo, the youngest son.

One untoward incident marked the departure of the royal family. A Republican sympathizer at the station, during an interval in the shout of the Monarchists for royal shouted "Viva Republica!" He was promptly manhandled by a group of aristocrats and bustled off the station platform.

PLANS KEPT SECRET

Plans for the departure of the Queen and her children were made with strictest secrecy. They arrived at the station from the palace in automobiles, accompanied only by a few close friends and a score of civil guards.

At sight of the group which was waiting at the station, made up

TO HEAR APPEAL OF ENGELSBERG

Joseph Engelsberg's appeal from his conviction for conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws will be reargued May 7, United States Attorney Louis E. Graham was notified today.

The Hill politician was sentenced to six months imprisonment and fined $2,500 in November, 1929. He appealed to the United States Circuit Court in March, 1930, but the court did not hand down an opinion.

His conviction came after Charles Berger, convicted bootlegger, testified he had had liquor transactions with Engelsberg. Later, "conscience stricken," Berger appeared in court to repudiate his testimony. It was largely on the strength of the repudiation that Engelsberg asked for a new trial.

'Ty' Cobb's Wife Charges Cruelty, Asks Divorce

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 15.—(AP.)—Mrs. Charlie Marion Lombard Cobb today filed, in Richmond County Superior Court, a petition for divorce from Tyrus Raymond Cobb, former major league baseball star. Her petition charged cruel treatment.

Mrs. Cobb requested temporary alimony and custody of their four minor children, Shirley, 19, Herchel, 14, Beverly, 11, and Howell, 9. Judge A. L. Franklin set April 25 as the date for hearing the alimony petition.

The petition gave no details regarding the cruelty charge and Mrs. Cobb declined to elaborate.

The Cobbs were married August 6, 1908, in Augusta, and have resided here since.

Zeppelin May Fly to Meet Wilkins 'Sub' in Arctic

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, April 15.—(AP.)—A possible rendezvous in the Polar regions between the Graf Zeppelin and Sir Hubert Wilkins' sumbarine Nautilus was forecast to the Associated Press today by Dr. Hugo Eckener. He said:

"It is quite possible that a flight into the Arctic regions may eventuate this year. It all depends on whether we can finance the proposed expedition. If so, I expect to personally command the Graf. In New York, Wilkins and I agreed to try to meet in the Polar wastes."

In the Polar flight failed to materialize, Dr. Eckener intimated he would accept an invitation from Holland to study aviation conditions in Java, embarking for the Orient in June or July.

MOORE SAID HE WOULD WED NANNA RUSSELL, COURT TOLD

DEPOSITION UP AT WILL CONTEST

'Must Marry Into Family,' Pittsburgher Quoted as Telling Newspaperman

Alexander P. Moore once declared that he would marry not Lillian Russell, the famed stage star, but her sister, Nanna Russell, according to a deposition today in Orphans Court, where Mrs. Dorothy Russell Cavit's contest against the Moore will is being heard.

The deposition was that of Howard Merill Shelley, who writes society news for the New York Evening Journal under the name of Billy Benedick. A friend of both Miss Russell and Moore, Shelley testified that in 1912 Moore said to him:

"I will marry Nanna. I must marry into the family."

DENIAL BY LILLIAN

Shelley related that Moore made this statement after Miss Russell had denied she was going to marry the Pittsburgh publisher, complaining:

"I have no intention of marrying him. Mr. Moore has frequently done these things before and has embarrassed me."

Following Shelley's deposition, Attorney Herman C. Pollack, counsel for Mrs. Calvit, tried to determine what disposition had been made of a pearl necklace owned by Miss Russell. Attorney Pollack said the only important necklace sale of which he could learn was one in which a necklace had been sold for $1,000 to J. A. Grant, then business manager of Moore's Pittsburgh Leader. Pollack contended that there had been a necklace, which had been appraised at $8,500 by a New York jeweler, Smith A. Keim, whose deposition was read. Attorney J. O. Weeks, for the estate, said he had record of the appraisal of a necklace at $1,000, and its sale to Grant at that price.

RING NOT INCLUDED

Keim, who sold some jewelry to Miss Russell, told of Moore telling him, after Miss Russell's death, that he would not include her $15,000 marquise diamond ring in the public sale of her effects, but would try to sell it to Jesse Livermore, stock market operator.

The famed Chinese room, which once was a part of Miss Russell's home in Penn avenue, East End, was mentioned in the deposition of Miss Ada Patterson, a writer.

Miss Patterson said that in a magazine article in 1915 she quoted Miss Russell as appraising the room at more than $100,000, one vase alone at $18,000.

Mrs. Calvit, daughter of Miss Russell and stepdaughter of Moore, was in the courtroom today as Judge Thomas P. Trimble resumed the hearing. Before court convened, Mrs. Calvit declared that she was ready to prove that the inventory of her mother's estate had failed to include valuable jewelry, porcelain and a Howard Chandler Christy portrait of her mother.

QUEEN'S BEQUEST

She was asked whether she begrudged Moore's $100,000 bequest to Queen Victoria of Spain for the Queen's charities. She replied:

"I think the Queen of Spain is a most lovely woman. I begrudge no money to charity, but now she is neither a queen, nor does she have any charities. I only want my share of A. P. Moore's estate. It was promised to me."

A deposition from Howard Chandler Christy, the artist, revealed that Moore had never paid for a portrait which Christy painted of Miss Russell. Christy said:

"Moore liked the portrait and I sent him a bill for $3,000 but he raised a disturbance about the bill and didn't pay it. I told Miss Russell to keep the portrait."

ESTIMATES VALUE

Christy estimated the portrait's value today at possibly $10,000, certainly not less than $5,000.

Attorney Pollack also introduced a deposition from William W. Seaman, of the American Art Galleries, which conducted the sale of Miss Russell's effects. Seaman testified that when Miss Russell's collection was catalogued, 756 articles were listed, but that when the collection was shipped to New York from Pittsburgh, 121 items were missing.

DRY FOES CALL ON HOOVER

hibitionist, for governor, the report of the Pennsylvania group's activities, submitted to the general conference of the organization, said a fight similar to the gubernatorial election lies ahead to control the state delegation. It added:

"Our task is to defeat Mr. Pinchot's ambition to obtain control of the 76 Republican delegates from Pennsylvania.

"Our object, needless to say, is to bring pressure to bear so that 'wet' delegates can be run if 'dry' voters are nominated. We say 'dry voters' with deliberation, for the hypocrisy of political leaders is the most discouraging factor in our work.

SEE STATE DISRUPTED

"Republican Pennsylvania was disrupted by the prohibition issue, but the bootleggers were too strong for us. They were powerful enough in Pennsylvania to vote Mr. Pinchot in.

"We have lost a battle but not the war. We are going to lift Pennsylvania from the ignominy of its present place among the backward states by the repeal of the enforcement (Snyder-Armstrong) act."

Raising of a $3,000,000 fund was mentioned as one of the prime objects.

BIG GAINS CLAIMED

Reports of a swiftly increasing enrollment of feminine anti-prohibitionists in 32 states were presented.

More than 1,100 women, in an executive session restricted to those favoring repeal, heard chairmen of their organization in six states report that in two years their groups had exceeded the membership of the 50-year-old Women's Christian Temperance Union.

All six used the corresponding district memberships of the W. C. T. U. as a yardstick. The states reporting this growth were New York, Massachusetts, Illinois, Michigan, Missouri and Connecticut. It was reported for the District of Columbia also that its membership was 2,051, or about 100 more than that of the temperance group.

TEACHER WAITS SANITY TEST

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., April 15.—(INS.)—Under the eye of a physician, Mrs. Frances Thomsen, college graduate, former Pittsburgh teacher and mother of three, today awaited in Luzerne County prison action of her defense counsel in requesting appointment of a sanity commission to determine her responsibility for the slaying of Minnie E. Dilley, wealthy Forty Fort spinster.

Mrs. Thomsen, jail attaches said, has developed a nervous condition and visitors have been denied her.

Filing of the petition for appointment of the commission to determine Mrs. Thomsen's mental condition will be the first act of John Dando, chief defense counsel, upon his return here from Philadelphia, associates said. The petition is expected to be placed before the court in the next day or two.

WHARF LEASING UP BEFORE COUNCIL

Many Oppose Concessions To Individual Concerns; Adverse Opinion Given

Arguments on leasing the wharves on the Monongahela and Allegheny rivers to private corporations for parking purposes were to be heard by Council's committee on hearings today.

The hearing, the second on the wharf problem within a few weeks, was granted, according to Council President John S. Herron, as the result of protests received from organizations, individuals and corporations against leasing.

It was believed improbable that action toward private leasing would be taken, because of an opinion rendered by Charles Lang, assistant city solicitor. The opinion declared legislation passed more than 50 years ago designates the wharves as public landings and prohibits their lease to individuals or corporations.

Bennett Brothers, automobile wreckers, lease part of one of the downtown wharves. Parking is now under jurisdiction of the Department of Public Safety.

Other hearings scheduled today were that of Mrs. Mary Manius, of 619 Eureka street, complaining about zoning activities, and one on the offer of Joseph Henger, Sixteenth Ward, to sell the city 50 acres of land for recreational and park purposes. The property is in the section of the Sixteenth Ward which was formerly part of St. Clair Borough.

JOBLESS PLAN CAPITAL HIKE

A hunger march to Harrisburg by 150 jobless workers is scheduled to leave Pittsburgh next Saturday to meet similar delegations from other sections of the state and present to Gov. Pinchot and the Legislature, plans for relieving unemployment.

Food and shelter will be demanded from communities along the route, it was announced by J. Mankin, secretary of the Pittsburgh Unemployed Council. He said that 150 unemployed workers, representing councils of the National Miners Union and Metal Workers' Industrial League, will leave 805 James street, North Side, next Saturday morning.

HARRISBURG, April 15.—Two constitutional amendments designed to carry into effect Gov. Pinchot's recommendations for unemployment relief were introduced today in the House by Representative Richards, of Lawrence. One of the amendments would permit the state to issue bonds up to $100,000,000 in times of emergency, the money to be used for road construction and buildings. The other would authorize counties to issue bonds for the same purpose. The amount of the bond issues would be limited to 10 per cent of the assessed valuation.

LANG DIRECTS AIDES FACE PROBE

Answer Questions or Be Suspended, Director Tells Men Summoned by Evans

criminating themselves, I feel that this is sufficient cause for me to forthwith suspend the person or persons taking this position. This I intend to do in cases of this kind, after which a hearing will be given them and dismissal will result if it turns out that the suspensions were justified."

Attorney Evans startled spectators when he asked President John S. Herron, of City Council, to order the C. D. Halsey Company, stock brokers, to produce the brokerage account of Joseph L. Dingfelder, a city inspector, and to summon John W. Newcome, margin clerk for the Halsey company, for questioning. Newcome appeared later in the day and testified that he had seen Dingfelder at the Halsey office once or twice a week. These visits, the witness said, were made often, and usually occurred during the noon hour. Newcome said that Dingfelder had no account with his firm at the present time, but promised to produce from office records when Dingfelder, a former securities salesman, closed his account.

RED IN TILT

A tilt between Darney, who accused a city inspector of accepting as a gift a radiant fire gas stove yesterday, and Engineer Tom M. Reed during which the lie was passed, enlivened the unusually quiet session. Darney charged that Reed asked him by letter to remove without charge eight feet of the old Hotel Sherman, owned by Judge Drew. Reed said:

"If Darney made that statement it's a contemptible lie."

Darney, who was on and off the stand several times during the day, was in the back part of the room. Walking to the center of the floor, Darney said:

"I can back that up with Tony Jordano. He's out in the hall now. No one is going to call me a contemptible liar."

Reed, who has recently returned to Pittsburgh from Atlantic City, where he spent several weeks recuperating from a nervous breakdown, entered a general denial to Darney's charges that he had shown favoritism in the award of the contract for the removal of the soldiers' memorial on Monument Hill. He also denied the charge that he had written a letter to Judge Drew, but admitted that a letter had been written to the jurist from his office. He promised Attorney Evans to produce a copy of the letter, which he said had been signed by Director Lang.

SUCCOP NAMED

The name of Succop was brought into the investigation by Darney while being questioned by Attorney Colvin. Darney said that he had repeatedly urged the Public Works Department to award contracts for the removal of buildings separately, rather than incorporate it in the general improvement contract. He was discussing this with Director Succop and declared that Succop had promised to get him a contract for razing five buildings on Independence street for which Darney was to have been paid $250 each.

Darney said that it was customary for the city to pay $250 for the razing of a house even if it was merely a coal shed. He said that he could take it down for $20 and make money on it. While Darney was still on the stand, J. J. Croak, city engineer, explained items in contracts where as low as $10 had been paid for the removal of a building.

INSPECTORS CALLED

Attorney Evans called a number of city inspectors to the stand following Darney's testimony, including Thomas Donahue, Michael J. Lyda, George W. Philpott, Louis I. Plato, John A. Mulvihill, S. H. Robertson, Walter Shaffer and Anthony Niepalsky.

During the examination of Niepalsky, Attorney Evans asked him if he had ever been given a bathroom by A. F. Jordano, a city contractor, or anyone. Nipalsky replied:

"I was going to buy one owned by Joe Darney, but I did not take it. I saw that it was no good."

Darney was recalled, and in answer to Attorney Evans, charged that Niepalsky bought the bathroom from him for $10. He said his usual price was $50, but that he had made a concession to Niepalsky. He also declared that Tony Jardano had advised him to give the bathroom to Niepalsky, adding that "he'd fix it up later." Darney added:

"I did this and am still waitink for the sheckles."

STORY REPUDIATED

Jordano followed Darney to the stand and denied Darney's charges. In reply to questioning by Attorney Lee C. Beatty, Jordano said that Darney frequently gave him a lot of trouble while on the Grant street improvement. Jordano charged that Darney was not able to meet his payroll, and that he, Jordano, "had to do it for him." Jordano denied that gifts had been presented to city inspectors to curry favors.

During the questioning of Niepalsky, Attorney Evans asked him what influence he had had in obtaining his appointment to an inspectorship. An argument followed over the relevansy of the testimony, and Evans said:

"It has been admitted by the president of Council that every city employe must have some influence to get a position. I want to know what that influence is?"

TOLD TO ANSWER

Herron said:

"I'd advise you to answer, young man. There's no harm in having friends among politicians."

The hearing was then adjourned at noon until 10 a. m. tomorrow.

That a four-year limit instead of the general two-year restriction imposed by the statute of limitations applies to city employes who may be found guilty of fraud, is the opinion of Assistant District Attorney Colvin.

This means that prosecution could be brought for offenses as far back as 1927, instead of being limited to incidents occurring since 1929, as had been supposed until District Attorney Andrew T. Park and Attorney Colvin recalled the statute which provides the longer period in the case of public officials.

The committee of five engineers who will review the technical evidence produced by the investigation dealing with increased quantities of materials in final estimates are to be appointed today by L. C. Edgar, president of the Engineers' Society of Western Pennsylvania. The men will be leaders in the profession and well versed in the conditions found in the Pittsburgh district.

HINES WARNS VETS OVER DEMANDS

Must Show Patriotism in Peace or Burdedns Upon U. S. Will Be 'Intolerable'

WASHINGTON, April 15.—(AP.)—Men who served in the World War were warned today by Veterans Administrator Hines that unless they show peace-time patriotism their demands for relief will place an "intolerable" burden on the government.

Addressing the annual Red Cross convention, Hines reviewed what had been done for former service men. Without referring to demands in the last Congress for full payment of adjusted compensation certificates or to the new law which permits World War veterans to borrow 50 per cent of a certificate's value, Hines said:

"It would seem to me further extensions merit study and deliberation. Veterans must manifest a peace-time patriotism in connection with further demands, comparable to that which brought them honor in the war, if the burden upon the government for their relief is not to become intolerable and reaction impair their cause.

REWARD FOR SERVICE

"If we are to teach our young men as a matter of principle that service to our country means that the government thereafter must reward that service, irrespective of need, then we are undermining the very foundation of good citizenship."

Hines said everyone is "proud of the fact that our government has been able to go so far in granting relief to our veterans, and the American people will make no complaint as to the cost of such relief provided these expenditures go to those who are deserving."

An "adequate" national relief policy, he asserted, should cover hospitalization, domiciliary care, employment preference, compensation for service-connected disabilities and allowances or pensions for permanent disabilities not attributable to military service.

CARE FOR WIDOWS

His program would include no monetary assistance to men not incapacitated, but would embody relief for widows and children left by disabled veterans.

Hines said about $13,000,000,000 had been spent for veterans' relief measures since 1789, of which around $5,000,000,000 has gone to World War service men. He added it was a safe prediction that by 1950 disbursements for veterans' relief will have reached $21,850,000,000—the cost of the World War.

Oil Man's Secretary Mum On $1,000,000 Bequest

BUTLER, Pa., April 15.—In a small frame dwelling in Karns City, 12 miles from here, lives Phoebe Perkins, white-haired and well over 50, who was made a millionairess yesterday by the will of the wealthy oil operator, George E. McGill, whom she served as confidante and secretary for many years.

Miss Perkins, the surviving member of her family, will discuss anything but her million dollars. The money has not changed her, however, for she does nearly the same amount of work and wears the same clothes as she did before. What she will do later, where she will go and how she will spend her money, just now concerns no one but Miss Perkins, she says.

Miss Perkins was born in her present residence. When she was 9, McGill, in his thirties, and broke, came to the town and made his home with the Perkins. In the years that followed he made and lost three fortunes in his hectic career as a pioneer oil operator.

With the death of Mrs. Perkins several years ago, the house was left to McGill on condition he would finance the necessary repairs. He did, and assumed ownership. When his will was read, it was learned the house, along with the greater part of his estate, was bequeathed to Miss Perkins.

Coolidge Sees Serious Menace in Illiteracy

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., April 15.

To the Editor of The Sun-Telegraph:

While education is almost entirely a local problem, the national government has long manifested a deep interest in it and encouraged it with official help and advice at some expense. The Department of the Interior, which has charge of it, is now headed by a university president, Ray Lyman Wilbur.

Mr. Coolidge

The draft during the war, the census of 1920 and of 1930 all reveal that we have a long way to go to eradicate illiteracy. Self-government is predicated on popular education. Often the privilege of voting is withheld from those unable to read and write. Ignorance cannot defend us in peace or war and has more and more difficulty in securing employment.

Earning a livelihood, voting intelligently, national defense, physical, mental and moral development, and even the cause of religion, depend on education. Without it there is no way to raise the material or spiritual standards of life.

About 4,000,000 adults in this country unable to read and write despite the heavy school costs are not only a menace but evidence of the failure of local government. If there is one thing more than another a citizen has a right to demand from organized society it is education.

TUNNEL DEATH QUIZ OPENS

CHICAGO, April 15.—(AP.)—Reports of crossed wires or carelessness on the part of a workman today were subjects of inquiry by Coroner Herman Bundesen, in his effort to find the cause of the sanitary district tunnel disaster which brought death to 11 men and serious injury to 16 others.

A coroner's jury, composed of Chicago business and professional men, sworn in last night, not only hoped to fix responsibility for the tragedy, but planned recommendations for the prevention of such accidents in the future.

The theory that a careless workman might have started the fire was advanced by Timothy J. Ryan, the contractor, who said there had been unconfirmed reports that a man had dropped a candle into a pile of sawdust and shavings near one of the tunnel bulkheads.

Meanwhile, Chicago set about to reward firemen who distinguished themselves in rescue work. Mayor Anton J. Cermak, phoning from Miami, ordered extra compensation for those whose heroism was noted. He plans to forward the names to the Carnegie Foundation.

Weather Conditions.

The eastern high pressure area remained nearly stationary during yesterday and last night, but diminished somewhat in pressure. It is maintaining clear skies over the Middle and North Atlantic states and caused some drop in temperature over that section. Low pressure areas are centered over Saskatchewan, in the Far Southwest and in the East Gulf, near Florida. As a result of these disturbances showers and thunderstorms were general over the central plains and the Upper Mississippi Valley states, with light rainfall and heavy rainfall in Florida. At Tampa 4.02 inches fell, mostly during last night.

Temperature changes were unimportant. It is somewhat cooler than yesterday over the East, and warmer in the central valleys.

CHICAGO GIRL MART RAIDED

CHICAGO, April 15.—(INS.)—Swooping down on a so-called "girl mart," which authorities say has catered to wealthy men for six years, detectives today seized a woman known as "Baroness Kuhewindt" and confiscated records and names of more than 35 girls.

Records seized include the names, photographs and telephone numbers of some 35 girls. All will be questioned, the state's attorney's office announced. A list of wealthy men was found by the raiders. These men will be questioned as well, it was announced.

SAN DIEGO, April 15.—(INS.)—With the defense announcing it will rest its case upon testimony already introduced, hearing of the "girl bazar" charges against Alexander Pantages, theatrical magnate, and four others was expected to be concluded here today.

Counsel for the defendants, Pantages, John P. Mills, Jesse Shreve, Olive Day and William Jobelmann, said they considered the prosecution evidence too weak to require combatting.

ALFONSO VISIT TO U. S. LIKELY

NEW YORK, April 15.—(INS.)—Don Alfonso de Bourbon, until yesterday His Majesty, the King of Spain, but now a private citizen, is certain to come to America soon, in the opinion of Frazier Hunt, well-known magazine writer, who obtained the last formal interview with the Spanish ruler. Mr. Hunt's interview appeared in the Cosmopolitan magazine in June, 1930. Mr. Hunt today said:

"King Alfonso told me that he would like very much to come to America, especially to attend the Chicago exposition in 1932, if he could travel as a private citizen. Now, in view of what has happened, I believe he will come here much sooner, possibly some time this year."

Mr. Hunt paid high tribute to the King's business ability. He said:

"He was a lot smarter than hundreds of Americans who were supposedly right on the job. He saw the big crash coming in Wall Street long before they did here in America apparently. He told me that he had sold all of his holdings—and they were very extensive—in July, 1929, several months before the market crashed.

"If any big American firms are seeking a smart foreign representative they would do well to try and obtain the services of Alfonso. He would make a great directing head for any organization. He has been able to make a lot of money for himself and he could do it for others."

ALFONSO BIDS SPAIN ADIEU

CARTAGENA, Spain, April 15.—(AP.)—"Viva Espana!"—Long live Spain—were Alfonso's words of farewell to the country which has acknowledged him as King since his birth, 45 years ago.

It was 4 o'clock this morning when the automobile bringing him, a cousin and the chief of the royal household from Madrid, arrived here, driving through the city by a circuitous route so as to avoid demonstrations. Only a few hundred persons saw the royal car and its escort of soldiers. Some of these cheered, others jeered.

Admiral Magaz, who was a member of Gen. Primo De Rivera's cabinet during the dictatorship, was here to greet Alfonso and remarked how much he felt about all that had happened.

Alfonso replied:

"I am continuing my traditions."

He lit a cigaret and stepped aboard a tiny launch waiting at the dock. The officers cheered and shouted:

"Viva Rey"—Long live the King!

Alfonso replied simply:

"Viva Espana!"—Long live Spain.

The little launch shoved its way out into into the bay, where the deposed King boarded the cruiser Principe Alfonso, for his trip into exile. At 4:35 a. m. the cruiser lifted anchor and sailed away to an unannounced destination.

Alfonso's Flight Compared With Kaiser's

BERLIN, April 15.—(INS.)—The Nationalist press of Germany, noting with regret the fall of the monarchy in Spain, compared Alfonso's flight to that of former Kaiser Wilhelm.

"Spain didn't lose the war, yet the last days of the Spanish monarchy peculiarly resemble those of imperial Germany in 1918," the Deutsche Tagezeitung said. "As in the Kaiser's case, the monarchy in Spain surrendered without resistance."

BRITAIN TO GIVE EXILES REFUGE

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service.

LONDON, April 15.—England, haven of dethroned royalty, opened its arms today to welcome the deposed King Alfonso, of Spain, and his temporarily homeless family.

While the route and destination of the royal exiles were being kept secret, it was regarded as extremely likely that the King and Queen and the various royal princes and princesses would seek and receive sanctuary in Britain.

There are close ties between the British throne and the members of the deposed Spanish dynasty. Queen Victoria is a niece of King George and was born in England. Because of this family tie, the King and Queen have been frequent visitors to these shores and have always received a hearty welcome.

CONSUL LACKS POWER HERE

The Spanish Vice-Consul in Pittsburgh, Senor Joseph S. Torriola, held office today without formal authority. He represented, officially neither monarchy nor republic and had no flag as he awaited official notice of Spain's change of government.

With an office in the Mellon Bank, he was saved the embarrassment of deciding what flag to hoist. But the old flag of the Kingdom of Spain had been laid aside.

Torriola said today that he will order the tri-color of the new republic as soon os he receives official confirmation of the fall of King Alfonso. The new flag will be of purple, red and yellow.

Alfonso's Premier Ordered Arrested

MADRID, April 15.—(INS.)—The arrest of Gen. Damaso Berenguer, former premier of Spain, was ordered by the provisional Republican government here today. He was reported fleeing to France. Berenguer was chosen by King Alfonso to head the government following the deposal of the late Gen. Primo De Rivera, who died in exile after six years of dictatorship.

of friends of the gala days at the palace and court favorites, the Queen broke down and sobbed pitifully as she was assisted by her two handsome daughters aboard the train.

The tragic events of the past week, while the ancient throne was tottering and royal lives were even thought to be in danger, had laid a heavy hand on the Queen.

Gen. Jose Sanjuro, regarded as Spain's bravest, toughest and most hard-fisted soldier, although a Republican, had asked to be allowed to see the Republican government's guarantees of safe conduct carried out, and he had chosen 25 picked men for the job. They rode in the express train to prevent any possible attacks on the royal family by extremists during the journey.

PEACE PREVAILS

Meantime, the new government announced that tranquility reigned now throughout all Spain. All expatriates have been invited to return to Madrid. The artillery, which was the first army corps to adhere to the revolution, arrived today to help in preserving order, but there was apparently no need for it.

Large throngs of people filled the streets again, continuing their joyous celebrations of yesterday The new government had decreed a national holiday and all business houses and schools were closed. Red, yellow and purple banners were everywhere. Royal statues had all either been thrown down or draped with the Republican colors during the night.

PRISONS OPENED

The prison gates of Barcelona, Valencia, Jaca and other Spanish cities were opened for thousands of political and revolutionary hostages incarcerated during the dictatorships of the last eight years, while crowds boisterously celebrated the death of the monarchy and the birth of the republic.

An automobile carrying the deposed monarch and his party from the palace at 9:30 last night had its blinds drawn, but from behind them Alfonso, who in his day has heard crowds cheer for him listened to the shouts of his subjects, chanting happily, like the yelling sections at an American football game:

"Now he is gone! Now he is gone!"

"We've thrown him out! We've thrown him out!"

Alfonso left behind with the Conde de Romanones, minister of state in the resigned Aznar cabinet, a manifesto containing his farewell to his people, to be kept secret until he is out of Spanish jurisdiction; and until it is published the terms of his agreement with Alcala Zamora and the republican leaders, may not be known.

While De Romanones considered himself honor-bound not to reveal its contents, political circles believed that it will make clear Alfonso's action was not a complete abdication of the throne for himself and his heirs. It was believed that it on the contrary would reveal a hope of some day returning to Spain in the event, say, that parliamentary elections should go monarchist.

COUNTRY ORDERLY

Although deferring formal induction into office as provisional president of the Spanish republic until today, Don Niceto Alcala Zamora took immediate charge of affairs from the moment shortly after 6 p. m., when he stepped before a microphone and announced to all Spain that the King had given in and that the republic was a fact.

His first decree ordered release of all political prisoners, his second one declared today a national holiday. Another deposed former Premier Gen. Berenguer's brother as captain general of Madrid and appointed a successor. Senor Alcala sat with his cabinet until early dawn, poring over the work which must be done to establish the new regime.

The minister of interior, Miguel Maura, speaking for him, declared that the government was prepared to use an iron fist to maintain public order. Although wishing to maintain a free press the new government will not tolerate seditious propaganda and will punish violations severely.

Respect for private property and religious creeds, determination to enlarge liberty in Spain and modification of the agrarian policy in order to aid the farmers, form the main points in the program of the new Republican government, as announced today.

The summoning of a constitutional Cortes, or parliament, also is included, although the date for this was not specified.

Spanish Ambassador To U. S. Will Resign

WASHINGTON, April 15.—(INS.)—Spanish Ambassador Padilla will tender his resignation to the head of the new government in Spain at once, he declared today. Members of the embassy staff will do likewise.

The embassy, however, will continue to function until the new government appoints a successor to Ambassador Padilla, it was said.

ANTI-DRY MOVE MADE IN HOUSE

HARRISBURG, April 15.—(AP.)—The stage was set for conflict between "dry" forces and "anti" forces in the House yesterday when the Federal Relations Committee reported for passage the joint resolution of Representative Sowers, Philadelphia, by which the Legislature would petition Congress to call a constitutional convention to repeal the Eighteenth Amendment. The action precipitated the first prohibition issue of the session.

The rural road bill, under which the state would take over 20,000 miles of township roads, was passed without a dissenting vote by the House, with all but two of the 208 members present. Representative Turner, who spoke against the bill, criticized the Department of Highways for its refusal to furnish detailed information regarding the cost of program by biennniums and against the mounting costs which the plan would impose upon the state ultimately.

The Senate reconsidered its previous action on the Salus child labor bill and passed it finally, 28 to 19. The bill changes the hours of minors under 16 from 51 to 48 hours a week; limits the daily working hours to eight instead of nine, and makes mandatory a 45-minute lunch period.

Municipal Water Bill Passes House

HARRISBURG, April 15.—(AP.)—The House of Representatives last night passed finally and sent to the Senate for concurrence in amendments the Harvey bill providing means for municipalities to take over water plants serving them. The vote was 116 to 58.

New City Manager Bill Proposed

felt that it might have won had the third class city provisions been dropped, while others who voted for it believed that certain amendments were necessary, such as making the controller an elective officer to furnish a check on the administration.

The vote split the Allegheny delegation and brought a number of Philadelphia votes into the Moore fold for the first time in the session. Trades on many promises were made, some proponents of the bill promising Philadelphia that its city manager measure would not appear if they supported the bill before the House.

Kline men are reported to have swapped pledges with promises of votes for bills ranging from "coon-hunting regulations to appropriations.

D. Glenn Moore, of Washington, sponsor of the measure, in opening the debate, explained that the measure was local option, that the city manager plan worked in 400 cities that it should be tried out in Pennsylvania. He added:

"The bill is sponsored by substantial groups in Pittsburgh. Civic groups and individuals have kept up a bombardment of letters in favor of it."

OPPONENTS SPEAK

The debate was continued by Representative Spangler, of York, a third-class city, who opposed the measure, and Matthew Dunn, of Pittsburgh, who, in objecting to its passage, criticized Pittsburgh newspapers for supporting it and not encouraging his 20 bills. He stated:

"It is not as important as the Pittsburgh newspapers would give you to realize."

Representative Braham, of Butler, spoke in support of the measure, saying the 30,000 people in his city would like to have the opportunity of expressing their choice on this form of government. He was followed by Representative Beyers, of Philadelphia, who attested that he thought the bill should be passed, even though it never became an issue in Philadelphia, he would bitterly protest its passage there.

ATTACKS 'FAULT FINDERS'

The attack by Dr. Steedle, who arranged the vote alignment to defeat the bill, followed. After reciting a preliminary history of the bill, in which he said it offered no better government and that the measure was shunted out of committee with opponents taken unawares, he added:

"Whoever the members of the Chamber of Commerce who pressed this bill may be, they form the type that is always finding fault, and always will, and never or rarely offer a remedy.

"All we ask of this House is that they leave us undisturbed. If the present form of government is good enough for the City of Pittsburgh, it is good enough for the rest of the state. We are satisfied with our form of government."

Representative Carmany, of Venango County, stated that most of the opposition came from individual politicians and not from organizations. He declared sentiment for city managership is not alone from the disgruntled, but from the highest type of citizenmen of interrity and position. He asked:

"I wonder if the gentleman from Allegheny County is not afraid of this bill. I wonder if Pittsburgh in getting a chance to vote on this bill, might show that it is just what the people would ask for?"

M. A. Musmanno, interrogating Moore, asked if he meant by "American in principle," that he favored local option.

Moore said:

"I do favor local option."

The House grinned.

Moore had opposed, several weeks ago, Musmanno's local option bill which, if passed, would put up to the people repeal of the Sunday blue laws. Musmanno voted for the manager bill.

U. S. Studies Spanish Republic Recognition

WASHINGTON, April 15.—(AP.)—The State Department, watching closely the replacement of the Spanish monarchy by a republic, today was giving thought to the question of recognizing the new regime.

There was no official indication, however, of what action the American government was likely to take.

PINCHOT SIGNS CHILD BILL

HARRISBURG, April 15.—Gov. Gifford Pinchot today announced that he had signed Senator William D. Mansfield's child labor bill, the Governor at the same time praised the measure, and stated:

"With very keen satisfaction I have just signed Senate Bill No. 179, which provides for double compensation to any child under 16, illegally employed, who is hurt in the course of his employment. While it does not affect a very large number of children, it recognizes a most important principle.

"This bill, I am delighted to say, had the support of both organized labor and of Senator Grundy. I regard its passage as an achievement of real importance for the children of the state."

Vote of County Delegation on City Manager

HARRISBURG, April 15.—The vote of the Allegheny County members of the House of Representatives on the city manager bill follows:

For—Carl C. Baldrige, Louis W. Hagmaier, M. A. Musmanno, Thomas W. Neely, George H. Soffel, William F. Stadtlander. Total, 6.

Against — William T. Bell, Clayton A. Dietrich, M. A. Dunn, Charles T. Gwyer, F. C. Gangloff, Samuel J. Grenet, Frank E. Hoffman, Joseph R. Lynch, P. J. Maloney, James H. McClure, George Metzler, Frank M. Reed, John A. Rhodes, Frank J. Riddle, James P. Rooney, Max J. Spann, Joseph J. Steedle, Arthur Storer, Walter E. Tucker, James Wettach. Total, 20.

Absent, Edward B. Goehring.

MOTOR FEE CUT BILL OFFERED

HARRISBURG, April 15.—(AP.)—The administration bill reducing automobile license fees by $5, cutting the operators' license fee from $2 to $1, and otherwise amending the vehicle code, was introduced yesterday in the House by Representative Sheffer, Mifflin.

Effective January 1, 1933, the amended law would require owners to submit their cars for inspection of safety factors before certificates of registration or transfer of registration would be issued.

Additional penalties would be imposed upon "habitual" violators who operate cars without licenses; trucks and commercial vehicles would be reclassified and jurisdiction of magistrates outside of Philadelphia would be increased to cover civil actions for damages up to $300 instead of $100, as now provided. The revised code would also prohibit "hitch hiking."

SENATE UTILITY PROBERS GIVE 3 REPORTS

Findings Reflect Split, None Gaining Majority; House Group Continues Inquiry

HARRISBURG, April 15.—With the Senate committee investigating utilities rendered impotent by politics and divided opinion, and its time limit expired, the utility and public service investigation centered today in the Moore House committee.

Two attorneys, as representatives of the Pennsylvania Electric Association, appeared before the Moore committee this afternoon and asked for a hearing for the electric industry next week.

In a prepared statement, the counsel, Charles H. English, of Erie, and A. M. Holding, of Westchester, declared the investigating committee was given a "false picture" of the electric industry. The statement said:

AFFECTS 2,000,000

"This industry is of great magnitude; its invested capital in Pennsylvania is in excess of $1,000,000,000; its customers have grown in number since 1914 from some 300,000 to more than 2,000,000; its securities outstanding in a greater sum than $800,000,000, are owned by tens of thousands of Pennsylvanian; its more than 25,000 employes, working and residing in the state, represent an annual payroll of over $44,000,000."

The statement asserted that studies have been made of the testimony and charts in the House committee by their own experts, and that "falacies of reasoning and errors of fact have been disclosed."

Meanwhile, senators were preparing to place bills carrying out some of the ideas of the various reports made last night in the Senate by the sub-committee of the judiciary general, which has conducted the investigation.

COMMITTEE SPLIT

No majority report was made, the big committee failing to record a majority for any of the three reports made.

Senator Earnest, chairman, made one, and Senators C. E. Buckman and George Weingartner, administration men, another. The third was by Senator George W. Woodward, of Philadelphia.

The first essentially provided that the power of appointing commission members be transferred from the Governor to the Superior Court, and asked the appointment of a commission from Senate, House and Superior Court, to continue an investigation. The Governor would not be represented in this, according to the Earnest report, although it was understood that half the committee at least had agreed in executive meeting that he should be requested to name some representative. These members were surprised to find the provision missing in the report made public by Earnest.

OTHERS DIVERGE

The second report differed radically from the first, but Woodward's also disagreed, asserting that the appointive power should be held by the Governor.

The Buckman-Weingartner recommendations as a whole are already incorporated in the Governor's fair rate board bill.

None asked openly that Public Service Commissioners J. S. Benn and Samuel Walker be refused confirmation by the Senate, although Woodward intimated a change would be welcome.

REPORTS NOT ACCEPTED

Strangely, and although acrimonious debate arose, Senators Buckman and Frank J. Harris clashing with Earnest and J. J. McClure, the Senate made no gesture as a body toward the reports.

Unless the stenographer records the reports as accepted and filed, they can easily be placed in a waste-paper basket. No motion for acceptance was made.

GAS WELL SALE RULE ARGUED

A decision in Common Pleas Court of Greene County that an assignment of an interest in the production of a gas well is a sale of real estate and must be in writing, as required by the statute of frauds, was the subject of argument before the Pennsylvania Superior Court yesterday on the appeal of Spencer H. Stockdale in his suit against Joseph Sellers for a partnership accounting in the sale of gas under a verbal agreement.

Other appeals argued all from Jefferson County, were: Antonia C. Spramelli against Borough of Punxsutawney, appellant; Ray H. and Nellie B. Richards against J. B. Stewart, appellant; Anna Morell against Buffalo and Susquehanna Coal and Coke Company, appellant, and Helen Lundberg, administratrix, against Edwin Povaird and others, appellants.

COUNTY BALKS AT $420 JOB

County commissioners have balked at paying a contractor $420 for work on the new county office building that they believe can be done by county employes.

Director N. F. Brown, of the Department of Public Works, advised the commissioners yesterday that county electricians had disconnected laboratory equipment in old City Hall and had it moved to the new building but that union rules forbid them to connect the fixtures at the new location.

Commissioner C. C. McGovern protested against paying a contractor to do the work and said: "If the union electricians on the county payroll can't do that work I am in favor of canning them."

Chairman Joseph G. Armstrong's motion was adopted authorizing him "to ask the union electricians employed by the county to come in and explain why they can't do the work."

NOTICE
Of Special Election for Increase of Indebtedness of the School District of the Borough of Springdale, Allegheny County.
INCREASE OF BONDED INDEBTEDNESS

Notice is hereby given to the Electors of the several Election Districts of the School District of the Borough of Springdale, County of Allegheny, that in accordance with the provisions of the Acts of Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, relating thereto and pursuant to a Resolution of the Board of Directors of the School District of the Borough of Springdale, County of Allegheny and Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, duly passed at an adjourned meeting held Saturday, April 4th, 1931, a special public election will be held in the said School District on Tuesday, the 19th Day of May, 1931,

Between the Hours of 7 O'Clock A. M. and 7 O'Clock P. M.

(eastern standard time) for the purpose of obtaining the assent of the qualified Electors to an increase of bonded indebtedness of said School District in the amount of $150,000.00

STATEMENT.

1. The amount of the last assessed valuation of the taxable property in said School District is $3,628,120.00.

2. The total amount of the existing debt in said School District is $82,1[illegible]5.85.

3. The amount of the proposed increase of indebtedness in said School District is $150,000.00.

4. The percentage of the proposed increase of indebtedness in said School District is 4.134 plus per centum of the last assessed valuation of the taxable property in said School District for school purposes, and together with the existing indebtedness would make a total indebtedness of 6.549 plus per centum of said last assessed valuation.

5. The purpose for which the indebtedness is to be increased is for the paying of balance on land heretofore purchased and the erecting, equipping and furnishing of a high school building thereon, which land is located on the east side of Colfax avenue in said Borough.

By order of the School Board of the School District of the Borough of Springdale, County of Allegheny, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

W. [illegible]. HAAS,

PLAN TO DROP BUTLER LINE OPPOSED

Towns Band Together in Fight Against Permit Petitioned by Receiver

Communities along the Butler Short Line today were banding together to fight the proposal to discontinue operation of the Pittsburgh, Mars and Butler Railways Company.

Hardly had Maurice R. Schariff, receiver, filed a petition in Federal Court yesterday seeking authority for abandonment, than municipal and civic authorities in the affected towns started a movement to battle for continuance of the line.

It was pointed out that some of the communities affected would be left without transportation if the petition was granted.

Scharff, appointed receiver April 6, said the company is being operated at a heavy financial loss and expenditures of money necessary to refinance the line would be unwarranted by the revenue to be derived, based on operating revenues for the past few years.

COURT GRANTS RULE

Instead of granting the petition, which sought the termination of operations at 11:55 p. m. tonight, the court granted a rule, returnable April 20, on the Public Service Commission of Pennsylvania, creditors of the company and the general public to show cause why the petition should not be granted. The receiver was instructed to post notice of the court rule in stations of the company, on street cars and in legal journals.

The railways, familiarly known as the "Butler Short Line," extend from Etna to Butler. The receivership resulted from an equity suit filed by the Harmony Short Line Railway, Bus and Land Company. Scharff said in his petition that he had made a personal inspection of the railway company's equipment, right-of-way and trackage, and found it to be unsafe to continue operation. He said to do so would risk lives of operating employes and the traveling public.

CITES REPAIR COST

He said that to put the equipment, roadbed and tracks in a reasonably safe condition it would cost approximately $141,119.37.

The petition set forth that gross revenues have steadily decreased the past few years and the business so far this year has dropped approximately 60 per cent, and the gross revenue is insufficient to meet the filed payroll. It recorded a revenue of $212,107 in 1929 and $158,338 in 1930, a decrease of 25 per cent.

Two Students Held In $250,000 Theft

NEW YORK, April 15.—(AP.)—Two youthful law students were arrested last night for the alleged theft of $250,000 in jewels from uptown apartments which, police said, they admitted having rifled while selling magazines.

The prisoners, who were charged with grand larceny, were booked as Morris Rozner, 24, and Leon Tiger, 23. The youths, detectives said, had confessed robbing between 200 and 250 homes.

Will Stage Comedy At Sacred Heart

BUNDLE DRIVE AID ASKED

Families throughout Pittsburgh were asked today by officials of the Goodwill Industries to aid in the three-day bundle day drive, which opened yesterday. At the headquarters, 2801 Liberty avenue, it was said that confusion apparently existed in some quarters as to where to take bundles. It was explained that bundles containing wearing apparel can be left at school buildings, where trucks of the association will pick them up today and tomorrow.

The clothing will be sorted at the Goodwill plant, repaired and distributed to needy families in the city.

Farm Federation Chief in Coatesville

COATESVILLE, Pa., April 15.—C. E. Wharton, of Kenton, O., president of the National Farm Council, Federation of Farm Clubs, will address farmers of this district tonight in connection with the drive for 500,000 new members of the organization.

Organization of farmers of the country into a political force, to be used more as a balance of power than a party, is the aim of the organization, which seeks legislation in favor of farmsrs and plans opposition to the chain stores.

YOU, TOO, CAN BE HAPPY AGAIN!

See What Konjola Did For These Former Sufferers—Read Their Words.

Mr. E. M. Van Pelt

An example of Konjola's power is seen in the experience of Mr. E. M. Van Pelt, 438 N. E. First avenue, Miami, Fla., who says: "I was badly run down from loss of appetite and constipation. I could not work for weeks at a time. Harsh laxatives gave but temporary relief. I took five bottles of Konjola and my appetite returned to normal. Constipation was corrected and I rapidly gained in weight and vitality."

No less significant is the experience of Mrs. Albert Freed, Brooks and Chestnut streets, Louisville, Ky., who says: "I was extremely nervous and lost weight and strength steadily. Rheumatism and neuritis bothered me and my stomach became weak. Konjola restored my stomach to normal and relieved the pain of rheumatism and neuritis. I gained 23 pounds and am in excellent physical condition today."

BERTH ON POLAR SUB GLADDENS SEAMAN, 23

Young Adventurer Quick To Seek Expedition Post; Would Go Without Pay

By HERMAN GIESKE

YONKERS, N. Y., April 15.—With all the impatience of youth, John R. Janson, 23, fretted and fumed for more than a year for fear he would fail to get a berth aboard the trans-polar submarine Nautilus.

Many others, no doubt, would hesitate and ponder long before voyaging under the Polar ice cap even with so renowned an explorer as Sir Hubert Wilkins.

When Janson first heard of the expedition, he was aboard ship in a South American port. That was in 1929. He immediately filed an application, citing his various qualifications.

WOULDN'T ASK PAY

Only a few days ago he gained his cherished wish, and this is how he feels about it:

"Why, this expedition is something new. Nothing like it has ever been imagined, except on the pages of fiction. I never asked about my rank or pay. I'd be willing to go without any pay at all—just for the chance to become a part of an adventure that will be one of the splendid pioneering exploits of all time."

Janson has a lineage that bespeaks courage and determination. His father, a native of Sweden, and one of a long line of seafaring men, emigrated to this country 35 years ago. His mother traces her ancestry to the original Gov. Bradford, of Massachusetts.

So Janson is both Puritan and Viking. His home is Chicago, where his mother, Mrs. Ella Janson, resides.

Janson began adventuring as a mere boy. He went aboard a merchant vessel of the Roosevelt line, and then signed up for five years in the United States Navy.

ENTERS SUB SERVICE

He served aboard the battleships Colorado and West Virginia, and from these huge ships went into the submarine service.

He was assistant engineer on the submarine S-40 in Tsing-Tau harbor, China, when the Chinese ship Tai-Ping capsized and sank. While 200 persons were drowned, the crew of the S-40 managed to save the lives of scores floundering in the water. For their heroism the crew of the S-40, Janson included, was commended by the military governor of Shantung Province.

Janson also saw service as member of a landing party guarding the American legation at Tsing-Tau during the Chinese-Japanese fighting at Tsinan in 1928. Besides that he found time to become a qualified diver, learning the art while stationed in Chinese waters.

TOUCH OF ROMANCE

Hence, though youthful, he's no novice either at adventuring, seafaring, or submarining, and his associates on the Nautilus have already come to have a very high regard for his abilities.

With the advent of Janson, real romance impinges itself on the Nautilus voyage.

There's a pretty auburn-haired girl in New York who will eagerly follow all the travels of the Nautilus and if all goes well, and John returns safely—they'll be married!

The actress was asked:

"How does it seem to be the wife of a world's champion or a former world's champion?"

"Really I don't know, because so far as I am concerned I never was married to Jack Dempsey, the champion, or the former champion.

MARRIED THE MAN

"I married Jack Dempsey, the man, the lover, the husband. That is how Jack has always seemed to me. He may have been the champion, outside some place and away from home, but when he entered the door of our house and closed it after him, all that part of his life was shut out.

"And now, that it's all over—what will I do?

"Well, for one thing, I'll have to get back to work in earnest, for I'll have my own way to make. I haven't done as much work in the last few years as I might have, or should have. I stayed rather close to home, despite what Jack says now.

"Look about you. This was Jack Dempsey's home. They even pointed it out from the nearest bus.

"And so, I thought that I should stay inside and make it a real home and one that Jack need not be ashamed to have pointed out as his. Why, I've scarcely been away from it for six years, except when Jack would be some place and would send for me to come to him."

Then going back to her future plans, Miss Taylor said that she might start soon in a picture or she might go to Europe for two months' study with her singing teacher, Madame Major.

DEMPSEY FISHING

RENO, Nev., April 15.—(AP.)—Opening of the fishing season diverted the attention of Jack Dempsey today from a divorce action he had announced he would file here. Dempsey and his manager, Leonard Sachs, indicated the former champion would agree to reconciliation only in the event his wife abandoned her career in the interests of home life.

Dempsey described reports he was interested in another woman as "absurd."

Butler Avoiding Trouble 'for the Time Being'

JENNERSTOWN, Pa., April 15.—(AP.)—Brig. Gen. Smedley Butler isn't saying much these days, that is, his utterances are not of the sort that will get him into trouble.

He said so himself in an address here last night. Quoting an old Chinese proverb to the effect that "If you tread softly, you walk further," Butler said he was following that course "for the time being."

The statement that 2,500 policemen unhampered by politics could clean up Chicago or any other large city was repeated by the former Philadelphia police head.

Inhabitants Return After Quake Fright

OAXACA, Mexico, April 15.—(AP.)—This city, deserted for a day, is gradually getting back to normal. Inhabitants took to fields in the outskirts before an earthquake was predicted.

JOHN D. STARTS $1,000,000 JOB

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., April 15.—(AP.)—John D. Rockefeller has started a $1,000,000 improvement plan at Pocantico Hills, it was announced.

Every house on the estate proper, excepting those tenanted by the Rockefellers, will be either razed or moved to Rockefeller lands outside of the fenced-in estate.

A group of eight houses are now under construction and at least that many more will be built. A $200,000 school is included in the program, half the cost to be paid by Rockefeller.

Construction of a large reservoir, which will eliminate a water shortage, is under way.

Chinese Found Slain In Laundry Room

BUTLER, Pa., April 15.—(AP.)—Yee Wing Lee, 56, a Chinese laundryman residing in this city for 10 years, was found dead late yesterday in bed in the rear of his laundry, with an ice pick driven through his neck from the back. The body was covered with blankets. It was not known how long he had been dead. The discovery was made by Constable J. Lawrence Keister.

State and city police said that to their knowledge Yee was last seen Saturday, when he was with another Chinese, said to be from Pittsburgh.

Clarence Darrow Goes Into Movies

CITY CREDITS TROLLEY FIRM

City Council today stood on record as putting $14,000, chargeable to the city as its share of payment on the reconstruction of a viaduct on Saw Mill Run boulevard in connection with the Pittsburgh Railways Company, on the trolley company's street assessment account.

This action was taken yesterday at Council's Finance Committee meeting on motion of Chairman W. Y. English.

A smaller item—$258—as a refund for rental paid the city, was given similar treatment.

Thomas Fitzgerald, vice president of the railways company, recently wrote Council, his concern was unable to pay its last quarterly assessment for 1930, amounting to nearly $75,000 for street repaving assessments, because of poor business conditions.

Mexican Captured In American's Death

MEXICO CITY, April 15.—(AP.)—Dispatches from Puerto Mexico to the newspaper Excelsior said police there had arrested Carlos Gomez and obtained from him a confession that he killed Neal Burrows, American oil company employe, near Puerto, Mexico.

The report said Gomez had confessed that he killed Burrows because the American would not give him a job. The body of the murdered man is to be sent to his home in Oklahoma.

Two Beautiful Ford Bodies

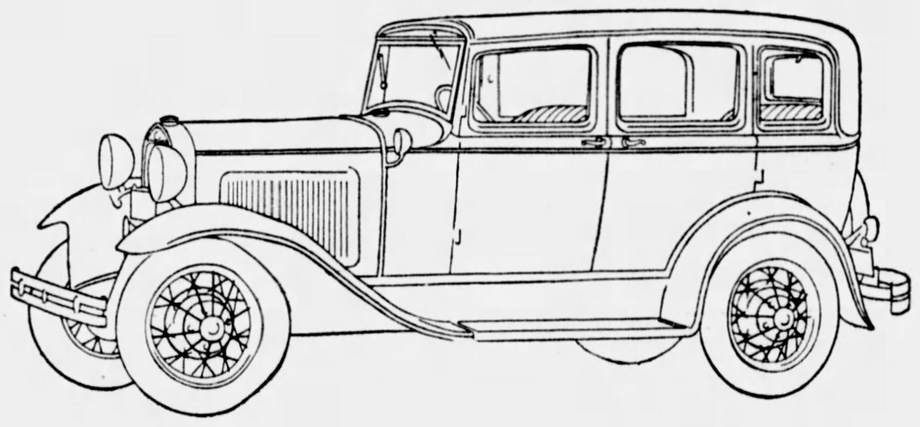
With De Luxe Appointments



★ THE NEW FORD TOWN SEDAN ★

Slanting Windshields ★ ★ Roomier Interiors

Luxurious Upholstery

NEW IN THIS CITY—new throughout the country—are the beautiful Ford Town Sedan and De Luxe Sedan with the slanting windshield. This week marks their first formal showing by Ford dealers.

The new, outward grace of line is just one feature. Of even greater importance are the richness of the interior finish and upholstery and the many provisions for your riding comfort.

Bodies are longer and finished in a variety of distinctive colors. Seats are newly designed, wider, more luxurious and restful. You will especially appreciate the added roominess of the rear compartment.

See and inspect these distinguished new Ford bodies and arrange for a demonstration. Every detail reflects the mode and manner of a custom-built automobile. Yet the price is low because of the efficiency and economy of Ford manufacturing methods.

Gastritis 4 Years. Gone Now! Feels Like New Man

"I received a sample package of your wonderful ACIDINE," says Douglass Terry of Chicago, Ill. "I had Gastritis four years. I am happy to say I feel like a new man. I have a sweet, pleasant taste in my mouth now."

Just another of thousands who are astonished at the way this new prescription ACIDINE succeeds when other known remedies fail. The reason is it is different from other medicines. ACIDINE contains Japtase, which, in laboratory tests, digested 800 times its own weight of certain heavy, starchy foods. ACIDINE neutralizes burning acid, soothes irritated stomach and intestinal linings, helps end acidosis.

Eat, drink all you want. When sour stomach, gas, pain, heartburn, bad taste, heavy feeling, short breath, dizziness, belching, nervousness, colds, gassy headaches and sleeplessness trouble you, take ACIDINE. Results guaranteed. If not delighted, maker refunds money. Get it from your druggist today.

Cooling System Forced Into Use At White House

WASHINGTON, April 15. — (AP.)—It's not only spring, it's summer at the White House.

The cooling system, installed in the President's offices after they burned on Christmas Eve, 1929, was put into action yesterday because of the heat.

The system takes in air from a secluded spot on the White House lawn, washes it and cools it and pumps it into the various offices.

MAN INDICTED AS BANDIT DIES

Walter Campbell, 26, of 346 Renfrew street, under indictment for holding up a driver of the Pittsburgh Motor Bus Company, March 24, on the Oakmont-Verona road, died at his home yesterday of pneumonia. Campbell, although indicted, had never been identified properly in connection with the crime, according to county detectives.

Campbell and James Sinclair, of Oakmont, were arrested after the holdup of Charles Martsolf, the bus driver. Sinclair, it was charged, pointed a gun at Martsolf and bound and gagged him.

Postmaster Named In Blair County

WASHINGTON, April 15. — (AP.)—Clarence R. Dixon was appointed by the Postoffice Department as postmaster at Mines, Blair County, Pa., succeeding John Dixon.

NEW U. S. AGENT IN CHARGE HERE

F. X. Fay, of the Bureau of Investigation, Department of Justice, arrived from Washington and assumed charge of the Pittsburgh office, headquarters of the bureau for Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia. He succeeds C. L. Keep as agent in charge of the special agents in this district. Fay has been in the service nine years with his post of duty at Washington.

Whether Keep, who has been agent in charge here for six years, will continue here was not made public. Fay said the change had no special significance as it is customary to make changes in the personnel of district offices.

ERIE RUM MAN GETS YEAR

Meyer Gold, 38, of Erie, a self-confessed bootlegger, was sentenced by Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker to serve a year and a day in the Atlanta Penitentiary for conspiring to violate the prohibition law.

Gold was tried at Erie, in September, 1929, the jury failing to reach a verdict. Listed for retrial at the March term of court at Erie, he entered a plea of guilty.

Several other defendants named in the indictment have pleaded guilty and received jail sentences or fines.

Big Town Faces Drought

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

For the first time in its slightly disputed history, New York faces a water shortage.

Nobody knows who discovered this amazing abbreviation.

But it's a well absorbed proverb that you never miss the water until the mill's been raided.

Water now assumes the importance of a chemical formula and will be almost as important as gin in a bathtub.

With 30,000 speakeasies and creep joints in Manhattan we never thought of a drought.

But if there had to be a drought we all hoped it would be water.

And it is. The first conservation, as usual, will be in drinking water.

Civic thrift has not yet demanded the chartering of a once-a-year-bath club.

But we don't doubt that it exists even if it is a secret organization.

We talked over this club with Walter Winchell and he claims to know some members of it.

But, of course, he gets around more than we do.

There isn't much we can do about a water shortage except build more reservoirs.

Reservoirs aren't beautiful. But they are nice for home guards to march around in times of national stress and peril.

Not that water plays an important role in metropolitan hospitality. We can take you for a whirl through the Roaring Forties and guarantee that you will never miss it.

But we need water. A man has to have some reason for carrying an umbrella.

Porches Collapse as Man Takes Exercises

CHICAGO, April 15.—(AP.)—Curtis Sleeper pushed a couple of porches off his chest and decided that there must be something wrong about all the agitation for getting next to nature.

Sleeper, who lives in a third floor apartment, walked out on his porch to attend to his deep breathing exercises when the floor collapsed. The second floor porch also gave way. When firemen found him on the first floor he had both porches piled about him.

His injuries were slight.

All In A Day

By Mark Hellinger

Unsung New Yorkers

NEW YORK, April 15.

WHEN IT COMES to a man's ambitions, there's no accounting for tastes. Some youths have an idea they'd like to be civil engineers. Others imagine the last word in happiness would come as baseball players. Still others have the silliest ambition of them all. They would like to become columnists.

Well, this particular piece is about Harry, a boy with a consuming ambition. Not as a columnist. But in a field that is one of the most dangerous and underpaid in all the world. For some reason best known to himself, Harry wanted to be a fireman.

There are lots of men like that, you know. Some of the most influential men in New York are fascinated by fire—and I don't mean flames of the Peggy Joyce type, either. There's one millionaire in our fair town who has a complete alarm system in his bedroom. At a second alarm anywhere in the city at any time of the year, the wealthy gent will leap from his warm bed and drive rapidly to the scene. And why not, if he likes it? Let him enjoy himself, says I.

But the gentleman of whom we write here had no millions at his disposal and had no earthly chance of getting a special alarm system in his bedroom. As a matter of fact, he was the son of poor parents in a fairly large Long Island town. And he was lucky to have even the bedroom.

So, as a kid, Harry did the next best thing. When the fire engine passed he followed it to its destination. When school was out he could always be found around the town's firehouse. When one of the firemen would send him on an errand Harry was perilously close to seventh heaven.

The firemen often discussed him.

"Great kid, that Harry," said a young fireman. "His one ambition is to be a fireman."

An older one nodded. That had once been his ambition, too.

"Fool," he murmured . . .

When they permitted Harry to become a volunteer fireman in his home town, the boy was filled with elation. It wouldn't be long now until he would be able to take an examination and become a real fireman; a member of the brigade he had worshiped all his life.

Meanwhile, sadly enough, he had to work. He obtained a job as a bus driver along a route that took him through five Long Island towns. He grew to know many of his passengers. And as he drove he'd often lean back and talk to one of them. His conversation was always the same.

"This job is only temporary," he would say. "Oh, sure. I'm just filling in here. I'm taking the examination, you know. Oh, sure.

"That's a real job. Excitement. Danger. Romance. And all the while you're getting paid for it. Sure. I've always figured that a guy should do the thing in life that he wants to do. And if he can get paid while he's doing it I don't see how he can ask for very much more. Do you?"

Everything went fairly well with Harry's career as a bus driver until a succession of fires broke out in that neighborhood. The engine passed his bus one afternoon when the machine was filled with passengers. The boys waved to him as the engine flew by.

Harry saw the engine turn off the main road. In the distance he saw a cloud of smoke. He wet his lips.

Suddenly he applied the brake. "Everybody out," he cried loudly. "Everybody out!"

There were cries of protest from the passengers. They wanted to know what the big idea was.

"There's something wrong with the machine," said Harry nervously. "The load is too heavy, or something. I'll have to test it. It's dangerous this way."

The crowd stepped out. Harry threw the bus into gear again. Off he went up the side road in the direction of the smoke.

There were two fires that day. One happened to the house with the smoke. The other happened to Harry when he finally brought his bus back to the garage. . .

After that Harry did no work until it was time to take the examination for a fireman's job. And I don't want you to get the idea that this boy was shiftless and just no good. Far from it. It was simply that this one thing had become an obsession with him. Nothing else seemed worthwhile.

The examination finally took place. Harry was nervous and frightened. He was not at his best by any master of means. And when it was over, he returned to his home town firehouse on the verge of turning into a mental wreck.

It was weeks before the report would come along. Harry grew thinner and thinner. He sat with the firemen and bit his fingers nervously.

"Do you think I've passed the exam?" he would inquire. "From what I've told you, do you think I'll pass?"

The boys would try to encourage him.

"Sure you've passed," they would say. "Anyway, what's the use of worrying? Forget it for a while and think of something else."

Harry would drum his fingers.

"I think I didn't do so well on that third question," he would mutter. "Doesn't that count against you very much?" . . .

At noon on a rainy day the report came. Harry walked about with the letter in his pocket for an hour, before he finally opened it. Then, with a prayer on his lips, he tore the letter from the envelope.

The message was very simple. Harry had failed . . . .

Harry said nothing to anyone. He didn't go near the firehouse. Instead he walked through the remainder of the day. For mile after mile. Through rain that pelted down on him. Through fields that were wet and soggy. What was going on in his mind, I need not tell you here. For him, I imagine, life was just about over.

The boy evidently reached that decision about midnight. For he walked back to that Long Island town, visited his home and then went over to the firehouse. Most of the men were asleep upstairs. One man sat in a corner reading.

"Anything new about the exam, Harry?" he asked.

"No," said Harry. "Nothing new."

The boy walked to the rear of the building. There he found a fireman's uniform. Making so little noise that the man in the front heard no sound, he donned the uniform. He crawled into a cot and placed the helmet over his heart.

And then, a few seconds later, he blew out his brains. . . .

The local reporter was soon around to investigate. In his haste to get the story to the New York paper that might take his stuff, the reporter didn't investigate thoroughly. Thus, ironically enough, the papers carried the following line the next day:

"Long Island Fireman a Suicide."

Funny how those things go. Death fulfilled an ambition that life wouldn't grant him. . . .

Dear Mr., Miss or Mrs.
Try a fresh cigarette!

THAT LITTLE STING way down in the throat when you inhale a cigarette is caused by parched dry tobacco. You never feel it when you smoke fresh, prime Camels. The Humidor Pack keeps Camels from drying out or going stale. That's why they are always so cool and mild, so throat-easy. Blended from choicest Turkish and mellowest Domestic tobaccos and kept in tip-top prime condition by an air-tight wrapping of moisture-proof Cellophane, Camels are mighty hard to leave once you have tried them. If you don't believe it, switch to Camels for one whole day, then quit them, if you can.

COOLIDGE SEEN AS SPEAKER

WASHINGTON, April 15.—(AP.)—Calvin Coolidge was suggested today, perhaps seriously, as a "dark horse" candidate for the speakership of the House to succeed Nicholas Longworth.

Representative Johnson (Rep.), South Dakota, said there is no constitutional mandate that the House elect a speaker from its own membership, though such always has been the custom. Johnson said:

"It looks like there might be a deadlock in the closely divided House lasting for weeks. Anything might happen. If we cannot agree on a colleague why not go outside?"

"There are plenty of prominent men who could be selected, such as former President Coolidge."

The Constitution gives the House the right to choose its "speaker and other officers." A majority of the House could make an outsider speaker.

DUNLAP DELAYS CYCLE ORDER

A delay in securing new motorcycles for the Police Bureau will result from the business failure of the Henderson Motorcycle Company, Col. W. R. Dunlap, director of the Department of Supplies, announced today.

When Dunlap advertised for more than 60 new machines for the police the Henderson Company's representative here submitted the low bid, which was accepted. Before delivery was made Dunlap learned that the Henderson Company had gone out of business.

Feeling that the motorcycles which were available would have little trade-in value, Dunlap appeared before Council yesterday and asked permission to readvertise. It was also pointed out by the director that parts for the machines would be hard to obtain.

Council instructed him to prepare a new resolution for permission to readvertise.

REARRESTED IN GORDON DEATH

NEW YORK, April 15.—(AP.)—Further difficulties were in prospect today for Harry Stein, small-time racketeer, who is now under indictment for first degree murder in the killing of Vivian Gordon.

He appeared in Bronx homicide court yesterday to answer an affidavit charging him with suspicion of homicide. Since the affidavit had been superseded by the indictment of the Bronx County grand jury, it was dismissed. Stein was immediately rearrested on the indictment and taken back to his cell.

While Stein was in court a woman appeared at the office of the district attorney to accuse him of attack and robbery. As a result, it was said at the district attorney's office today, the New York County grand jury will be asked to return another indictment. Authorities concealed the identity of the latest accuser by the use of a fictitious name and address.

Aerial Cameras Get Ancient City Scenes

NEW YORK, April 15.—(AP.)—Aerial cameras have virtually rediscovered the ancient city of Chan-Chan, crumbled capital of South America's oldest civilization, the American Geographic Society was informed by Robert Shippee, co-leader of the Shippee-Johnson Peruvian expedition, in reports from Lima.

Aerial exploration of the stronghold of the Yuncas, a race ancient before the time of the Incas, promises to reveal details which have escaped the eyes of explorers on foot.

WORKER SAVED FROM LAKE

Saved from drowning by the heroism of two fellow workmen, Armand Palmerini, 25, of 2523 Fifth avenue, a workman employed in the construction of the new swimming pool in Carnegie Lake, Highland Park, is completely recovered today.

During lunch hour yesterday the boat in which Palmerini and a companion, Lombard Narde, of 1320 Pioneer avenue, were riding capsized. Heavily booted, Palmerini went to the bottom in 12 feet of water. He came to the surface after removing his boots.

Both men were unable to swim, but Narde succeeded in holding Palmerini until Robert Becker, 23, of 121 Tecumseh street, in another boat, made the rescue.

Dorothy Mackaill Cast As One of Rivals in 'Rival Wives'

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1931, by Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, April 15.

First National is plotting to make Dorothy Mackaill a secretary again.

Instead of Thompson Buchanan's play, "As Good As New," the studio has chosen "Rival Wives" for the star's next picture. It is a story by Ann Austin about a secretary who married her boss on the rebound and later has to compete with a repentant first wife.

For the moment, Dorothy doesn't have to worry about makeup, dialogue or getting down to early calls at the studio. She is vacationing in Honolulu, where she has commuted regularly since her location trip to Hawaii with "The Barker" company.

Miss Mackaill

TO THE POINT

Gene Biscailluz, under-sheriff of Los Angeles County and good friend to many film people, tells the story of a small upstate courtroom in which a sign has been posted:

"This court is a place where justice is dispensed with."

LATEST GOSSIP

Another French style expert is in town. She is Countess Valentine de Tukine, who has an establishment in Paris, and who has done work on Paramount productions in Europe. American methods of designing, contends the Countess, are much superior to those of Europe. She refers to sketching designs instead of draping them on models . . . There are still a few holdovers from the days of musicals. Michael Bartlett, a singer, was brought out here from New York a year ago and has been under contract to Fox and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer ever since. He hasn't worked a day. . . . If it didn't do anything else, the Warner raid on Paramount talent made the studio appreciate its remaining stars. Dick Arlen has just received a new contract at a handsome advance in salary. . . . Speaking of contracts, R-K-O has offered to sign Mae Murray up for a long term.

Richard Arlen

And Willard Mack has affixed his name to a four-way contract at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. He will act, write, do dialogue and direct.

LOT IN STORE FOR HER

As the author of "Ex-Wife," "Strangers May Kiss" and "A Gentleman's Fate," Ursula Parrott is waited with interest in Hollywood.

She is due here tomorrow to write the screen story and dialogue for "Love Goes Fast," her latest book to head for the screen.

Samuel Goldwyn reveals this is to be Gloria Swanson's next picture for United Artists. Apparently, the "Rockabye" deal is off for keeps. Gloria owns the story anyway and can make it any time she wishes. It may be she will get independent financing and produce it before the Parrott novel.

Fast P. R. R. Train Derailed, Man Hurt

BUFFALO, N. Y., April 15.—(AP.)—Eight cars on the International Express, Pennsylvania passenger train bound from Buffalo to Washington and other eastern cities, left the rails at 11:55 o'clock last night a mile north of the village of Delevan, in Cattaraugus county. None was killed. J. A. Markert, of Renovo, Pa., brakeman, suffered a broken leg.

None of the 45 passengers on the train was injured. The cars plunged from the tracks, but all remained upright. The locomotive remained on the rails. Railroad officials said a broken rail caused the accident.

Plays, Players and By-Play

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Lew Leslie's new musical coloration, "Rhapsody in Black," will be on view next week in the Alvin, with Ethel Waters, Pike Davis' orchestra, Valaida and Cecil Mack's choir. Dark days ahead—but light entertainment. The b. o. boys will be on hand as early as 9 tomorrow to chair you up.

* * *

The war used to get blamed for everything amiss — now it's the movies that catch it.

Dorothy Lord has been engaged by George Sharp for a part in "Strange Interlude," which will be offered in the Pitt following "Death Takes a Holiday," the current bill, which, as the critics say, is electrifying.

* * *

The news statement that the salary of a certain popular actress of the screen is that of a great captain of industry, has a scandalous sound.

A chorus of three-score will work like 60 to make "What's Up" appear on the up and up on the Nixon stage next week. It's a musicom to be done by the boys of the Pitt Cap and Gown Club for six gala nights and one gala matinee—all without gayels.

Gag

At the Mayor Walker testimonial dinner given by the Jewish Theatrical Guild, Harry Hershfield told the one about the palooka fighter whose manager kept yelling:

"Hit the big bum, the big stiff, the big tramp! Hit him good!"

But the "big bum" proved to be the better walloper during the first two rounds, handing the palooka a sweet pasting. When the third round began, the manager again yowled:

"Don't mind that big bum, hit that tramp!"

When the palooka got into a clinch he turned to his manager and cried:

"Cut it out, will yuh? He's beginning to hit me for you, now!"

Merciless Truth

Hershfield also comforted the Mayor by reminding him that only a friend can become an enemy—a relative is one from the start!

Oop!

George Jessel, the Guild's first-rate toastmaster, has no patience with feeble speechmakers and always crushes them with a squelch when they flop. At the dinner to the Mayor, Jessel stifled several false alarms—and then after getting a loud laugh at their expense, he turned to the victim and said:

"I'm only kidding."

However, Howard C. Kelly evened up matters for all concerned when he called Jessel "one of Gus Edwards' juvenile delinquents."

You've Met the Type

(From "Moon Over B'way.")

Two wives, whose pet hobby is squandering their husband's money, were waiting for some one to open the door of a new gambling house. Said the first:

"I hear that the wheel here is crooked."

The other cautioned:

"Sh-h-h, they might not let us in!"

Heheheh

Harry Merer wonders what we all are coming to. He writes:

"I've just seen my neighbor's husband with another loaf of bread; and I'll bet they haven't a drop of whisky in the house."

O, Mr. Wilstach!

Suggested for the simile dictionary: John Broughan's: As eloquent as a bushel of alphabets . . . Ted Cook's: As obscure as last year's Miss America . . . Russell Crouse's: As unlikely as finding "old age" on a gangster's death certificate . . . Chauncey W. Keim's: All balled up like a pool table . . . Noel Coward's: Women are like gongs—they should be struck regularly . . . Bugs Baer's: Her face looked like an overstrung ukulele, and the Pathfinder's: As hard to slam as a revolving door.

Newspaperman Stuff

Editor and Publisher tells of the thoughtful editorship displayed by the Miami Daily News when the news of Rockne's death reached the town. The paper had just gone to press and the editor had replated. Newsboys were calling the extra on the street when the word came that Mrs. Rockne had just been seen entering a department store.

The managing editor immediately decided that she must be protected from the shock of hearing her husband's death cried out by newsboys so he assigned several reporters to the store. The boys were silenced until Mrs. Rockne reached home, where she received the news.

The Vienna Manner

I. Kaye Davis, an ambitious playwright, thinks the critics conspire against him. Once he publicly announced that his plays failed because the critics "went into a huddle" between acts and plotted against him.

Recently one of his pieces was produced in Vienna, where one critic shouted his protest over the production from his seat. The critic yelled:

"It is an outrage to make people see such a show. I am leaving immediately."

The show closed that eve, before the critics' reviews appeared, so some of us are wondering how Mr. Davis will explain that.

In Fewer Words

MUSIC

Mendelssohn Choir

Carnegie Music Hall

The Mendelssohn Choir, with Ernest Lunt directing, sang two brilliant choral works for their closing concert in Carnegie Music Hall last night. Kodaly's "Psalmus Hungaricus" had its first hearing in Pittsburgh, and the beautiful "Dream of Gerontius" of Elgar, confirmed all previous impressions of its importance as a major choral work of the present century.

Mr. Lissfelt

All the bitter suffering of Kodaly's native Hungary is in this magnificent prayer. As a basis for his work the composer uses the Fifty-fifth Psalm, a most eloquent plea for his people. Though written comparatively recently, the music is easily comprehensible, though a most difficult task for singers on account of its varying rhythms and distressing intervals. For the solo tenor, the vocal line is no less a trial; it is music of unrest, colorful and full of revolt.

In the Elgar oratorio the long solo parts for tenor and soprano are a never-ending source of surprise; in less skilful hands they might have been fatiguing, but Elgar has found the secret of declamation in music and bides his time for climax. In spite of the length of the work, a constant flow of dignified melody binds the choral numbers, and the poetic text of Cardinal Newman contributes no small share to the force of the music.

The tenor, Dan Gridley, did a masterly interpretation of his solo work in both the Kodaly and Elgar music. His voice is highly dramatic, has splendid ring and clarity, and was admirably adapted for both the prayer and in the singing of his credo in the "Dream." Helen Baird has a pleasant voice, but she is hardly equipped for the strenuous demands of Elgar's "Angel." Edward Williams substituted at the last hour in the part of the "Priest" and showed good understanding of the score.

The choir, with the exception of several outbursts on the part of the sopranos, and seeming fatigue towards the end of the concert, sang with its well-known brilliant tone. It sensed the meanings of the Elgar music more deeply than the tragic spirit of the Hungarian music.

Earl Mitchell was his usual capable self at the organ.

J. FRED LISSFELT.

HOOVER TO STAY IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, April 15.—(AP.)—President Hoover probably will spend his entire summer in Washington, keeping his week-ends free of engagements, however, for trips to his Rapidan fishing camp.

In making this announcement at the White House today, officials said present indications were that Mr. Hoover would not take his proposed trip through the National parks and that he had no inetntion of establishing a summer White House at his home in Palo Alto, Cal.

He will go to Marion, O., to dedicate the Harding Memorial on June 16. He will also make an address before the Republican Editorial Association at Indianapolis and one dedicating the Lincoln tomb at Springfield, Ill., on the same trip. He plans to return to Washington after the Springfield speech.

Proprietor Held, 5 Guests Fined

Carl Moore, 28, was held for court on a charge of violating the Snyder act, in Center Avenue Police Court today. Magistrate Leo Rothenberg characterized Moore's place in Logan street as "the worst dive on the Hill." Five men arrested as visitors were fined $5 each.

Difficult Marriages Easy Divorces Urged

WASHINGTON, April 15.—(AP.)—Making marriage more difficult, divorce easier, was urged today by Prof. Albert J. Jacobs, of Columbia University, before the General Council of the National League of Women Voters.

REAL ESTATE

The convention committee of the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board, headed by R. L. McKallip, is preparing plans for the annual convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards to be held from May 27 to 30 in Baltimore. The committee is also arranging entertainment for delegates from western cities who will stop over in Pittsburgh en route to the convention.

Among local realtors who will have an active part in the activities of the convention is Roy R. Cappe, president of the local board. Cappe is a member of the Mortgage and Finance Division of the national association and also a member of the nominating committee. J. W. Cree, Jr., president of the Pennsylvania Real Estate Association and a past president of the Pittsburgh board, will represent Pennsylvania in the state's council meetings. L. T. Stevenson, former president of the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board and a director of the national association, is a member of the executive committee the day before the convention convenes.

McKallip is being assisted in making arrangements by the following men: R. T. Mackintosh, H. Chidester, O. W. Heselbarth, Howard E. Campbell, Charles W. Flynn, George A. Alsop, Philip Huss, C. C. C. Stotler, Robert F. Morris, Jr., H. A. Kenan, Mark Quinn, William Weiss, Donald Slocum, J. A. Elton, C. Edward Kock, William McCune, Thomas McCaffrey, Jr., E. Herbert Glig, R. S. Ellis, LaSalle Girts, E. C. Brainerd, William Maisch, I. Leonard Aronson, H. R. Haines, P. H. Johnston, H. A. Murphy, E. P. Griffiths, J. Meryl Silk, J. C. Wilson, William C. Short and R. A. MacDowell.

An improved property in Ridgefield avenue, Mt. Lebanon, has been deeded by Henry J. Mahr to Charles S. Wardley for $19,000. The lot measures 16x175 feet.

William Crawford has conveyed to Verino Monto the deed to a property 30x90 feet in Frazier avenue, Stowe Township, for $5,300.

A property in Sherman avenue, Wilkinsburg, has been conveyed by Frank H. Davis to Robert J. McCune for $6,900. The lot is 30x123 feet.

Applications for building permits follow:

First Ward—Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, alterations, Second avenue and Tenth street, $5,000.

Fourth Ward—A. U. Purnell, addition, Bayard and Neville streets, $2,500.

Fourteenth Ward—A. J. Glockler and P. Guck, brick dwelling and garage, 5655 Forward avenue, $4,000.

Twenty-seventh Ward—American Bolt and Last Company, alterations, Doerr street, $8,500; C. A. Crowe, brick extension, 3463 Shadeland avenue, $800.

Mate Gets Estate Of Lillian Leitzel

NEW YORK, April 15.—(AP.)—Alfredo Codona, aerialist, was left the entire estate of his wife, Lillian Leitzel Codona, trapeze artist, in her will, filed yesterday. Miss Leitzel died in Copenhagen, Denmark, February 15 last, following a fall. The estate was listed as "more than $10,000."

FAKE CHARITIES WARNING GIVEN

The Department of Public Welfare and the Welfare Fund today issued warnings to the public to use precautionary measures against charity racketeers. Mrs. Enoch Rauh, director of the Department of Public Welfare, said:

"Pittsburghers asked to contribute to alleged welfare and relief organizations can ascertain the validity of such requests by calling the Department of Public Welfare to learn whether the solicitation has been authorized by registration under a city ordinance required of worthy charities."

The Welfare Fund urges citizens to temper generosity with judgment and to exercise caution in contributing to individuals and organizations with doubtful authorization. A study is now being made in order to clear the streets of beggers who should appeal to social agencies for help.

GETS 20 YEARS FOR BOAT FIRE

Robert Taylor, 36, Negro, of Somerset street, pleaded guilty in Criminal Court today to firing the Greater Pittsburgh excursion boat, once known as the Homer Smith, and was sentenced to 20 to 40 years in the Western Penitentiary under the habitual criminal act.

When Judge George V. Moore asked why he fired the boat, at an estimated loss of $100,000, Taylor replied:

"Just for a thrill."

It was brought out that Taylor recently served a sentence for firing a railroad car.

REFUEL FLIERS FORCED DOWN

JACKSONVILLE BEACH, Fla., April 15.—(AP.)—Walter Lees and Frederic Brossy, Detroit airmen, seeking a world's non-refueling endurance record in a Diesel-motored plane, were forced to land shortly before 11 a. m. today, failing by slightly more than two hours to equal the present record.

The fliers were forced to land because of squally weather, with indications that it would not improve soon.

They sought to break the world's non-refueling endurance record of 74 hours and 23 minutes, held by Lucier Bossourot and Aime Rossie, of France.

Ad Club to Hear 'Ambrose J. Weems'

Raymond Knight, known to thousands of radio fans as "Ambrose J. Weems," will speak at the annual banquet of the Pittsburgh Advertising Club in the William Penn Hotel, April 30. The banquet will climax the fourth annual exhibit of Pittsburgh advertising which will be climaxed by the club in the hotel during the last four days of April. Several thousand pieces of advertising originating in Pittsburgh will be shown. Nationally known advertising authorities will judge the exhibition and award certificates of merit.

Mr. Knight

These sixteen signposts guide you to lasting satisfaction

Here is the unerring way for you to choose lasting refrigeration satisfaction. The Standard Rating Scale prevents the all-too-frequent error of getting off on a side road by mistaking superficial features for true value.

With this unmistakable guide at hand, we need not tell you why Kelvinator should be your choice. We merely ask you to apply these searching tests and form your own opinion. Come in and let your own good judgment lead you directly to Kelvinator for the simple reason that it is a better long-time investment.

• STANDARD RATING SCALE for Electric Refrigeration

- Is the refrigerator manufactured by a reliable company with proper experience in the electric refrigeration field?
- Has it plenty of food and shelf space?
- Is the cabinet itself well designed, sturdily built and properly insulated?
- Is there provision for the freezing of an adequate supply of ice cubes? (Quantity of ice rather than number of cubes, which may be of large or small size, should be taken into consideration).
- Will the refrigerator constantly maintain a proper temperature for the preservation of foods?
- Can the freezing of ice cubes and desserts be speeded up when the need arises?
- Can this extra freezing speed for ice cubes be had without affecting the temperature on the food shelves? (Too low a temperature on the shelves will, of course, injure food).
- Is there a place to keep ice cream, meat, fish, game, "quick frosted" foods or extra ice cubes indefinitely at a below freezing temperature?
- Are these various temperatures (a. extra fast freezing; b. fast freezing; c. below freezing for storage; and d. normal food preservation temperature) automatically maintained without any attention from the owner?
- Does the refrigerating unit operate often or infrequently? (The fewer "stops" and "starts" the longer the unit will last and the less it costs to run).
- How long will the cooling unit continue to cool the refrigerator even though the current is shut off? (Refrigeration should continue for 10 or 12 hours).
- Can the back parts of all shelves, even the lowest, be reached without kneeling or sitting down?
- Has provision been made for keeping vegetables fresh and crisp?
- Can the refrigerator top be used to "set things down for a moment" while the contents of the cabinet are being re-arranged?
- Will the refrigerator add to the attractiveness of the kitchen?
- Has the experience of users over a long period of years proved the refrigerator long-lived and dependable?

FOR YOUR INSPECTION

THE MERCHANT and manufacturer who advertise, actually are placing their merchandise before you for inspection. They invite your most critical attention and an uncompromising comparison. And their advertisements, so to speak, say to their products: "We have introduced you to the public—now stand on your own merits."

If the manufacturer and merchant did not have confidence in their wares, they would hesitate to call attention to them. For advertising rigidly tests the maker, the seller and the merchandise. Business so tested, and found not wanting, is prosperous.

In the long run, you can depend on the man who advertises as well as on his product. That is one reason why people have found that it pays to read advertisements.

It is through advertising that the excellent things of the world are brought to the attention of those who are seeking for the best and most economical way to spend their money.

Read the advertisements. They are news.

THEOSOPHIST TO LECTURE

L. W. Rogers, national president of the American Theosophical Society, will give a week's series of lectures beginning Sunday in Moose Temple, 624 Penn avenue. The lectures will be on "Reincarnation," "The Laws of Destiny," "The Living Dead," "Dreams and Premonitions," "The Supermen" and "Self Development and Power."

Mr. Rogers

The series is being given under the auspices of the local Theosophical Society and is free to the public.

A veteran newspaperman, lecturer and traveler, Rogers declares that every human being is a potential god, having latent powers within that can shape life to success and happiness if nature's laws are understood and applied.

POINT BREEZE PULPIT FILLED

The Rev. Harold John Ockenga, assistant pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Sixth avenue, late yesterday notified a committee from the Point Breeze Presbyterian Church that he would accept the pastorate of that church, vacated by the resignation several months ago of the Rev. Dr. Percival Barker, who accepted a charge in Buffalo.

The Rev. Mr. Ockenga came to Pittsburgh last September and was ordained in the First Presbyterian Church several months ago. He is a graduate of the Western Theological Seminary, and attended Princeton University. Recently he received a call from a church in Atlantic City, but declined it in favor of the Point Breeze charge, which he will assume May 1.

AGAIN KONJOLA BRINGS RELIEF!

Other Medicines Failed, Then Konjola Gave the Results These People Sought.

Why keep on suffering, day after day, from awful backache, irregular kidneys and bowels, and from nervousness and neuritis? Why continue to let your work be drudgery; why keep on spending sleepless nights and days of misery? Here, at last, in Konjola, you will find the medicine you've been seeking . . . here, finally, is the medicine that does make good, a medicine that keeps the faith. Delve into the record Konjola has made, the good it has done; then decide that you, too, will try this medicine. You will never regret that decision. Here is what Miss Carrie Borodic, 139 Wilson Street, Johnstown, says:

Miss Carrie Borodic

"I was nervous, couldn't sleep at night, and was discontented. I had nervous headaches that lasted for days, and nothing I tried helped me. Konjola went right to work, and three bottles ended my nervousness and headaches, and I feel fine."

And do not the words of Mr. Ephraim Morrow, Gibsonia, Pa., bring cheer and hope? He says:

Mr. Ephraim Morrow

"Rheumatism affected my back, arms, shoulders and legs, and I was unable to sleep. My whole body ached and pained. It is a pleasure to endorse Konjola, for after twenty bottles I am completely free from rheumatism, and I never have an ache or pain. I know that Konjola will help others, for my case was severe."

And Mrs. John Mannis, 858 Monteiro Street, Pittsburgh, has this to say about Konjola:

Mrs. John Mannis

"Sharp, stinging neuritis pains affected my arms and shoulders. Over a year ago I took Konjola, and by the time I had finished six bottles, every pain and ache had disappeared. I have not had any trouble since, and that goes to show that Konjola does its work well. I know that if others try Konjola they, too, will receive the same wonderful benefits that I did."

What is wiser than to profit by the advice of those who know, by actual experience and test, what Konjola can do? Visit your druggist today; demand Konjola and get it . . . don't accept a substitute.

Konjola is sold by all Dow, Liggett and Mayflower drug stores, and by all leading druggists in Pittsburgh and vicinity.

SIDEWALKS of PITTSBURGH

By William Pfarr

When somebody, or anybody, is seriously ill, his friends get together and tell stories about him. Mayor Kline, the patient, was no exception. Somebody recalled when Mayor Kline was Judge Kline.

William Pfarr

On this particular day he was closing a session of court and discharging a jury. The Mayor (or rather, Judge) thanked the jurors warmly for their services and the jurors in turn rewarded him with a hearty round of applause.

In an anteroom sat the late Judge Cohen, good friend of Kline, and several other jurists. When the future mayor joined the, Judge Cohen asked: "What was all that noise about? We thought we were in Johnny Harris' old theater."

"You're jealous," Judge Kline chided his friend, "because you can't get any recognition from juries."

"Ha!" laughed Judge Cohen. "Last week, when I was through charging a jury the foreman, a very respectable lady, was so impressed she kissed me!"

About dogs: Mrs. R. H. Eckert's dog is Specky, an expensive pet because of his generosity. On April Fool's day Specky trotted up to Mrs. Eckert in her Bellevue home and whimpered his plea that she follow him to the kitchen. In the kitchen Mrs. Eckert found four nondescript friends of Specky, all hungry. Every now and then Specky makes up for these impositions. On January 1, for instance, he hurried home with a dollar bill clutched tightly between his teeth, and the bill was applied to his license.

If Jean Lowell, in her "Cradle of the Deep," told a harmless fib when she said she swam miles to shore from a sinking ship with a cat (or was it a dog?) Specky has proved that it is more or less possible. In the summer Specky swims far out into the ocean. And, returning, if he's tired, he simply climbs onto the back of his mistress and rides contentedly to shore.

Specky has a competitor in the Ninth Ward, one Brownie, S. C. G., who writes in about Brownie, and says he (Brownie) could be elected to any position the ward offers. Brownie goes from house to house visiting, his bark opening any door in the neighborhood. Recently, when Brownie was "arrested" by a dog-catcher, a dozen women of the ward hurried indignantly to the bastile and gained his release. For this Brownie went from benefactor to benefactor, licking the hand of each, much as an acquitted defendant thanks each juror.

Every time David Scott, advertising and publicity man, passes the Cathedral of Learning, he tells a story on himself. When the steelwork had been completed on the cathedral, Scott arranged a stunt. He would have Boy Scouts wigwag a message from this new skyline of the cathedral to Scouts stationed at Mt. Washington. Scott arranged for the Scouts to be at the cathedral and at the appointed hour he arrived to meet them. There was no elevator installed, and they had to walk to the top.

Halfway up, Scott was fearful of the Scouts' safety. The steps were on the edge of the steelwork and a strong wind might cause a slip that would send one of the boys to his death.

Scott was trailing the boys up the steps when he decided to halt them. He yelled at them to stop. He yelled again. They ignored him and continued to the roof. Anxiously Scott followed. And when he caught up he discovered it was a troop of deaf mute Scouts.

Man's Injuries Laid To Suicide Attempt

His wrists slashed, William Speelman, 30, of Division street, was found wandering in Homewood avenue early today by a pedestrian, who sent him to Columbia Hospital. The hospital reported to police that the man was suffering from the loss of blood. Police say Speelman slashed himself with the intention of committing suicide.

Held in Attack, Larceny Charge

Harry Herd, 27, of Stratmore avenue, was held for court on charges of felonious assault and battery, and larceny, in Central Police Court today. Mrs. Pauly Colletta testified that Herd, on February 3, walked into her home at 1727 Stratmore avenue, beat her with a revolver, then took $30.

NEW P. R. R. RAIL DESIGNED FOR HIGH SPEED

152-Pound Section for Main Line Heaviest Ever Made; Orders Placed

Adoption of a new steel rail, to weigh 152 pounds, 32 pounds heavier than any rail now used, was announced today by John F. Deasy, vice president of the Pennsylvania Railroad. It will be laid on the main line between Pittsburgh and Altoona.

Early next month the United States Steel and Bethlehem will roll the first heats of a new section rail designed after investigation and research over two years by a committee of the engineering department of the railroad, and engineers and metallurgists of the two steel companies.

100-MILE SPEED

The new rail has been worked out to meet the requirements of sustaining 100,000-pound axle loads at speeds of 100 miles per hour, as compared with maximum present requirements of 80,000-pound axle loads and speeds of 80 miles per hour. Its weight is 152 pounds to the yard and it possesses approximately 75 per cent greater strength than the Pennsylvania's present 130-pound standard section rail for main line use.

Mr. Deasy also announced that in connection with the studies for designing the 152-pound rail, the 130-pound section had been redesigned in such manner that by the addition of only one pound per yard in weight, a gain of 22 per cent in strength has been attained, with substantially no increase in cost.

A new form of rail splice bar, providing resiliency at the rail joint, greatly reducing wear of the rail ends and increasing the quietness and smooth-riding qualities of the track is a further innovation.

MOUNTING COSTS

Mr. Deasy said:

"The Pennsylvania Railroad's present main line standard section rail weighs 130 pounds to the yard, and is rolled in accordance with a design adopted in 1916. The increased traffic since the war period, and particularly the changes in our operating practices which have resulted in much heavier train loads and greatly increased axle loads, have been accompanied by growing costs of track maintenance. Our track maintenance engineers several years ago reached the conclusion that a stronger and heavier rail than the 130-pound standard section would be required to stand up satisfactorily under the demands of modern operation, reducing excessive track maintenance expenses and providing for further increase in service demands in the future."

WOMAN AWAITS DEATH INQUIRY

Mrs. Anna Mack, 28, of rear 1902 Forbes street, was to be placed in custody of the coroner today in connection with the death of Sam Gianella, 22, of Washington place, who died of bullet wounds in Mercy Hospital early this morning.

Police alleged that Mrs. Mack shot Gianella, Sunday, as he was leaving a store at 715 Fifth avenue, and then made a vain attempt to shoot herself. Mrs. Mack told police that she shot Gianella when he abandoned her after she had given him $20, which was being saved to buy shoes for her four small children. Neighbors are caring for the children while Mrs. Mack is being held in the county jail.

Foch Reveals First Move to Parcel U. S. Troops Among Allies

Steps that he took to solidify the Allied resistance to the onslaughts of the Germans on the Western Front during the early part of their big drive that started on March 21, 1918, were outlined in yesterday's instalment by Marshal Foch. His authority as Supreme Commander now gave him the power to unify the military movements along the entire front.

In today's instalment he tells of the end of the fierce battle of Flanders and emphasizes the exhausted state of the Allied armies after several years of fighting which made IMMEDIATE HELP in troops from America a vital necessity. He also tells of his request to Gen. Pershing that all the American troops then available be put into action as soon as possible; also of the victorious assault of American troops at Cantigny on May 28, 1918.

By MARSHAL FERDINAND FOCH

CHAPTER XVIII.

The battle of Flanders had come to an end. It had occupied more than a month of violent and highly sustained efforts. That the German advance represented a less deep penetration than what he effected on the Somme at the end of March, was due to two facts; his objective, the Channel coast, was in this case much closer, while we, by moving troops up rapidly, succeeded, as it was our duty to do, in stopping his rush.

The danger of being thrown back on the sea forced the Allied armies to fight on their front lines, and resistance in depth was precluded through lack of ground for maneuvering. On account of the difficulty of reinforcing in time the northern extremity of the vast and seriously shaken Allied front, it was several times in grave danger.

However, while the battle had not obtained for the Germans the strategic results they had aimed at, it could be started up again. The enemy might find it to his interest to resume his advance with the intention of gaining the Channel coast at any price, and, by intensifying his submarine warfare in the adjoining waters, hamper communications with England and isolate the power of Great Britain.

The battle had already produced tactical results which, on balance, were unquestionably to the detriment of the Allies.

The appreciable loss of ground we had suffered, left the Flanders hills (Rouge, Noir and Scherpenberg), buttresses of the northern Allied line, under the close menace of the Germans, already masters of Mount Kemmel. Out rentention of these hills must be insured at all cost if the security of our front was not to be dangerously compromised.

I therefore drew Gen. de Mitry's attention to the necessity not only of strongly organizing the defense of the hills themselves, but of extending it to the ground at the foot of the slopes, so as to prevent the enemy from surrounding the summits and penetrating to the saddles between them. Local operations, undertaken on May 4 (1918) by the army detachment of the north, enabled some progress to be made in this sense.

I continued to emphasize the necessity of holding on where the men stood and never making a voluntary retirement. I once more laid down the line of conduct to be followed and gave instructions that, in the future, if any important withdrawal was contemplated, it must be submitted beforehand for my approval.

Allied Forces Weakened

I also drew up a note dealing with general principles, prescribing the rules which should gov-

SLEUTHS HUNT STORE ROBBER

City detectives today were engaged in a search for the robber who last night held up the Sperber shoe store, 322 Diamond street, bound and gagged two men and escaped with $100. The robber bound Edward G. Sperber, manager of the store, and H. L. Brooks, of 12 Hillman street, a customer.

While scores of late shoppers and home-bound office workers filled the street, the robber bound and gagged the men with tape and leisurely looted the register.

Roomer Accuses Man Of Pistol Threat

Accused of having pointed a revolver at a fellow roomer, Gus Litson, 43, of 842 North Lincoln avenue, North Side, was arrested by North Side police early today. Police say he was arrested on complaint of Martin A. Flanagan, of the same address. When searched at the police station, Litson had in his possession, police say, a loaded revolver and a special policeman's badge for the city of Chicago.

Woman, 3 Men Held After Auto Crash

A woman and three men were taken into custody by North Side police early today after their automobile had struck the front of a house in East street at Tripoli street. Police said the four could not give a good account of themselves. The prisoners identified themselves as William Bushnell, 31; John Clink, 43, and his wife, Marie Clink, 35, all of Cleveland, and Harry Coseman, 30, of 1306 Gerst way. They were charged with being suspicious persons.

2 Places Enjoined On Dry Complaints

Two temporary injunctions were granted yesterday in Federal Court, on bills of complaints filed by Robert S. Krause, deputy prohibition administration, against places where violations of the dry law were alleged. One was described as a store, 3426 Butler street, Abraham W. Shapiro, leged proprietor, and the other 1821 East street, Charles J. Regan, alleged proprietor. Final hearings will be held June 2.

200 CITIZENS CRITICIZE COUNCIL

Angered Member Threatens To 'Throw Up' His Job at Stormy Borough Meeting

More than 200 taxpayers of McKees Rocks crowded the borough building last night to learn why their taxes had been raised. An uproar was created when one councilman threatened to "throw up" his job. His threat was met with a chorus of:

"Why don't you resign now?"

The delegation, headed by H. D. Hewlett, the spokesman, addressed President Clem Doerr. The members said:

"We want to know why, in the face of this depression, with so many men out of work, McKees Rocks Borough should raise its taxes from 16 to 18 mills."

TAXES UNPAID

Borough Secretary George Gast, answering for Council, said that the borough could not collect $45,000 taxes for 1930, so was forced to raise the millage.

One man shouted that he had not earned more than 25 per cent of his normal salary and could not see how he could pay his taxes at all.

Hewlitt then compared the taxes with those of other boroughs of the county and declared there were no major improvements made in the borough. He also recited that the borough owed $750,000 in bonded indebtedness. That statement was corroborated by Secretary Gast. Hewlett also reminded Council that there is $100,000 in floating indebtedness to be put up to the voters in a bond issue this fall.

COUNCILMAN IRKED

Just then Councilman Thomas Riley jumped up, and in a heated manner said:

"I had my own taxes raised because I am also a taxpayer. I am willing to get off the board and 'throw up' the job right now, for all I am getting out of it, nothing but criticism."

He was answered back in a chorus:

"Why don't you resign right now?"

When council was asked by Hewett what economy the borough had put into effect to save money to keep within the budget, Mr. Gast replied that the borough had laid off several policemen and had reduced the hours of street labor from nine to eight hours, thus saving 50 cents a day on each man.

Hewlett answered that this saving was immediately offset by a trip made by eight of the borough officials to Harrisburg six months ago, which could have been attended to by one man.

Keller to Address Church Meeting

Judge William H. Keller, of the Superior Court of Pennsylvania, was to speak at the annual dinner of the laymen of the Reformed Churches in the Pittsburgh district, which will be held in McCann's dining rooms, East Liberty, tonight. Thirteen churches will be represented at the dinner. The Rev. J. Grant Walter, of St. Mark's Church, Highland avenue, East End, is chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements.

POLICE RADIO WINS PRAISE IN TESTS

Auto Squads Respond Quickly to Summons; Director Clark Pleased

By DARRELL V. MARTIN
Radio Editor

"Squad car number one, Pittsburgh police. Report to headquarters at once."

This order spoken into the microphone of WPDU at Mt. Washington Police Station last night at 7:57 brought the following telephoned response at 7:59, exactly two minutes later:

And F. C. Millard operating the station, replied:

"Everything's all right, Keller. Just a test. We wanted to show the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph how quickly we could locate you in case of an emergency."

SYSTEM WORKS FAST

The press of a button, the command of a voice and Pittsburgh's radio police squadron may be set in motion in less than a minute!

CLARK GIVES ORDER

Inspector Charles Cahill was riding with the driver of "scout car No. 2" down at Mayer Field, Bridgeville, late yesterday when Director of Public Safety James M. Clark undertook to give a command over the microphone. He said:

"Scout car No. 2, call headquarters immediately."

In less than a minute the telephone jingled and the director and inspector carried on an animated conversation. Clark remarked:

"That's splendid. I am elated with the efficiency of operation. Surely we have a system here as good as those in operation in Chicago, Detroit or Cincinnati. Police radio will do much to decrease the rate of crime in Pittsburgh. It will be particularly valuable in tracing and recovering stolen automobiles."

TRAFFIC FILM AND PLAY GIVEN

WOMAN DRINKS POISON, DIES

Removed to the Homeopathic Hospital from a downtown hotel, where she is said to have swallowed poison in an alleged suicide attempt, Mrs. Helen Snow, 33, of Middletown, O., died early today. The death was listed at the coroner's office as a suicide.

The woman engaged a room Monday, and, according to hotel attaches, she was despondent over loss of employment and lack of funds. Yesterday afternoon she told a hotel attendant that she had taken poison. After removing the woman to the hospital, police notified the woman's mother, a Mrs. Hawe, in Scranton.

NEW IDEA SAVES SILK HOSE

Expensive at best, silk hose and undergarments are made doubly so by improper washing. A fashion expert has found a new, simple way to correct this.

She adds a tablespoonful of Energine to every quart of lukewarm, soapy water. Then she washes and rinses the articles as usual. The addition of Energine removes all the body excretions that soften and rot silk.

The results are amazing. Not only does this method give new cleanliness and freshness with original color revived but actually gives longer life to hose and undergarments. Try this new method of adding Energine to soapy water. It's easier and quicker than just soap and water alone, means less rubbing and insures extra wear that will surprise you.

Energine is unexcelled, also, for quickly removing all dirt and grease spots from dresses, hats, gloves, shoes, etc. Large can 35 cents at any drug store.

THE SAFE INHALANT FOR CHILDREN'S COLDS

Vapex breaks up a cold swiftly and surely—yet it is as pleasant to use as perfume

It is pitiable to see a child with a cold. His nose running, his breathing labored. And it's silly to allow a cold to grip a child.

For colds can be checked at the start. Just put a drop of Vapex on the handkerchief or blouse during the day, and a drop at each end of the pillow at night.

Vapex is very inexpensive. The $1 bottle contains fifty applications—an average of only 2c apiece. Millions of bottles are sold yearly. It is approved by Good Housekeeping because it is safe for every one—even little children.

WOMAN, 6 MEN HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENTS

Three Arrested as Reckless Drivers; Autoist Flees After Crashing Railing

A woman and two men were injured, one of the men seriously, when a truck and a passenger automobile collided at Sandusky and North Canal street early today. The injured are Miss Marie Washburger, 22, of 923 Irwin avenue; William Fugent, 1209 Buena Vista street, and J. R. Ecker, 27, of 2017 Forbes street.

PATROLMAN INJURED

Motorcycle Patrolman Arthur Baker, 26, of Ewert drive, was cut and bruised this morning when his motorcycle was struck by an automobile at Bigelow boulevard and Kirkpatrick street. Mack Davis, 47, a Negro, of 1961 Enoch street, driver of the automobile, was arrested on a reckless driving charge.

Peter Pitrack, of 506 Chestnut street, was removed to the Allegheny General Hospital today after he had been hit by an automobile at East Ohio and Lacock streets, North Side.

MOTORIST CRASHES, FLEAS

Believed to have been injured when his machine struck an iron railing along the tracks of the Pennsylvania Railroad at Stockton and Sherman avenues, an unidentified man fled from the scene of the accident before police arrived.

Harry Naylor, 55, of 420 South Lang avenue, was in a critical condition in the Columbia Hospital this morning suffering a fractured skull and body injuries. He is said to have walked into the path of the automobile driven by John R. Laughrey, 22, of 404 Second avenue, Pitcairn.

SPEED DOCKET, CLEAR JAIL, PROPOSED

Weekly Sittings May Be Supplanted by Trials; Suggestion Meets Favor

Judges of Allegheny County courts will meet next week to give consideration to proposal for holding summer court.

Judges James M. Gray and Sylvester J. Snee, who have been assigned to sit in Criminal Court during July and August, are almost certain to give the proposal serious consideration, it was learned today. According to reports some of the other judges are in favor of having more judges available during the summer to keep the Allegheny County Jail as free of prisoners as possible.

Heretofore it has been customary for one judge to sit once a week during July and August in Criminal Court to take pleas, but it is possible that this program will be changed. Another change to be given consideration is the summer month procedure of Common Pleas Court, but with the exception of the addition of one judge to this court, the program is not expected to be greatly changed.

In this golden spring weather Cupid is having but little opposition to his wiles. More and more folks are becoming betrothed and wedded.

Today comes the announcement of the marriage of Mrs. Marshall L. Jenkins and William E. Evans, both of the Hotel Schenley, which took place yesterday in the chapel of the Protestant Episcopal Church of the Ascension with the rector, the Rev. H. Boyd Edwards, as officiant.

Mrs. Evans is the mother of Mrs. Carl H. Borntraeger and Paul Walton Jenkins, of Pittsburgh, and of Mrs. James Ellwood Jones, of Washington. Mr. Evans is the father of Dr. Frank Evans.

Dr. Magnes, Head of Hebrew University in Palestine, Addresses Hadassah

Dr. Judah Magnes, chancellor of the Hebrew University in Jerusalem, was guest of honor at a luncheon given yesterday in the Hotel Schenley by Pittsburgh Chapter of Hadassah. With that simplicity and quiet power that marks most great men, Dr. Magnes told his listeners of the work being done on Mt. Scopus, in the Holy City, of three great religions.

The University, established by the Jews for all people, is in the process of working out a large plan of medical research in Palestine, such a plan as will be of vast benefit to humanity in that part of the world and will be a contribution to science as well. In introducing Dr. Magnes, Mrs. T. H. Levin, Hadassah's president, said he was writing the supplementary chapter to Jewish history.

The research work being done by the University's school of tropical medicine is comparable to the cleanup of Panama, Dr. Magnes said, as he went on to tell of some of its findings and the conditions under which the activities are carried on. Within an hour by auto, University workers travel from a height of 3,600 feet above, to 1,300 feet below sea level. They also go into marshlands where every man, woman and child in the village is infected with typhoid.

Dr. Magnes spoke at greatest length of the three basic laboratories at the University, chemistry, parasitology and hygiene, but he mentioned, too, the great library of 250,000 volumes which has been established largely by gifts from all parts of the world.

Hadassah's work in Palestine was praised by the speaker, who explained that the university is now seeking to establish a graduate school of tropical medicine and hygiene.

At the monthly meeting of the chapter, Sunday, in the Y. M. and W. H. A., there will be a sale in behalf of the donor's luncheon, the unusual affair which the chapter has planned for May 28. The goods listed by those members who will participate in the luncheon will be on display and for sale, the women taking this means of raising the price of their tickets ($10) for the luncheon.

McCrory, Wilkinsburg Civic Club, and Mrs. Charles Cuden, Pittsburgh Council of Jewish Women.

Motorists Benefit In Gas Price War

SAN FRANCISCO, April 15.—(AP.)—San Francisco and other Bay cities became a lively sector in a gasoline price war today when the Standard Oil Company of California posted signs at its stations announcing it would meet all price competition.

P. H. Patchin, assistant to K. R. Kingsbury, president of the company, announced each station would display a sign reading "Competitive Prices," and would sell its products at any cut rates posted by adjacent dealers.

CHARMING FROCKS AND SUITS ALLIED WITH WHITE FAVORED

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, April 15.—If one wishes to come off with flying colors, one should make an alliance with white. Although we were told that the monotone might rule this season—chiefly as a reaction from prints—the smartest frocks and suits are those that ally themselves with white. Black and white, blue and white, and brown and white are first favorites, and rightly so, for they are all delightful color combinations, with the white so well setting off the deeper hues. There is such a fresh look, too, about these combinations that make them the psychological choice for the spring toilette, and the well advised woman will choose such an outfit in preference to one of solid colors.

FOR THE MORE FORMAL costume, black and white yields its place to no rival, but for the runabout town and all-day country wear, blue and brown with white will be found to fill the bill most successfully. A suit of black in a semi-sheer material, with clever details and perhaps some fine handwork, with a white blouse or white touches, will remain the pride of the wardrobe for months and months and then will still be smart.

HERE ARE sketches of two of the nicest models seen for a long time, each one a leader in its own field. First comes one of the gems of the newest Molyneux collection and bearing all the characteristic charm of this house. It is in black crepe marocain with horizontal pintucking. White is introduced in the guise of the belted overblouse, which is also of marocain, and is tucked in the same manner. White marocain is also used for the lining of the comfortably smart jacket. Little shirred, deeply scalloped borders trim both blouse and jacket.

THE OTHER drawing depicts a very smart street or sports costume from Bruyers. The belted tunic and slightly flaring skirt are of heavy jersey in a diagonal weave of gentian blue and white. A crepe de chine scarf, attached to the dress, is of these two popular shades.

WE NOW PRESENT

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor.

Tonight's radio sky sparkles with twinkling stars . . . stars that suggest life's gaiety . . . genuine cut-ups like Marie Dressler, Mae Questelle, Beth Challis and Ed Harvey, KDKA's adept imitator of Bert Williams. . . . A word, or two, or three, from Joe McCarthy, new manager of Babe Ruth and the Yankees . . . all topped off with an electric company's concert band, KDKA at 9 . . . assuring the public of a powerful performance! . . . We know that our mother and your mother (if she's 50 years young or more) may get real pleasure from "Songs of the Nineties" on WCAE at 9:30 . . . and if you enjoy real coloratura singing, catch Olive Palmer on this same program doing "Giannina Mia" and the "Bird Song" from "Pagliacci."

Riggs and Moke—WCAE at 11—are on the "call list" at CBS following their succesful audition last week. . .

Two carloads of television apparatus go into the Columbia studios today . . . four rooms set aside special for this new art. . .

Little Jack Little's "Night Club of the Air" is pointed toward a local movie house. . .

Harold Sanford is to revive Gilbert and Sullivan Gems on WJZ Friday night at 11:30 . . . a new feature starring Walter Preston, Muriel Wilson, Charles Harrison and Mary Hopple. . .

There are few sextets on the air that can touch that local group on KDKA at 6:15 tonight.

Girls who impersonate Clara, Lu 'n' Em travel 25 miles a day, six days a week, to do their skit on WGN . . .

We admire the mien of Officer Bert Keller, driver of "Squad car number one, Pittsburgh police." Somehow when driving us around the city yesterday for police radio tests, he impressed us as the ideal type of "cop." . . .

A chorus of 1,000 voices singing Schubert's "Mass in E Flat"—don't miss it, WCAE tomorrow afternoon at 3:30.

Ray Long began his career as a messenger boy . . . he delivered "the goods" and speaks to us (WABC at 6 tonight) as editor of "Cosmopolitan" and editor-in-chief of the International Magazine Company. . .

Paul Miller, ordered to take a rest by his physician, couldn't resist phoning us that KQV would like to broadcast all the Pirate games at home. . . .

Winnie Lightner starts a recorded series on KDKA tomorrow night at 7:45 . . . Peter Higgins appears with the "Hill Billies" on KDKA this Friday at 6 . . .

Spring is here! Percy Boyd visited our desk this morning carrying a box of grass seed . . . and as he departed we noticed a garden catalog in his overcoat pocket.

There's still a possibility that Barney Dreyfuss will let one of the local stations in Forbes Field for the opener with Chicago next Wednesday. . . .

G. S., Uniondale—"Conestoga Days" concluded at KDKA last week. Don Sandros was the singer you liked. Jesse Crawford is on WTIC (1060 kc.) every Wednesday night at 9. . . .

The LOUDSPEAKER

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, April 15.—Campaign battle lines for 1932 are already being drawn along the radio front. Hoover is getting an early start (voice from Democratic headquarters, "he needs one,") by dispatching the members of his cabinet to the microphones. Official Republican words will fly for several weeks.

Radio will be the chief reliance of the campaign strategists, according to present plans. It promises the surest and easiest way to the ears of the electorate. But the strategists can't afford to take chances. They will have to select only those speakers who have radio personality, pleasant voices and the ability of saying something when they clear their throats.

The little-woman-in-the-home will have to be considered. She at present is the most critical of political speakers on the air. She will tolerate neither uncultivated voices, bad grammar nor poor logic.

Cuban rythms still assail the eardrums. Though the notes of "Peanut Vendor" are becoming more and more infrequent as is common with all popular songs on the radio, something called "Voodoo" has taken its place. To play it the maestros have contrived diabolical instruments. Trust the maestros! Don Azpiazu, Havana bandman, now in New York, uses a device made out of the jaw of a horse, the sound coming by rubbing the teeth with a baton. Fancy that, Stokowski!

Once we made a bow to the broadcasters for refusing to pay earnest tribute to Shakespeare until they could command the services of Forbes-Robertson or John of the Barrymores or Sothern and Marlowe. The broadcasters have done just that. They have actually snared Forbes-Robertson for a recital of Hamlet's address to the players. Wonder if we'll ever hear all of "Hamlet" on the radio? Silly question in this commercial age!

Radio rajahs expect big things of Roy Atwell, the latest song comedian to enter their corral. Atwell may succeed where a majority of his fellows have failed, for spies report he is taking the microphone seriously. Moreover, his droll style of comedy would seem to be suited to the radio. We'll have to see—and hear.

Despite its tunefulness the music of "Floradora" is seldom put on the air. There is never any air wanting for a hill billy ballad . . . Walter Damrosch, they say, can still pound a kettle drum with the best of them . . . Wonder if it has ever occurred to prison wardens to try broadcast programs as a means of preventing riots . . . For every mention of "folks" today by the broadcasters 10 mentions are made of "ladies and gentlemen" . . . Baseball may have its Kenesaw Mountain Landis, but radio can point to a Hartford Connecticut Taylor, a warbler, believe it or not, of southern songs.

The common greeting in the marts of commerce: "Good morning, and what is the merger this morning?" is heard in radio less than in any branch of big business.

Railroads, strangely, are reluctant to sponsor air programs. Only one, microphonically, to its advantages as a common carrier. In the matter of sound effects alone, the railroads are missing good propaganda opportunities.

TELL IT TO SALLY

By SALLY MARTIN

A Palace Isn't Necessary To Have Real Friends

Jacqueline wanted friends—wanted hungrily, desperately, to run in at some chum's back door, and to chat and chin with some other proud young mother, over the baby's newest tooth, and the way that curl was growing against the back of his fat neck . . .

"But I can't," she wailed. "Because we're so awfully poor that all we can afford is an attic flat, and I'm so ashamed of it! I just can't bring folks to such a place. They'd drop me or laugh at me or pity me, the minute they saw it."

More Unfortunate

To all of which we listened, with several grains of salt, and a big hint that Jacky was stewing her own misery and forging her own handcuffs.

And now here's Mable, with a few pointed remarks on the subject. She hasn't even an attic. She must live in a basement. But does that cramp her style? Ha! Listen while she tells you . . .

"Dear Sally:

"I've read Jacqueline's letter about how she can't have friends because all she can afford is an attic flat, and I'm writing this because I think maybe it will help her. You see I have had lots of experience at living on not much money, so maybe I can give her a few pointers.

"She says that attic of hers is cozy and clean. Well, I can tell her, that's the main thing. And she should be proud of it, not ashamed.

"I haven't even an attic. I have a basement flat, and I keep it clean, fix it up all I can, let in all the sun and light possible, and plant a few flowers in a pot so I can have something green to look at all through the winter.

Doesn't Feel Inferior

"There are just four rooms, and there are four of us . . . Boy, girl, dad and myself. But everything is jake with us. My friends come here and think it is cute. They wouldn't dream of being snooty because we don't live in a fancier place.

These friends all have nicer places than I, better homes and better furniture, too. But who cares? Not they . . . . . or I either! And that makes all the difference!

"We have had some mighty nice things here. I can tell you that I lived in some beautiful homes when I was single, but I like this place and I am proud of it because it is my own, even if it isn't a flossy place . . . and Jacquelin should feel the same way about her little place.

"Of course, I will admit that I felt the same way she does, at first—but I soon got over that.

"If I still felt ashamed of where I lived, and let people see that I did, well, I suppose they'd take me at my own valuation, and maybe they would snub me. And probably that's what's happened to Jacqueline. She keeps feeling inferior, and trying to apologize for things, . . . and that gets her the cold shoulder.

Shouldn't Be Ashamed

"She had better invite some people to visit her little flat, act proud of it, and be friendly, let them see what a cute place it is, and how she keeps it that way with her constant care.

"I know she'd be welcome in our gang. We never snub anybody. I just love to take walks, with babies, with a friend by my side . . . and I know there are just oodles of other young mothers, all over the country, who love it too.

"Jacqueline can have plenty of friends, if she'll just forget about being ashamed of that home of hers, and be jolly and witty as I know from her letter that she can be. People will love to have her around.

"Here's extending her my friendship, and wishing her loads of luck and happiness.

"MABEL."

Bravo Mab!

That's the system! Heads up—meeting things as they come and making the best of them—meeting the world and all that's in it with clear eyes and humor and sense and spunk! That's what wins—friends and all the good things life must offer!

And here's wishing you good luck my dear!

The Girl in Art

Drawn by Nell Brinkley

Just for my amusement—and yours if you will deign to be amused by so simple a thing—I have drawn you here two treatments of the modern girl. Which do you like the best? The decorative (No. 1), almost caricature; or the realistic (No. 2), as like real girls as the humble, still striving, still learning, still despairing artist is able to make it?

Just for fun! So that when you alight upon this drawing you may look with interest, and perhaps find something to think about if you are an embryo "artiste," about 14 years old, or but slightly over.

The older draftsman, already skilled, already "wised" by the ups and downs of this "long art" knows that there is more than one manner in which to make the same girl's face. Either you may strive to make a faithful, delicate picture of that face, line for line and color for color, so that when a person takes a peek at it, there for all the world is a real face looking back at him; or you may distort the points of the pretty face, exaggerating every noticeable feature, taking it line by line, and making each of those lines just a little more so than whatever it is; big eyes bigger, pointed nose "pointier," long neck longer, bright eyes brighter, slant brows more slant, tiny hat tinier!

And there, for all the world, when the same person who took a keek at the realistic one, takes another keek at the decorative one, is still a real face looking back at him! They are both just like the girl!

That is, of course, provided the artist has been clever enough!

"The Girl in Art." Truly she is in it these days. The visible world of pictures is an endless parade of faces of The Fair, glistening eyes, shining teeth, satin hair of every shade, luscious lips, wavering figures.

And this same collection of feminine elements is treated in several different manners by different picture-makers. Most commonly, though, in these two; grotesquely decorative, and painter-like realistic. And of these two the first seems the flaunt-ingest at the present drawing. The latter is appealing, sweet, but the first is a tootie!

Which do you like best?

—NELL BRINKLEY.

CORRECT MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

We Don't Just "Drop In" These Busy Days

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

The young man I go about with is a little older than I and in consequence most of his friends are married. Of course, since they are his friends, they have also become my friends. Now this is what puzzles me. Whenever we happen to meet any of these people they usually invite us to call. Merely that and nothing more. It seems quite natural for people to say, "You must come and see us," but they never make it definite. Is it all right to call without any further invitation, or should we wait until they set a time? I would feel much better if they would say, "Come and see us some evening next week." Then, if it was not convenient to call that week, I would feel that I had the privilege to telephone and ask them if they would be at home another time.

If it is all right to call without a definite invitation, should we "drop in," or is it better to telephone and let them know that we are coming? MISS Q.

"Merely that and nothing more" thoroughly describes this casual manner that many people have of indicating their social interest, but, even when they say this invitation, they often do not mean to have it taken very literally. Life is, as a matter of fact, usually too busy now for such droppings-in, unless, you are well acquainted.

What I would do, if I were you, is to plan a little informal party . . . bridge, perhaps or backgammon . . . and invite some of these friends that you wish to become better acquainted with. This would start the ball rolling, and would suggest your friendliness and hospitality so definitely that they would probably make some return of hospitality, and the friendship would be started.

Don't Tip the Hostess' Maid

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. When anyone is invited to a formal or informal dinner at a friend's home is it proper to tip the maid or maids?

2. If invited for instance on New Year's evening to a relative or friend's home without expense to you, is it proper to tip as you do if going to a hotel or restaurant? M. R.

1. No.

2. No.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Presence of Disease Indicated by Acidosis.

One of the chief functions of the body is to keep the blood alkaline. To accomplish this, nature provides certain chemical substances. These substances are sometimes called "alkaline buffers." They may be thrown into the blood stream at any time to neutralize acids formed by the body.

Dr. Copeland

When excessive acid production is the rule, the buffer substances are exhausted. We then have the condition spoken of as "acidosis," or "acid intoxication."

A person suffering with acidosis complains of difficulty in breathing. This is frequently called air hunger because of the difficulty in getting sufficient air.

The breath has a sweet, fruity smell. Urinalysis shows an excess of certain chemicals.

Acidosis is not a disease. It is merely a sign or symptom of disease. It may occur in many diseases.

Starvation may result in acidosis. This condition was frequently seen in Europe during the World War.

The acidosis seen in diabetics is a serious condition. In this disease the fats and carbohydrates are not properly used by the body. The formation of excessive amounts of acid in this condition may lead to coma, or loss of consciousness. Coma is a condition demanding immediate medical attention.

Acidosis is found in certain heart and kidney conditions. The acidosis in these conditions is usually due to an inability of the kidney to dispose of acids.

Children with severe diarrheal diseases often show marked signs of acidosis. Stomachs are upset periodically—a common ailment in children frequently associated with acidosis.

In all cases of acidosis or acid intoxication, the treatment is essentially the treatment of the underlying cause. These persons must be properly fed.

If no sickness at the stomach is present, the attending doctor will probably give peptonized milk, oatmeal, gruel, porridge, bread, rice and tapioca pudding and orange juice. From time to time, the physician will indicate changes in the diet.

For the upset stomach, sips of warm water, carbonated water or barley water may help. As soon as milk or orange juice can be retained it is best to give it.

Starvation and undernourishment must be avoided. However, it is wise not to force food when it is not retained. In general, the doctor will reduce the fats and acid-forming substances in the diet.

Answers to Health Queries

J. M. D. Q.—What causes spots and imaginary lines before the eyes?

A.—This may be due to "biliousness." Correct your diet and avoid poor elimination.

W. F. Q.—What will cure an acid condition of the stomach? The condition has persisted for about six months.

A.—Proper diet and care should bring about results in this case.

E. A. Q.—What do you advise for hives?

A.—Correct your diet and avoid constipation.

Sore, Tired Feet

Oh! How good it feels to put your tired, aching feet in a "TIZ" bath! You can just feel the pain being drawn out and grateful comfort being restored.

"TIZ" draws out the acids and poisons that puff up your feet and make them tender and sore. It takes all the soreness out of corns, calluses and strained muscles and makes tight shoes feel a half size larger. Get a box of "TIZ" at any drug or department store and have weeks of foot comfort for a few cents.

Household Hints

Here are a few hints which will come in handy in most any home:

Ribbons should be pressed on the wrong side to prevent shine.

Apples should be pared with a silver knife to prevent discoloration.

Paint the wall in back of the gas stove with waterproof varnish and spots may be easily washed off the surface.

Love's Reawakening

Continuation of Love's Awakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Takes Up a New Task

As if he divined my doubt, Dicky stood looking quizzically at me with eyes half closed in a teasing way he has.

"Well! old dear," he said at last. "You sure turned more than one trick tonight. You slung the swellest party that's been seen around these here parts for yars and yars, and you perched old Phil Veritzen upon a steel girder that'll keep him teetering for some hours to come.

"You mean," I faltered banally.

"That you struck exactly the right note when ou asked him what he would say to that offer of Cameron's if Mary were still a potential Veritzen star. It stretched him out right along the limb where he'll have to stay unless he wants to leap down among the clamoring hounds below."

I laughed at Dicky's collection of mixed metaphors, and he frowned with mock solemnity.

"Don' yoh mak no game ob me, woman!" he adjured me, and I put the question which I had been waiting to ask him.

"What do you think of that offer of Cameron's?"

"If I didn't see old Phil's fine Italian hand behind it, I'd be inclined to consider it seriously. But anything that old lad's sponsoring for Mary, has a kink in it somewhere, so I think we'll say 'thumbs down,' don't you?"

"I've been thinking the same thing," I told him, careful not to let him see how delighted I was at his decision.

"Then we surely can't get into an argument over that," Dicky said, grinning at me and then stretching his arms over his head and yawning undisguisedly.

"I don't know how you feel about it," he said, "but it's the hay for mine immediately."

"I'm going to bed myself very shortly," I said. "I have to jot down a few memoranda for tomorrow's shopping."

"I thought you said you had it all done."

"I said the presents all were bought. But I haven't the dinner decorations completed. I've looked all over town for the things I want and I can't find them."

Dicky frowned suddenly.

"What are you trying to do, beat old phil at his own game?" he demanded. "I don't mind you're doing it sometime, when we're giving a formal dinner, but Christmas time—you'd only make yourself look ridiculous. You can't combine a turkey dinner with orchids, you know."

I interrupted him summarily—and irately.

"Look here, Dicky Graham," I exclaimed in fishwife style. "Christmas is Junior's day. I'm planning the Christmas dinner decorations with a view to his pleasure alone—have been planning them for months. If you think that I'd change the tiniest detail of them for the sake of a million old theatrical producers—you've, you've—"

"Got another think coming," Dicky finished mischievously.

"I haven't told you yet," I said, "how much it meant to me tonight to have you so wonderful about the flowers and the Christmas dinner invitation, with Mr. Veritzen, I mean. You carried it off so beautifully and made it impossible for him—impossible for him to—"

My voice trailed off abashed, and Dicky grinned mischievously.

"Impossible for him to get ideas? Yes, I flatter myself he isn't cherishing any pleasing picture of husband biting finger nails in anguished jealousy over him. But you played up yourself, old dear, in right pretty fashion. I was proud of you. Oh, we're a great pair, we are. We ought to go far. Good night. Don't stay up too late over your lists."

I sat down at my desk and completed every detail of my Christmas memoranda. Then, seeing no light through the crack of Dicky's door and knowing his propensity to drop off to sleep immediately when he is extremely fatigued, I took off my evening slippers and padded in my stocking feet to Mary's door, beneath which I saw a gleam of light. I turned the knob softly and hushed her startled exclamation with a finger on my lips.

"What is it?" she whispered.

"I want to go out of the city very early in the morning and I can't return until the afternoon," I answered. "But I don't want anyone to know I'm gone. Can you help me manage it?"

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Thursday, April 16

According to the dominant place of the fiery planet Mars, in trine aspect with the moon, this should be a day of great stimulus to action, initiative and constructive effort on all planes of endeavor. The configuration is heightened in force by the convertible Mercury, inciting to keen and quickened energies especially in the realm of letters and trade.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of an adventurous and lively year in which the energies and faculties will be under high stimulus to initiative and constructive effort. In speculation, loaning and unsecured investments there is a sign of peril.

A child born on this day should be clever, energetic, resourceful and bold, inclining to take chances, perhaps to its peril.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Dental floss is necessary if the teeth are to be kept free of bacteria, since the tooth brush does not always remove foreign substances that lodge between the teeth. When flossing your little tombstones, be careful not to injure the gums, since any abrasion may be the source of trouble.

What about your little walkers? Are your feet cool and collected, or do they smart and burn? Grouches spring from the feet that are encased in shoes that do not conform to the shape and outline of the human trotters. Foot ills are nearly all caused by pressure of leather, shoes too long, too short or too narrow. Shoes should be fitted in the afternoon, never in the morning; feet take on spread as the day wanes. Spiked heels are a menace to the health. They throw the spine out of alignment and make the spirits droop. Away with 'em!

Witch hazel applications are good for eyelashes that are bent on staying short. Vaseline seems to encourage them to develop into longer eye curtains. Ends should never be clipped; they stay stubby until they fall. Clipping does not inspire a stronger growth.

Sleeplessness is the result of some broken health law, lack of mental hygiene, or physical upset. A strong, healthy individual should fall asleep like a baby as soon as his head touches the pillow. Sleeping medicines don't remove the cause of wakefulness or restless and they nearly always have a bad effect upon the central nervous system. Insomnia calls for a medical examination.

WHAT many call "indigestion" is very often nothing but excess acid in the stomach. The stomach nerves have been overstimulated, and food sours. The corrective is an alkali, which neutralizes acids instantly. The best alkali known to medical science is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained the standard anti-acid with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

One spoonful of this harmless, tasteless alkali will neutralize instantly many times as much acid, and the symptoms disappear at once. You will never use crude methods when once you learn the efficiency of this more pleasant way. A small bottle is sufficient to show its merit.

Be sure to get genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for more than 50 years in correcting excess acid. 25c and 50c a bottle; any drug store. Complete directions for its many uses are enclosed with every bottle.

Why Lie Awake Nights with "NERVES"

Nothing destroys your health so quickly as loss of sleep. In most cases "NERVES" are the real cause of sleeplessness. Restful slumber comes only when your "NERVES" are calm and relaxed. When your "NERVES" are tense and jumpy—when nervousness causes Headache and Sleeplessness—just try this delightful and harmless drink to quiet your overwrought "NERVES."

Drop a Dr. Miles' Effervescent NERVINE Tablet into a glass of water. Watch it bubble up like sparkling spring water—then drink it. In a few minutes your irritated nervous system is soothed—tense "NERVES" relax and you get restful relief and relaxation. Get a package and try them.

LOSS OF OPENER NOT DISCOURAGING

A BALL GAME'S only a ball game in the final analysis, and though there's always a particular kick in the winning of the first contest of the season, the loss of it does not necessarily betoken a calamitous year. A defeat suffered in the opener doesn't weigh any more heavily against a club than a defeat suffered in the middle of July. The Pirates lost the curtain-raiser at Chicago in 1925, and then won the pennant and the world championship. They started with a victory last season and finished in the second division for the first time in 13 years. So don't lose heart because the Bucs got off on the wrong foot yesterday. That's only one game and there are 153 more to be played.

Ervin Brame

Besides, while alibis are distasteful, it is possible, without attempting anything of that nature, to see wherein the Rovers were the victims of adverse fates as well as of the Cubs yesterday. The inability of Ervin Brame to shoulder the first-day pitching assignment, as originally scheduled, was a tough break for Jewel Ens and his club.

THERE IS MORE than the mere matter of hurling to be considered in this instance, though at that a right-hander is admittedly a much better bet than a southpaw against the Bruins. Brame's power as a long-distance hitter is an item not to be overlooked. Wrigley Field is made to order for Brame home runs, and Ens had figured that advantage more than a month ago when he announced that he had the big Kentuckian in mind to hurl the opener.

There were two or three stages at which Brame might have changed the entire complexion of the tilt. Root pitched a good game, in fact the best of the day in either of the major circuits, but a long hit at the right time would have put him on the ropes. And once the Bucs get Charley on the run they generally finish him speedily, as prior to yesterday's victory, his first over Pittsburgh since last April 28, he had beaten them only twice in 12 straight starts and had failed four times in succession to go the route.

THOSE WHO HAVE asserted that baseball is slipping will have a swell time finding any evidence of it in the reports of yesterday's lid-lifters. More than a quarter of a million persons witnessed the eight openers in the majors, unofficial figures making the total attendance 248,000, or 15,000 above the highest previous record.

The Pirates and Cubs played to the second largest crowd of the day, the throng of 45,000 in Chicago having been exceeded only by the one of 70,000 at Yankee Stadium in New York. The only disappointing showing was the gathering of 7,000 to see the Browns start in St. Louis. Elsewhere the game appears to be in robust health.

THOUGH NO CLUB ran into double figures, more runs were scored in each league yesterday than on opening day a year ago, and eight homers were piled up, including one by a pinch-hitter, John Winsett, of the Red Sox. However, four of those homers were made in the Phillies' bandbox park, two of them by Chuck Klein, who had little or no spring training. No player in either league made more than three hits, and only half a dozen registered that number. There was evidence both for and against the new ball, but no fair conclusions can be drawn until the pitchers reach top form and conditions become normal all around.

Robert F. Maloney

AN INTERESTING SIDELIGHT on the dog show to be held Friday and Saturday in Motor Square Garden by the Fort Pitt Kennel Club is the part played in it by Robert F. (Bob) Maloney, president of the organization, who has many interests in and around Pittsburgh, but whose chief interest centers in his Herewithem Kennels on his farm near Curtisville.

These are admittedly not only the greatest kennels of pointers in the United States, but in the entire world. Maloney has about 50 prize pointers in his string, among them a number of champions, including the great Governor Moscow and Herewithem J. P., the latter a son of Stylish Mac, which now holds the world record of having been adjudged best of all breeds at 13 consecutive shows.

GOVERNOR MOSCOW was retired from bench show competition after being adjudged best dog of all breeds at the Westminster Kennel Club show in Madison Square Garden, New York, in 1925. Some of Maloney's dogs have been imported, but his younger stock has been bred in his own kennels.

His home-breds were selected as the best of their breed at both the 1928 and 1930 Westminster Club shows, which always are the outstanding dog events of the year in this country. There probably is no man who works as hard to bring success to Pittsburgh dog shows as Maloney, yet, in a sense, in so doing he hides his light under a bushel.

IN OTHER WORDS, Maloney does not enter his own dogs for competition in Pittsburgh shows because he wishes to "give the other fellows a chance." He realizes that his dogs are far better than any other animals of their breed that would be entered, and that other pointer owners would stand no chance of winning if pitted against him, so he graciously keeps his champions on the sidelines. It is a gesture of sportsmanship toward his fellow Pittsburghers that has drawn much favorable comment. This does not mean that the champions of the Herewithem Kennels will not be seen at the Motor Square Garden show this week. Several of them will be there, including Herewithem J. P., but they will be on exhibition only, and will not compete for any of the awards.

WELTER TITLE REGAINED BY THOMPSON

Thompson regained the title he lost to Tommy Freeman six months ago by scoring a technical knockout over the titleholder in the twelfth round of their scheduled 15-round encounter in Cleveland's public auditorium last night. Freeman, with his left eye swollen shut, was unable to respond when the bell clanged for the start of the twelfth round. The eye started to swell in the tenth and by the end of the eleventh it was tightly closed. He protested that he was unable to see and surrendered to the California Negro on the advice of a physician.

THOMPSON COMES BACK

By his victory, Thompson exploded the popular belief that they never come back. His performance in winning back the title he lost takes rank with the achievements of the late Stanley Ketchel and Pete Herman, who won back their championships after losing them. Ketchel knocked out Billy Papke back in 1908 in 12 rounds, after Papke two months previously had stopped him in the eleventh round of their middleweight engagement. Herman retrieved his bantamweight title from Joe Lynch after losing it to him.

"Now, boy, ain't that something?" grinned Thompson as he sat in his dressing room after the fight.

"I got my championship back. I never should have lost it, but I'm sorry I won it the way I did. I would have liked to have knocked him out."

For a championship fight, the battle was highly disappointing to a crowd of 9,000 spectators who paid $46,670 to witness it. It was dull and so uninteresting at times that the spectators yelled and booed, demanding action. The contest lacked the thrills usually expected of a championship battle principally because Thompson fought cautiously and Freeman waged a boring-in attack that was none too flashy.

Freeman was heartbroken over

The vine was planted in 1827 by Dona Maria Marcelina de Dominquez to observe the birth of her first born. The stem, or trunk, of the vine was 18 inches in diameter and 56 inches in circumference, and under its branches the Spanish people of this section used to hold their festivities. At one time the vine produced 7,500 clusters of grapes yearly, a total of 12,000 pounds. The above is verified by the Santa Barbara (Cal.) Chamber of Commerce.

OLIVER VICTOR BY SHUTOUT

Allegheny, South Hills and the defending sectional champ, Oliver, rode through to impressive triumphs yesterday as the City League baseball campaign got under way. The contesting was confined to Section II.

Behind the sterling mound work of Canning and some heavy hitting by Young, Schlaba and Rightmire, Oliver defeated Langley, 11 to 0. Canning turned Langley back with six safe blows, Oliver collecting 16. Oliver tallied seven runs in the fourth inning.

South Hills won a slugfest from Allegheny Vocational, 16 to 10. The Tunnelites put on a rally in the fifth inning that produced seven runs to win the game. The victors collected 20 hits.

Packey Vaughn limited Carrick to three safe blows as Allegheny won over Carrick, 9 to 2. Kurtz, hurling for Carrick, only gave up five, but received poor support.

KAYOS MARK BOUTS

Two knockouts and a technical knockout featured the amateur boxing bouts at St. Boniface Lyceum last night. Frank Kladek knocked out George Lupinacci in two rounds and Johnny Ungerman stopped Speedy McAllister in two, while Benny Littin suffered a technical knockout by Tony Cappy in one round. In other bouts, Steve Libenscheck defeated Sparky Ewalt, Dick Pritchard won over Georgie Schlie and Leo Schrider defeated Young Chemes.

PIRATES FARM TWO ROOKIES

Two more recruits were dropped by the Pittsburgh Baseball Club today, but only for the purpose of giving them further seasoning in the minors. Harry Geissberger, infielder, and John Vanusek, lefthand pitcher, were released under option to the Binghamton Club, of the New York-Pennsylvania League.

Though unripe for major league service at present, both youngsters are adjudged to be rich in promise, and it is planned to recall them in the fall for further tryouts. In Binghamton they will be under the wing of another former Pirate in the person of Heinie Groh, who is now manager of the Binghamton Club.

Geissberger and Vanusek, who were sent to Pittsburgh by Manager Ens a few days ago, will leave tonight and will report to the Binghamton Club tomorrow.

A. K. Roswell, thirty-third degree fan, who made the trip to Chicago to witness the opening game yesterday, returned home this morning singing the praises of the Pirates. "Rosy" declares that in spite of their defeat the Bucs looked like a powerful ball club. He says French pitched a fine game, but was merely unlucky, and that the work of the entire team was impressive.

SPORT SHORTS

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va.—(AP.)—The favorites all came through in the first round of match play in the Mason-Dixon golf tournament here yesterday. J. B. Ryerson, Cooperstown, N. Y., who tied as medalist with R. A. Stranahan, Toledo, O., easily disposed of P. Fawar, Greensburg, Pa., 8 and 7. Stranahan disposed of H. C. Davis, Salem, Mass., 5 and 4.

DETROIT.—(AP.)—Charles F. Navin, secretary of the Detroit Baseball Club, announced today that Elias Funk, outfielder, had been sold outright to Louisville of the American Association. Funk had been released on option to Sacramento of the Pacific Coast League, but threatened to quit baseball rather than return to the West Coast.

By CHARLES J. DOYLE
Staff Correspondent.

CHICAGO, April 15.—The tumult and shouting gone, Manager Jewel Ens, of the Pirates, called his squad together this morning and took an early springtime inventory. During the stock-taking procedure the boss of the Buccos delivered himself in this fashion:

"Well, you didn't look too good out there yesterday—you Pirates, but I am not finding too much fault. One swallow doesn't make a summer and one ball game is only a ball game, and there are 153 more to be played. I was very eager to win the opener and I know all of you were, but we went into this series with two of our best bets in bed and now that we were defeated we will have to make the best of it."

PIRATES LETHARGIC

There were times during their 6 to 2 defeat at the hands of the Bruins yesterday when the Buccos played as if they were in a stupor. The same thread of staleness that marked their actions while competing with the Tigers was in evidence, yet the whole Pittsburgh outfit was just as anxious to cop the inaugural as Ens was to see them land the bacon. The principal bone of contention was Charley Root, the fast-working flinger who held the Pirates to four hits.

Due to the illness of Ervin Brame and Remy Kremer, Larry French was ushered to the slab. The nervy lefthander faced the handicap of eight righthand hitters, and one of these, Leo Charles Hartnett, ruined Laughing Larry for the day when he poled a homer far over the left-center fence in the second round. The round-tripper put the Cubs out in front with a two-run lead and not once did they allow the Freebooters to get on even terms with them.

ENS IN QUANDARY

Manager Ens is in a quandary regarding his pitching selection for the second game, but it is likely he will give the slab slip to Glenn Spencer. The Birmingham boy did bullpen duty during yesterday's setback, but he did not throw enough to take away a pitching edge. Wood or Wilougby also are under consideration. Bob Smith, erstwhile Boston star, is slated to face the Buccos.

Only once during the inaugural did the Pirates play up to their lithographs. Brother Lloyd

Associated Press.

With all the fanfare that usually accompanies the start of a new baseball year, the major leagues have launched what promises to be a highly successful season.

The size of the opening day crowds, which filled eight ball parks with nearly 250,000 fans, and the quality of the first game performances combined to promise great things for future days between now and September. All around the two circuits, the teams that have been picked to finish in the first division performed well enough to justify the predictions, while the others showed that they may become contenders. A number of the recruits, particularly on the weaker teams, shone in the opening games.

In no case was the margin of victory more than four runs while one game which brought together two of the prospective pennant contenders was carried into extra innings. The Philadelphia Athletics, the world champions, defeated the Washington Senators, who finished second to the A's in the American League last year, 5 to 3, in an 11-inning battle.

BABE HITS FIRST

Three other good pitching performances turned up in the American League. Before a crowd of 70,000, Charley Ruffing, of the New York Yankees, held the Boston Red Sox in check to gain a 6-to-3 victory. Babe Ruth added to the festivities by hitting his first home run of the season, while Winsett made a pinch homer for Boston.

Wesley Ferrell started out to beat last year's mark of 25 victories for Cleveland as his mates hit well behind him to beat the Chicago White Sox, 5 to 4. Walter Stewart, of St. Louis, limited the rebuilt Detroit Tigers to six hits, while the Browns doubled that number to win, 7-3.

Charley Root, ace of the Chicago Cubs, turned in the National League's best hurling performance as he allowed the Pittsburgh Pirates only four blows while gaining a 6-to-2 triumph.

CARDS BEAT REDS

The champion St. Louis Cardinals, now just one of the teams battling for the flag, found trouble with Larry Benton's pitching in the early innings, but came with a rush at the finish and defeated Cincinnati, 7 to 3. The New York Giants and Philadelphia quickly found the range of the rightfield wall at Baker Bowl, Philadelphia, and slammed out four homers, three in that direction. Chuck Klein walloped two in succession, but could not keep his team ahead, as a big seventh inning gave the Giants a 9-to-5 victory.

John Picus Quinn started his twenty-ninth year as a professional pitcher on the mound for Brooklyn, but failed to foil the Boston Braves batters after the first few innings. He was removed in the seventh, but the damage was done, and Boston won by a 7-4 count. Boston's starter, Tom Zachary, was driven to cover in the first inning.

Westinghouse Wins In Volleyball Play

Westinghouse High School's volleyball team advanced to the semi-final round of the city school tourney, which got under way at Fifth Avenue yesterday afternoon. Westinghouse defeated Schenley, 15-12 and 15-11, and won from Fifth, 6-15, 17-15 and 15-9.

Fifth downed Allegheny in the first round, 15-3 and 15-6. Carrick downed Connelley, 15-4 and 15-2. The semi-finals will be played Friday afternoon and the finals in the evening, in connection with the junior school tourney.

ball rules as they are printed in the book and will follow the lead of organized ball instead of that of some of the eastern universities in the matter of the sacrifice fly.

The Eastern Intercollegiate League will continue to credit a sacrifice on any fly ball that enables a runner to score. Penn State, however, will observe the new ruling to the letter. "We are going to follow the recent change made in the rules," said Coach Joe Bedenk. "It seems to me that this is a fair rule and should be observed."

IT ISN'T OFTEN that a man who is forced to resign as football coach at a big college renews a contract at the same school as coach in some other branch of athletics, but that's what Nib Price is doing at the University of California.

Young Jack Thompson

Price was squeezed out of the football picture there last November and Navy Bill Ingram has been signed in his place, but evidently the university has not lost faith in him as a basketball coach, as it has just renewed his contract as varsity floor mentor for 1932.

THE SUCCESS OF Young Jack Thompson in winning back the world welterweight fistic title from Tommy Freeman by a technical knockout in the twelfth round at Cleveland last night was a championship change that caused no surprise, as the Negro had looked like the better fighter even when he lost the title to Freeman last September, and it had been generally figured that he would regain the crown if given another chance in a return match. Thompson is by no means the first fighter to be champion of one class twice. Three other welterweights had that distinction in Rube Ferns, Ted Lewis and Jack Britton, together with Pete Herman, bantamweight; Battling Nelson, lightweight; Stanley Ketchel and Billy Papke, middleweights, and Gene Tunney, American light-heavyweight.

SPENCER CUB FOE TODAY

Waner unloaded a double in the eighth round that threw terror into the 45,000 opening day fans but Lloyd's mates could not follow the lead of the clever centerfielder. The double was the pivotal punch of a two-run drive and the Pirates ended their licks at the plate with a margin of one lone tally separating them from the enemy. The Bears, however, rolled up three more runs in their half of the inning and the ball game was in the old bag for the Rajah.

HARTNETT HITS HOMER

Home-Run Hartnett furnished the high and low spots of the thrilling clash. Gabby caused a riot in the stands with his homer in the second, and when he came up next he found three of his pals on the runways and none out. French didn't do a thing in this crisis other than fan the swatter.

One was out and Stephenson was on first when Hartnett found the range on the fence behind the left-center bleachers. Manager Hornsby scored what proved to be the winning run in the fourth, which he pried off with a single. Hack Wilson also singled, and the bases were packed when Stevie walked. After French fanned Hartnett, Bell drove in Hornsby on a force play at second.

MOSOLF STARTS RALLY

It was Jim Mosolf who started the productive drive of the eighth. Batting for French, Jim walked and L. Waner whacked his double to right. Grantham flied to Cuyler and Mosolf tallied, Brother Lloyd racing to third on the throw to the plate. Paul tried hard for a safety, but the best he could do was to cut himself down by way of English and Grimm as Lloyd scored.

George Grant pitched the last round against the Cubs. George had one away when he walked Hack Wilson. Stephenson singled to send Hack to third, and when Pie Traynor failed on Hartnett's grounder, the drive went for a double. Bell followed with a double, the net result being three runs.

his loss, but explained it was useless for him to continue, as he could not see.

Thompson failed to reveal the flashing performances that enabled him to knock out Joe Dundee and batter Jimmy McLarnin to defeat. He was perhaps too cautious because he wanted to save his damaged hand for a knockout smash if the opportunity had presented itself.

Jackie Rodgers, Pittsburgh Negro, was beaten in one of the preliminaries by Chico Cisneros, of Mexico City, in a six-round bout. Gorilla Jones, of Akron, won over Paul Pirrone, of Cleveland, in a 10-rounder and Joey Goodman, of Cleveland, defeated Tommy Grogan, of Omaha, in a scrap of the same length.

Rodgers got off to a good start in the opening round, but thereafter took too many right hand punches on the chin. One of them floored him for a count of nine in the fourth round. He weighed 123 pounds against 127 for his opponent.

Freeman received $21,905.53 for his end of the main bout, and Thompson $4,381.10. Thompson also was the recipient of a gold championship belt presented by President General John V. Clinnin, on behalf of the National Boxing Association, which will recognize him as champion.

LES CANADIENS RETAIN CUP

MONTREAL, April 15.—(AP.)—The flashing Canadiens, of Montreal, captured the Stanley Cup, emblematic of world professional hockey supremacy, for the second straight year last night by whipping the Chicago Blackhawks, 2-0, in the fifth and final game of their playoff series.

A capacity crowd of 13,000 howled in glee as Howie Morenz, speedy center, who had been held scoreless for nine consecutive playoff games, grabbed the puck five minutes before the end of the game and scored the goal that definitely clinched the victory for the Canadiens. The first Canadiens' tally had come in the second period, when Johnny Gagnon hammered home the puck after taking a pass from little Aurel Joliat.

MATMEN MAKE LOCAL BOW TONIGHT

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor.

A card of five wrestling bouts, two of them to a one-fall finish and the others limited to 30 minutes, with a decision by the judges or the referee in the event both men are on their feet at the expiration of that time, will serve to inaugurate the revival of the mat sport in Pittsburgh in the Motor Square Garden ring tonight. All of the grapplers are heavyweights.

Jim McMillen and Young Romano meet in the main bout and Dick Shikat and Andy Zahraroff in the other finish affair.

Hans Steinke and Wladek Zbyszko hook up in the main preliminary, with Jim Clinstock opposing Jack Washburn and Tiny Roebuck against Willie Davis in the other bouts, the first of which will go on at 8:30 o'clock.

"EXHIBITION" BOUTS

Under the rules of the boxing commission, all bouts are considered in the light of exhibitions rather than as contests, but the promoter has agreed to have the grapplers cut down the hippodroming and slugging to a minimum. As a matter of fact, he is advertising that the bouts really are serious affairs and strictly on the level, and he wants the public to regard them as such. Whether or not future shows will be held here depends upon the turnout for tonight's card. The boxing commission has refused to issue licenses to promote wrestling here to anyone other than Arthur Sharkey, the sponsor of tonight's show, despite the fact that the Meyers Bowl and other local interests have made formal application. Sharkey hails from Atlantic City, although he claims an Erie residence.

Incidentally, McMillen is violating the commission's week-old rule in appearing in the main bout tonight, as he tossed Dick Daviscourt in a main bout in Baltimore last night, and the rule says no wrestler shall be permitted to appear in two main bouts within a period of 48 hours.

Between Rounds

Jimmy Slattery, of Buffalo, former light-heavyweight champion, makes his debut as a full-fledged heavyweight against Tom Heeney in a six-round bout in Buffalo next Monday night.

The Y. M. H. A. looks for a capacity crowd for its amateur boxing show with the Boys' Club team tomorrow night. The Pittsburgh Lyceum holds a show the same night.

The cards for both the McKeesport show tomorrow night and that at the Moose Temple on Friday night have been completed. Tiger Joe Randall and Ted Yarrot top the McKeesport bill, with Buddy McArthur and Lloyd Clements in the semi-final, Jimmy Reilly and Angel Verglone in the second bout, and Kid Blues and Joey Angelo in the opener.

Pat Silvers and Joe Walters are in a return bout in the Moose windup, with Frank Novak and Lee Peer in the semi-final, Ray Thompson and Joe Bazzone in the second bout, and Tony Bazzone and Carl Montebano in the first event.

Matchmaker Jules Beck, of Motor Square Garden, is at work on his preliminary card for next Monday night's show, which will headline Pete Suskey, of Scranton, and Bucky Lawless. Lawless has scored two lucky wins in bouts here, one over Buck Fetterman and the other over Paul Petrone, both of whom really defeated him, but the fans took a shine to his work. Susky is a tough hombre out of the hard coal region of the state, who has been fighting Jackie Fields and other good ones during the past year.

Fay Kosky boxes Gaston LeCadre in San Francisco tonight, Al Webster meets Alex Knaub at Billings, Mont., and Abie Israel battles Canton Bobieto at Seattle.

The Garden card for next Monday night was completed today with Jack Tracey, local Negro middleweight, meeting Dorey Shimar, of Williamsport, in the eight-round semi-final; Billy Flanagan, of Braddock, opposing Georgie Chambers, of the East End, in the second bout, and Jimmy Reilly, of McKeesport, in with U. S. Carpentier, of New Kensington, in the opener.

Mike Ray, local manager of boxers, was badly injured, along with two companions, when their automobile turned over en route to the Thompson-Freeman fight at Cleveland last night, but he managed to pull himself together and helped to second Jackie Rodgers in the latter's preliminary bout on the card.

Low Board Diving Title Meet Tonight

The Irene Kaufmann Settlement House will be the scene of the Allegheny Mountain Association of the A. A. U. men's senior low board fancy diving championship tonight.

Duane Dowden, of the Pittsburgh Athletic Association, is the defending champion. John Carrick, representing University of Pittsburgh; D. Johnston, of the P. A. A.; McCoy, of the Downtown Y. M. C. A.; David, former P. A. A. star; Pal and Weigman, of the Wilbur Club, and several others are entered.

Says Nick Altrock

(Baseball's Comedian)

WASHINGTON, April 15.—The baseball season opened with a blaze of glory that wasn't any still alarm. Chicago turned out 45,000 to see the Cubs play the Pirates. That is almost as many people as didn't vote for Big Bill Thompson. Even the Red Sox almost filled the Yankee Stadium. That is the equivalent of July and August on their home grounds. From all around both circuits other crowds were reported.

Nick Altrock

It must have been the best day the pickpockets have had this year. If the mobs keep on turning out like that, by summer even the knotholes will be in the hands of the speculators.

MACK PRAISES ATHLETICS FOR GREAT FIGHT

By CONNIE MACK
Manager World Champion Athletics.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—The Athletics were true to type this afternoon and won the opening game in 11 innings from Washington because they refused to lose. The score was 5 to 3.

When you consider this vastly improved young lefthander, Lloyd Brown, started with his last opponent in the first inning to retire no fewer than 23 of our players in order, then you will see that the Athletics were up against amazing pitching.

That's what Brown did yesterday. The Athletics scored a run in the first inning on Haas' double and Al Simmons' single and then with two out, Brown fanned Foxx to end the half.

BROWN BRILLIANT

Then Brown went roughshod over the Athletics and didn't allow a man to reach first base until one was out in the ninth. You can scarcely tie that for airtight pitching. His control was perfect and everything he threw had something on it.

I don't suppose there was one Washington fan who thought it possible for the Senators to lose. Washington had broken the tie by scoring the second run off Walberg in the seventh and the game to them looked as good as won. Brown had to retire only two men to be a hero. Max Bishop paddled a single to give us a wee bit of a hope and then Haas delivered a telling blow, when he doubled to left and put Max on third. Cochrane flied well out to Manush and the score was even again.

GROVE STOPS NATS

I put Grove in action in the ninth and he blanked them, but in the tenth after Judge singled to right, two bunts filled the bases with nobody out and it looked as if the Senators would get the necessary two runs to win.

No pitcher ever faced a more hopeless outlook and Grove must get full credit for what happened. Spencer, who had been hitting hard all day, hit to Boley, who retired Judge at the plate for the first out. Manager Johnson sent Harris to bat for Marberry and he flied to Haas, but Harry Rice scored the tying run. A single meant a victory for Washington, but Grove fanned Myer.

Our players never quit. They showed themselves real world champions by coming through and tying the game in the ninth and winning in the eleventh, after Washington had doggedly tied the game in the tenth.

W. P. G. A. BODY MEETS TONIGHT

The golf season in Western Pennsylvania officially will be ushered in at 7 o'clock tonight in the ballroom of the Pittsburgh Athletic Association when the Western Pennsylvania Golf Association convenes in its annual spring confab.

H. Denny, Jr.

Following their annual dinner, the members of the W. P. G. A., will induct officers for the present season. Harmar D. Denny, Jr., of Fox Chapel, will serve as president; J. R. Dunn of Oakmont, succeeds Denny as vice president; George A. Ormiston, of Oakmont, continues as secretary, and James A. Barber, of Chartiers Heights, starts another term as treasurer.

John W. Carr, secretary-treasurer of the Pittsburgh Field Club; Ledlie W. Young, of Allegheny, and Robert W. Smith, Greensburg, are the directors. George J. Willock, of Oakmont, has been nominated to succeed Dunn on the board.

Dates for the W. P. G. A. amateur and open tournaments to be staged at Fox Chapel this year will be chosen as well as other big district events. The association now numbers more than 50 members.

Everything is in readiness for the opening of the Schenley Park golf course tomorrow afternoon under the direction of its new professional, Bob Graham, who succeeds Al McBride, recently named to a similar position at the new South County Park. Many improvements have been made over the municipal links and Schenley patrons will find their favorite golf course in excellent shape. Prominent city and county officials will take part in the opening ceremonies. The opening tomorrow is 15 days earlier than in previous years.

ANSWER TO QUERY

H. E. S., Pittsburgh—Umpire was correct. Runner was out the instant the ball touched him, and as that made the third out it retired the side and ended the game. The rule is: "The baserunner is out if a fair hit ball strike him before touching a fielder, and, in such case, no base shall be run unless necessitated by the batsman becoming a baserunner, but no run shall be scored or any other baserunner put out until the umpire puts the ball back in play."

DOG SHOW CLOSES

WASHINGTON, Pa., April 15.—The annual bench show of the Washington County Kennel Club, which attracted a total entry list of close to 500 dogs, will be concluded today. Judging of many of the 35 varieties of highly bred dogs competing was completed yesterday.

MUNHALL HIGH WINS

No. 8—HOW TO PLAY THE OUTFIELD.

By "Bing" Miller

WORLD CHAMPION OUTFIELDER.

When you sit in the stands and see some outfielder run away over to the foul line, leap into the air and come down with the ball stuck in his glove it looks easy, doesn't it? But it isn't, believe me. One-hand catches that thrill the stands and set the fans to howling are mighty tough and treacherous things.

And my first word to the kid outfielder is never to use one hand where he can get two hands on the ball. Grandstanding is bad business, and it becomes a habit after awhile. The fellow who gets two hands on the ball may not be so flashy, but he's a lot better ballplayer.

Of course, there are times when a fellow can't get both hands on the ball, and at times like that a one-handed catch has to be made. And just remember that the secret of such a catch is a good, strong wrist and perfect timing. The shock of the ball always comes on the wrist, and the secret of catching it is to absorb the shock by going back with the ball a little distance after it hits the glove.

In making a one-hand catch, the hand always should be bent slightly forward at the time of impact—otherwise the force of the blow will bend the fingers backward and the ball will elude your grip. The web in your glove between the thumb and first finger is built in purposely to form a sort of pocket for catching the ball. You take the shock of the blow on the heel and thumb of the glove, and, if you've timed the catch perfectly, the shock of the blow in the glove pocket will cause the fingers to instinctively close and grasp the ball.

It's all right to practice making one-hand catches, because now and then you'll have to do it—but, in playing the outfield, or any other position for that matter, just remember this: Two hands always are better than one—and a grandstand effort that ends in failure isn't worth a plugged dime. I've seen a lot of outfielders come and go—but I've noticed that the really great ones, like Harry Hooper, Tris Speaker, Babe Ruth, Eddie Roush and fellows like that, never go in for grandstanding. They make the plays look easy because they get away to a good, fast start, have learned to judge a ball perfectly and believe in the old motto that it's safer to play safe than to be sorry.

CITY LEAGUERS SET STAGE

By TOM BIRKS

The City League cleared the decks for action at its final pre-season meeting last night when it was decided not to change the rule with reference to signing players, the Spalding ball was adopted and a decision reached to use Pittsburgh Umpires' Association officials.

The season will be opened May 4. A new schedule will have to be drafted with the Dormont team playing its games on the Dormont High School field on Wednesday and Friday nights.

DANKO CONFIDENT

The rule on contracts is that any player may sign with more than one club, but becomes the property of the team with which he first plays.

Manager Danko of the St. Elizabeth club, already is predicting a flag for his club in the Steel City League. Classed by Honus Wagner as the finest light first-class loop functioning around the city, the boys from Lawrenceville are going to get plenty of opposition.

Many new clubs are lined up with the Steel City, including the Caruso club, of Hays; the Mifflin club, Shine A. A., and the De Pasquale club. The East End Cardinals are the only outfit left from last season's league.

MUSHBALLERS MEET

There will be a meeting of the Lawrenceville Mushball League at the Leslie Park recreation rooms tomorrow evening. The following teams, Mystery, Cadets, Orioles, Arsenal, Lawrenceville Social Club and Bowery, take notice. Any other club interested should be on hand for the session.

AMBRIDGE VICTOR

AMBRIDGE, Pa., April 15.—Ambridge High School's track and field team defeated Monaca High in a dual meet here yesterday by a score of 54 to 51. Brooks, of Ambridge, was high point winner with 16 points.

HIGH TOTALS RECORDED BY PINMEN

Some crack five-men teams take the alleys to feature today's rolling in the first annual duckpin tournament of the Greater Pittsburgh Alley Owners' Association, in its third day on the Haus alleys, North Side.

Among the teams that will roll today will be the Auditorium five, Dispatch Alleys, St. George Lyceum, Robinsons, Crookston's Recreation, Arcade and the Libertys.

J. Blume, of St. Anthony's Lyceum, took the lead in the singles yesterday with a score of 575. R. J. Bubenheim rolled into second place with 549. N. Tomich, who uncorked a total of 538 on Monday, retained third place, with S. Blume taking fourth with 519 and McLoughlin retaining fifth with 515.

In the doubles, the Martell-Gillespie combination, which recorded a mark of 1004 on Monday, held the lead. J. Blume and Degelman scored a 980 yesterday for second and Schietoma and Kunkle took third with 977.

ROCKNE'S LIFE STORY—FOURTEENTH INSTALMENT.

By WARREN BROWN

(Copyright, 1931, Chicago Herald and Examiner. Distributed by Universal Service.)

In between the passing of Gipp and the rise of the "Four Horsemen" there appeared on the Notre Dame teams a member of the line whose career was closely linked with that of Rockne.

Tom Lieb

It was Lieb who had the difficult task of handling the Notre Dame team in 1929, when Rockne was confined to his bed, for most of the season, with the affliction that, at times, seemed to threaten his life.

Rockne was not entirely out of the picture, at any time. Indeed, at the close of the season, in which the team did not lose a single game, and became national champion, an interviewer who was skeptical about Rockne's literary adventures, said that the Notre Dame coach was certainly qualified, at last, to pick an all-America team.

"You haven't seen much football, at all this year," said the interviewer. "You haven't even seen much of your own team."

"Yes, I have," corrected Rockne. "I saw my boys in the games that mattered."

This may explain why Rockne, against doctor's and friends' advice, made a trip to Pittsburgh, and another to Chicago, and was actually carried to the sidelines to see his boys engage Carnegie Tech and Southern California.

That Rockne planned campaigns in 1929, despite his illness, is probably accepted. That Lieb carried out these plans, to the best of his ability, and, often enough, at the risk of his own popularity, is something that must be understood.

IN TOUCH WITH PLAYERS

I visited Rockne's sickroom frequently during the football season, and invariably Lieb would be there, and the bed would be covered with scouting reports, with diagrams for plays, and with all the other mechanics of football planning and plotting.

At other times, Rockne would summon his quarterbacks, his halves, his ends, and so on through the regular squad and lecture to them, group by, group.

He kept a remarkably close contact with his players, regardless of the fact that he was seldom with them on the field. And that was accomplished by Lieb. No assistant coach in football history ever had the responsibility that was Lieb's, in that season, and Lieb worked it out to a successful conclusion.

Lieb left Notre Dame, after the 1929 season, and was not concerned again in the university's football affairs until the middle of the 1930 season, when reports began to trickle back from Los Angeles that Lieb was around belittling the talents of the Notre Dame team.

That Lieb did this, is true, and that his motive was misunderstood, even by the players on the Notre Dame squad, is also true.

I happen to know that many of them, making the trip for the Southern California game, were anxious to get within punching distance of Lieb, and especially so when Rockne tacked up, in the dressing room at Tucson, before the final practice, an interview in which Lieb went overboard for Southern California.

The psychological effect of this was what Rockne had been seeking, but it was a long time afterwards before he was able to convince some of his players that Lieb's activities were not part of an "act," the sole objective of which was to build Southern California up so high that it might fall the harder.

This incident, or series of incidents, was undoubtedly the longest psychological experiment that Rockne ever conducted.

Lieb was not alone in it, though he enacted the chief role. Jimmy Phelan played a part, too, and played it well.

TRICKS AROUSE TEAM

Rockne, in the days preceding the Southern California game, was reaching into his bag and coming up with new tricks to rouse his team, which was, no doubt, the best of all time, but whose chief problem was not admitting it. Such football teams, though they come from Notre Dame or elsewhere, are easy prey.

It was on this trip, and at Tucson, that Rockne pulled another bold punch that shook his players.

There were two practices scheduled on the day following the arrival at Tucson, and one or two of the boys took their time about arriving for the first one.

Rockne left the field and went back to the hotel, passing the tardy players en route.

"If you fellows don't care enough about this game to be on time to practice for it, I'm sure I don't," he said, and kept on his way.

They say that the afternoon practice at Tucson will linger forever in the memory of those who saw it. I have an idea that the game this team played at Los Angeles on that memorable afternoon on December 6 will not soon be forgotten, either.

This was the season in which Jumping Joe Savoldi had been lost to the squad, and Larry Mullins came up with an injury that made it impossible for him to start the Southern California game.

O'Connor had been in the game against Southern California the year previous, not long, but long enough to get a very well blackened and entirely closed eye, past which sailed a pass that gave the Trojans their first touchdown.

O'Connor hadn't been seeing much service the next year, with Schwartz, Savoldi, Carideo, Mullins and Brill all functioning so spectacularly. But he was in for a while against Pittsburgh, and showed what he could do.

O'CONNOR STARS

Southern California had dismissed O'Connor from its mind, and Rockne was content to have it left that way.

He knew that the practices at Tucson would be watched very closely by his friends, the newspapermen of Los Angeles, and he didn't care to have any mention made of O'Connor.

What to do?

It was expected that Dan Hanley would play fullback.

"I wonder if Mark Kelly and those fellows in Los Angeles know what Hanley looks like?" Rockne asked.

He found out, when O'Connor, wearing the jersey with Hanley's number on it, worked out with the regular backfield, at Tucson, and was "Hanley" as far as the Los Angeles delegation were concerned.

What he might have accomplished, had Rockne not decided to spring him as a surprise, or to remind him that to an O'Connor, such a thing as a black eye must always be avenged, though one wait for an entire year, is something the world will never know.

Suffice it to say that O'Connor, the substitute, with his long runs, became the hero of the last collegiate game that Rockne watched, as coach.

And knowing O'Connor, I hardly think he will trade all the praise that was showered on him for that memory.

ern in the organization of a defensive battle, in order that unity of doctrine among the Allies might bring about unity of action.

Marshal Foch

Another result of the battle of Flanders was to expose the Bethune coal basin to bombardment by German artillery. This produced a serious disturbance in the working of these mines and affected the output of the munition factories and railways which they supplied.

The battle of Flanders had been a great drain upon Allied manpower. The British reserves had melted in the struggle and the calls upon the French reserves in their behalf amounted already to 10 divisions.

To enable Gen. Petain to reconstitute these reserves without weakening his front line, I had arranged with Field Marshal Haig that the British divisions which had been withdrawn from the battle should be placed in a quiet sector of the French front.

In this way they set free a similar number of French units for reconstituting reserves; but the movement could only be carried out slowly.

At first Gen. Petain received four British divisions constituting the 9th Corps. They were assigned to the French 6th Army, and towards the middle of May they were put into the Craonne-Loivre front.

These battles that had been going on incessantly for a month, brought about another result which has already been referred to—the equilibrium in the distribution of French forces had been upset.

Americans Enter Battle

At the beginning of May, 47 French divisions were north of the Oise (23 in the front line and 24 in reserve); there remained only 55 divisions to hold the front from the Oise to the Swiss frontier, namely 43 in the line and 12 in reserve. Gen. Petain drew my attention to the danger presented by this situation.

The great wastage suffered by the British Army had to be taken into account; but a renewal of the German attack between the Oise and Lys was always possible and might have serious consequences for the Allies, on account of the proximity of decisive objectives.

I therefore maintained a group of four divisions north of the Somme, and another group of the same strength south of that river. This did not prevent the despatch of units to Flanders to feed the Army Detachment of the north.

At the same time, I did all that was possible to facilitate the task of the French Commander-in-Chief by making use of the American troops, requesting that their divisions be put into action as soon as possible, or assigned to quiet sectors.

The American First Division had already been placed on the front of the First French Army, on April 26th, and it soon gave proof of its military qualities by taking the village of Cantigny by assault May 26th.

I asked Gen. Pershing to send the 26th, 42nd and 2nd American divisions as soon as possible to the battle front, and to permit the infantry of the 32nd, 3rd and 5th American divisions to be employed as reinforcements for the French divisions which were coming out of battle much reduced in numbers; this would enable them to be rapidly used again in quiet sectors.

I also suggested to him that American pilots might be sent to French Air Squadrons, where they could pursue their training and, at the same time, lighten the work for their French comrades.

British Losses Great

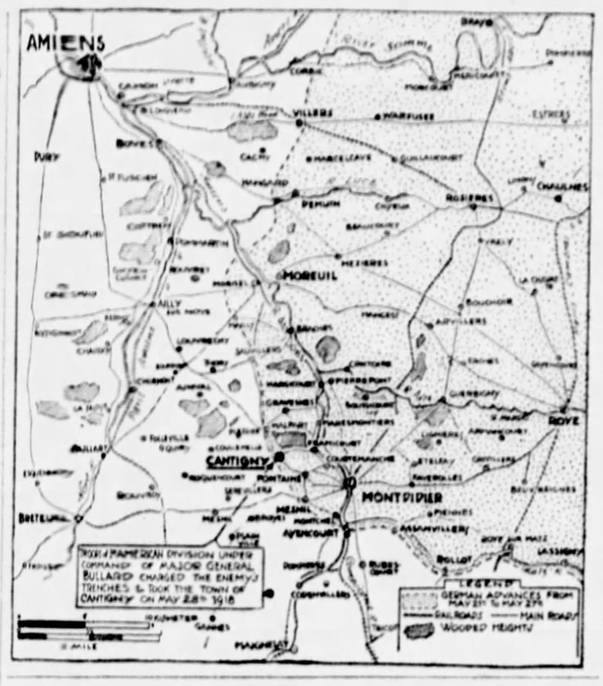
At the same time we reduced the requirements of the Army



Detachment of the North, and diminished its field of action. The heavy losses which it was incurring seemed to be out of all proportion to the tactical results obtained.

After making allowances for the severe conditions which obtained in the Flanders fighting, and especially the intense bombardments by gas shell, it was evident that these losses were in great part due to the inexperience of the men and a lack of vigilance on the part of those in command.

Nevertheless, in spite of all the ingenuity displayed by the High Command to meet the exigencies of battle, one vital problem dominated the general situation of the Allied armies in France in midspring of 1918—the problem of numerical strength.

Scarcely recovered from the heavy losses brought about by its offensives in 1917, the British Army sustained, in the spring of 1918, two tremendous blows one after the other; the German attack on the Arras-Amiens front, started on March 21, and the German attack in Flanders, begun on April 9. The first had cost the British Army 120,000 men, the second increased this figure to nearly 300,000, including 14,000 officers.

The reinforcements sent from England were far from making good these losses, especially among the officers and non-commissioned officers. It is true that by July and August, the return of many men who had been wounded in the first battles could be counted upon.

It was also possible to foresee that before the expiration of this time the military laws recently passed by the English Parliament would have borne effect. The question, however, was how to provide until then for the enormous shortage in British effectives.

British Army Reduced

Failing to find any other solution for the problem, Field Marshal Haig resigned himself to abolishing the divisions he was unable to recomplete; namely, five after the German offensive on the Somme, and four after the battle of Flanders. The British army was thus reduced to 51 fighting divisions.

The disappearance of so many divisions caused, in addition to other serious consequences, a reduction in the Allied reserves at the very moment when the number of available German troops was augmented. According to the calculations of the French staff, these amounted to 69 divisions on April 25, 70 divisions May 10 and 81 on May 19.

On May 11, I intervened with Marshal Haig in an effort to secure the retention of all the British divisions, pointing out to him certain measures which, in my opinion, would enable this result to be achieved. He declared, however, that they were impossible of realization.

I then requested him to reconstitute at least some of the divisions it had been decided to suppress, if only to show the government in London the importance attached to maintaining in France the highest possible number of British divisions.

In the face of this insistence, the Marshal urged the War Office to send him, in the absence of men capable of standing active operations, contingents of an inferior quality, but capable of being employed in quiet sectors. In this way the general reserve would not be impaired.

Although I appreciated the value of this proposal, I at once pointed out the danger it presented if, instead of being considered as a temporary expedient, it established for the future a separation of the British Army into two classes of divisions, one for battle and the other for holding the line. A like motion, it is true, was in considerable favor with the Germans, but that did not make it any the more sound.

Decide on More Men

On the contrary, the thing to be desired was to have divisions of approximately the same quality and equally capable of fighting.

By departing from this policy, certain governments would be encouraged not to put forth their best efforts. In order to bring the matter to a head, I requested the French government to take it up immediately with Mr. Lloyd George.

I myself talked to Gen. Wilson on the subject on May 20th at Abbeville. I urged upon him the imperative, two-fold necessity of recompleting all the British divisions, and of excluding any definite distinction amongst them.

Gen. Wilson expressed himself as in entire agreement with me, and shortly afterwards he informed me that the British government had decided to send to France 70,000 more men that had been previously provided for.

On his part Marshal Haig forwarded me, on June 10th, the program for the reconstruction of his divisions. Expressing my satisfaction at seeing now settled a question to which he himself attached so great an importance, I drew the Marshal's attention, on the one hand, to the advisability of having it understood that the employment of the "B" contingents was a purely temporary measure, and, on the other hand, to the necessity of supplying divisions which had been filled up by these contingents with large numbers of machine guns and much artillery.

Look to United States

However, it would have been rash to count on the British Army being put in proper condition again in the near future. Indeed, it took a good many weeks to reforge it as a fighting instrument and put it into proper shape.

The last weeks of July arrived before it had regained its battle value, and it was not until the beginning of September that it got back all its units, excepting always two divisions which were definitely skeletonized. Thus, from the middle of April to the middle of July, the situation of the British Army remained extremely precarious.

Without having suffered as much as the British, the French Army, which had hastened to the latter's aid, had undergone many ordeals since March 21, which could not but have an influence upon its effectives. The front entrusted to it had been increased by 75 miles, the totality of its divisions had been engaged 96 times and their losses had been considerable, especially during the battle of Flanders.

Thus Gen. Petain also was confronted by great difficulty in filling up his ranks. The resources he had at his command for this purpose did not make it possible to wait for the incorporation of the conscripts of the 1919 class, as these recruits would only be ready during the month of October. He therefore requested the government to return him 200,000 men employed in munition factories in the interior, but only 40,000 were furnished.

Consequently, toward the close of the spring of 1918, France and England were finding the greatest difficulty in obtaining from their national resources the men necessary to make good the losses which their armies had suffered.

However, there was one possible remedy for this trying situation, namely, an appeal to the United States, whose immense reservoir of men was still untapped. To what extent was America, at this period, capable of bringing to the Allies the immediate help of which they stood in need?

'American Fighting Power Demonstrated'--Bullard

Gen. Robert Lee Bullard, Commander of American 1st Division at Cantigny, later Commander of the 2nd American Army in France, made the following comment on the American victory at Cantigny, alluded to in today's instalment of Marshal Foch's memoirs:

"Cantigny was a battle which taught the Allies that Americans can fight. I would not say that they were finally convinced, because Allied generals continued to show considerable doubt about our 'amateur oldiers' for some months afterward. But the General Staff watched that battle and were pleased. They had little else to be pleased with on that day, because the Boche forces had broken through the day before and were driving demoralized French and British troops backward to the Marne.

Gen. Bullard

"Gen. Pershing watched the Battle of Cantigny and on returning to his headquarters evidently met with doubt among Allied military leaders regarding our ability to hold the town.

"The French had taken it twice, I was told, and had been thrown out. Gen. Pershing sent me a message that under no circumstances must we retire from the village, which was important strategically. The message was unnecessary. We intended to hold it, and we did."

U. S. STEEL DIPS UNDER LOW OF DECEMBER

Market Leader Makes Quick Recovery After Decline; Wall Street Unimpressed

NEW YORK, April 15—(AP.)—Bears succeeded in pushing U. S. Steel down to a new low for the 1929-31 bear movement today, but were surprised to find Wall street unimpressed by their demonstration.

Share prices continued to ooze slowly downhill, but with no excitable public following in the market, the new lows for this traditional market leader failed to cause any extensive unsettlement. Trading held to a slow, sluggish pace. Most of it seemed to originate with professional operators.

U. S. Steel declined more than 2 points, getting slightly under last December's bottom price of 134⅜, but it quickly made a partial recovery.

Iron Age placed raw steel output at 51 per cent of capacity, the third successive drop of 2 points. While the decline from the year's peak of 57 per cent reached in late March has been a normal seasonal development, there had been some hope that the spring peak might be reached later than usual this year, and that the current decline was only temporary, but this hope seems to be on the wane.

American Metal Market commented that the real feature in steel may be called its failure to improve farther since the middle of March, rather than its decline, which is slight, and not likely to be important. It added that there should be no thought of a reversion to anything like the 35 per cent level touched last December, as there are no stocks of material on hand as there were at that time.

The report of electrical power consumption for the week ended April 11 showed a drop of 31 per cent from a year ago, the least favorable comparison since the week ended March 14. The showing is still considerably better than that of the early weeks of the year.

The decline in freight car loadings as reported for the week ended April 4 of 11,568 cars was interpreted over bearishly on first glance. As a matter of fact, the decline was less than usually occurs in the week of good Friday, and was largely accounted for by a smaller movement of coal.

The weekly petroleum statistics, however, were discouraging, showing further substantial gains in crude output and gasoline stocks on hand. There is talk of a further cut in mid-continent crude prices.

March Car Registry 84.4% of 1930 Month

NEW YORK, April 15—March returns from 21 states show that the automobile industry, exclusive of Ford, registered last month 84.4 per cent as many cars as in the corresponding month of 1930.

Six companies registered more cars in March this year than in March of 1930. Two titled at least 90 per cent of more and 10 companies registered at least 70 per cent or better last month as compared with a year ago.

Total March registrations, exclusive of Ford, were 44,671 cars. Including Fords, registrations were 63,635 cars.

Railways Company Net Declined in 1930

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

DIFFICULTIES OF THE PITTSBURGH Railways Company which may eventually make it necessary to either increase fares or curtail service are attributable to a sharp decline in traffic which has reduced earnings to a point below the return provided under the Traction Conference Board agreement.

For several years the organization has been trying to work out a refinancing plan to provide for the funding of securities of subsidiary companies which have matured. The slump has made the completion of this arrangement even more difficult than it appeared a few years ago.

Net profit for 1930 was $3,948,113 before providing for the 6 per cent return on capital investment, and for payments due to the county, the city of Pittsburgh and other municipalities. This compared with $4,556,374 in 1929.

Deficit Shown After Charges

AFTER PROVIDING FOR the 6 per cent return and other charges a deficit of $588,906 was reported for 1930. In 1929 a balance of $15,905 was reported.

It was this deficit which forced the company to inform the City Council that it was unable to meet the payments due in lieu of paving costs and license fees for the final quarter of 1930.

To fully understand the operation of the Pittsburgh Railways Company and its relationship with the city of Pittsburgh it is necessary to review some of the organization's history.

Receivership Lifted

IN 1918 THE COMPANY was placed in receivership. In 1924 this receivership was lifted. To make this possible the company made a 10-year agreement with the city of Pittsburgh and with some of the other municipalities served. The Railways Company is composed of a great number of subsidiary organizations which were acquired over a long period of years. Of these organizations 51 have bonds outstanding and 12 have issues of stock guaranteed by Pittsburgh Railways.

If the receivership had been allowed to continue, the street car lines would have been broken up into these individual systems by foreclosure of the various bond issues. Naturally this would have been inconvenient for the users of the lines. The contract with the city, known as the Traction Conference Board Agreement, provided for a 6 per cent return on invested capital after meeting operating expenses and depreciation. It provided that operations be reviewed by the Traction Conference Board consisting of representatives of the street car company and the city.

Value Set at $62,500,000

FOR THE PURPOSE of the agreement an invested capital value of $62,500,000 established by the Public Service Commission was accepted. To this was added $5,000,000 for additional capital for new property. It is not known just how the commission arrived at this value. The fact that it is sufficient to provide for the payment of interest on bonds and guaranteed stocks of the company and its subsidiaries indicates that the value may have been taken as the lowest amount which could have been allowed without endangering the disintegration of the company into its original units.

The company places a book value of $84,172,760 on its physical properties and shows total assets of $89,835,692 on its balance sheet.

Issues Matured

OF THE 51 BOND ISSUES of subsidiary companies, 22 have matured and several more will mature during the present year. No provision has been made to provide for the payment of the principal of these issues, but the interest payments have been maintained.

Up to the beginning of 1930 the company earned enough to meet its guaranteed return and the payments due to the municipalities. Under the Traction Conference Board Agreement it was to spend any surplus during the 10 years of the agreement for the improvement of street car service. In carrying out this agreement, only a nominal surplus was shown in each of the years prior to 1930.

Economies were made in operation last year, but these were not sufficient to compensate for an 8 per cent decline in passengers carried. The future of the Pittsburgh Railways Company and the possibilities for funding its matured bonds are largely dependent on the volume of traffic in coming years.

OMIT DIVIDEND ON VANADIUM

NEW YORK, April 15.—Directors of the Vanadium Corporation today omitted the regular quarterly dividend of 75 cents a share on the common stock due at this time.

The management explained that although the corporation made a profit of approximately $150,000 in the first quarter, and has a substantial earned surplus, the directors decided to pass the dividend, "owing to depressed business conditions and the fact that considerable sums have been and are being expended for development, improvement and expansions."

Wall street had expected the payment would be omitted or sharply reduced. The company supplies practically all of the vanadium requirements of the steel and automobile industries, and owns the largest and richest known vanadium deposit, which is in the Peruvian Andes.

THE SECRET SIX -:- By Frances Marion

Scorpio's Gang Plans to Sell Booze in City

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Louie Scorpio, known as "Slaughterhouse," is looked upon as a tough character. While in a disreputable restaurant he talks to the proprietor, Johnny Franks, and Nick Mizoski, known as the "Gouger." They ask him to join them in selling moonshine. Prompted by the great profits he will make, he consents. He accompanies them to the place where they make the stuff. While in the building police raid it. A Russian who had been helping to make the whisky is arrested, but the others elude the police and hide in another part of the building. They succeed in getting away altogether. Hank Rogers and Carl Luckner, rival newspaper reporters, get the story. The three bootleggers are afraid the captured Russian will expose them. They seek advice from Richard Newton, formerly a brilliant criminal attorney, now a drunkard and associated with Franks' gang.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER VI.

A sensational melodramatic story of the underworld, adapted from the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer-Cosmopolitan picture.

Vronski safely freed, Franks and his men continued their secret calling with renewed confidence.

New stills. More deliveries. Beer. Beer. Beer.

In two years the trio, their gang augmented, had become a force in Centro—a new Centro.

Gone were the trees that once shaded its main street. Hard-eyed men and women traversed the sidewalks. Johnny Franks' humble steak house was now a garish restaurant, covering half a block. The private office boasted elaborate rolltop desks, upon which Newton, Franks, Scorpio and the Gouger divided their spoils.

Divide Profits

"Things," remarked Johnny Franks, "is high, wide and handsome. We got swell new stills. We put out every grade of bottled and labeled goods. And the milk route and cleaning business racket is both cashing in fine. You see, Slaughterhouse, I told you we'd mop up."

Johnny, Scorpio, Newton and the Gouger were meeting, this summer night in 1924, to divide the week's profits. Neatly, as cards are stacked, an equal sum was placed before each man.

The change in the men was as marked as in the town itself. Newton, shaved, and well-groomed, looked like his old self, save for the wavering hands that betray the continual drinker.

Perhaps it was self-confidence that caused Johnny Franks to make an unwise move. After the money was divided, he leaned forward.

"Wait a minute!" he demanded. From Scorpio's and the Gouger's piles, he took two bills, and added them to his own.

"I don't see where you rate the hog's share!" from Scorpio, rage suffusing his frowning countenance. "I bring in more dough than all you guys put together!"

"Says you."

"Lucky thing for you, Johnny, that I'm an old pal," remarked Scorpio.

Expand Territory

"We're going to the city," Franks announced briefly. The Gouger looked at him sharply, then turned to Newton

"Do you think it's a good idea to muscle in on Colimo's territory? He's a tough egg, you know."

Scorpio's voice boomed out with sudden authority.

"We're going to deliver a truck of beer to Mousetrap Finkels—tonight at 10 o'clock—right under Colimo's nose. And he is going to like it!"

"But are we strong enough to muscle in?" objected the Gouger. "After all, you know he has a big mob—and a tough one. He's boss of the milk and dry cleaning racket in the city. We're liable to get a load of pineapples for this."

Franks took a hand in the debate.

"It's all set, and we deliver that beer tonight," he ordered. "We got as good rod men as Smiling Joe. And we got a swell hideout here in Centro, out of the city, where the city cops can't follow us. If Colimo's mob comes here, we're ready to burn 'em down."

Scorpio beckoned impatiently. "Let's go."

Under his overcoat, in holders, he "salted" a short, squatty sub-machine gun.

"And — Slaughterhouse," warned Franks, "don't use the rods unless you have to. Am I right, Newton?"

Newton, without glancing up, poured another drink from the decanter, and sipped it slowly, with the appreciation of a connoisseur.

DAILY TRUE STORY — Over Officious

Policeman Embarrassed by Lawyer at Hearing

And well he knew it.

He was also often an over-officious officer—and that's a mouthful for anyone to enunciate on the way home from the lodge banquet.

Peters believed in being officious—it would mean promotion. And nothing was going to stand in his way of a promotion if he could help it.

When the quiet little Mr. Merle Merton moved into the cottage on Spring street, which was on Officer Peters' beat at that time, Peters remarked to some of the old-time residents there that he was going to keep his eye on the newcomer.

"This is a good street," he said to Mr. Lang, the wealthiest and most influential resident of the street, "with good people living here. We don't want to get any undesirables here."

"Quite right," Mr. Lang agreed, "we appreciate your interest in us, and your efficiency."

Officer Peters nodded and hoped that Lang would speak a good word for him now and then where it would do the most good—to Peters.

Drops Package

Mr. Merton came home very late one night and it chanced to be the week that Peters was on the night shift. Peters knew the man well enough, but decided to pretend that he did not. Merton should be taught that he had a most efficient officer guarding his street.

"Where are you going?" Peters asked Merton.

"Do I have to tell you?"

Merton was grouchy. Usually he was urbane and gracious, but he had been overworked and his mind was full of problems.

"You do. It's an officer's right to question all suspicious persons," Peters said, grandly. He would apologize later, he planned, and let Merton know just how efficient he was.

"I'm never suspicious," Merton answered, beginning to see through Officer Peters, for he knew well enough that the policeman knew him.

"Wise-cracking, are you? Come now, what are you doing in this street?"

"I am being delayed and annoyed by a fool cop," Merton snapped at him and started to move on, but Peters stopped him. He couldn't stand for being talked to like this he was a strong arm of law and order and he had gone too far to back down.

"Either let me proceed or come down to the station with me, Peters," Merton said, "and on second thought, we'll go to the station."

Peters noticed a lang square package under Merton's arm. He had seen plenty of them. He took the package and started along. Merton followed cheerfully. But at the corner Peters stopped. He didn't want to go to the station, he didn't want them to think he didn't recognize a resident on his beat and he couldn't admit that he had recognized him and was just being officious.

"What's in the package?" he asked.

"Let Sergt. Hale on the night desk find out," Merton suggested.

"Oh," Peters said, realizing that this man wasn't quite as meek and silly as he suspected, "now I recognize you, Mr. Merton. You see I have to be careful, it's my job to protect you folks."

"You knew me right along," Merton remarked.

Peters purposely let the package drop. There was no crash, no leakage. He picked it up and realized that it was light.

Merton Annoyed

"What's your business, Mr. Merton?" Peters asked as he returned the package.

"One that I mind, Peters. Are we going—"

"Oh, that's all right," and Peters walked away, but he was mighty sore.

He kept his eyes on Mr. Merton after that.

And one night he saw a light in Merton's cellar. It was there a long while. He went into the yard and investigated. From the rear cellar window he could see a still.

A chance to get square!

He called, he notified Mr. Merton that he was under arrest. Mr. Merton started to lose his temper, then he telephoned for his lawyer, went down, got his bail and when the matter came up he proved that he was a commercial chemist, that his apparatus was not being used to make liquor, but that he was engaged in refining certain liquids to be used in some of his experiments.

Officer Horace Peters received some publicity.

It wasn't the sort he enjoyed. It consisted of a lot of newspaper wise-cracks and horse-laughs.

For a whole year he laid for Mr. Merton. He annoyed him by ordering him to clear his sidewalk of snow, by complaining about the refuse can and by various other petty little things, even to the extent of warning Mrs. Merton not to let the maid shake dust out of the windows as it was a violation of the Board of Health rules.

Mr. Merton was getting annoyed.

Suggests Idea

His daughter was at this time interested in young Lawyer Gage. Mr. Merton wasn't much interested, however. But Lily, his daughter, was telling young Mr. Gage about the seeming feud between her father and Officer Peters and it made him laugh.

"It's beyond being funny," Merton said, crossly.

"I can have him shifted to another beat, Mr. Merton, but that wouldn't be a very sporting sort of thing to do, would it?"

"No, it would not, Gage, you are right," and Merton's estimation of the young man jumped up a point.

"Why not pull a good one on him some day, Mr. Merton?"

Mr. Merton gave the young lawyer a savage look.

Lily gave her father a warning look, she didn't want a scene and she didn't want to lose the young man; she had fallen in love with him.

"I will be at your office tomorrow, young man, and if you fall down on this—well, I won't be surprised, or pleased."

The way the young man laughed as they went out didn't make Merton feel any better. The next morning he told Lily that the young man was dumb, that he didn't like him, and he said a few other things. Lily didn't seem to be cast down over it.

Sold Automobile

He went to the law office of young Mr. Gage the next day. The office was in a building at the corner of Main and Spring streets.

He was there two hours, chatting with the young man. Then he went down.

Officer Peters stepped out from the doorway and handed him a ticket.

"Can't you read," he snarled, "that sign gives you only one hour to park, your car's been there two hours."

"I think you are mistaken, officer," Merton said, sweetly, and I have a few errands to do."

He walked away and left the car there. After a while Peters went to find him and warn him. He couldn't locate him and when he got back the car was gone.

Mr. Merton was fined, he appealed. His lawyer was not young Mr. Gage. And when the trial came up Officer Peters testified that Mr. Merton's car was parked two and a half hours, or an hour and a half overtime.

Mr. Merton's lawyer called young lawyer Gage, who testified that he had bought the car of Mr. Merton at 10:35, or 15 minutes after Mr. Merton drove up and parked his car.

Therefore, Mr. Merton's car was not parked there two and a half hours, Mr. Merton's car was parked there just 15 minutes. After that it was Mr. Gage's car!

The magistrate, suspecting something, asked Mr. Merton why he did this and Mr. Merton stated that he did it to show how annoyingly over-officious this Officer Peters could be. He offered to cite a score of instances.

There was a rather pretty and jolly wedding at Mr. Merton's home on Spring street a few months later, but Officer Peters did not see any of the festivities inside or outside.

This was because he had been transferred to a dismal beat down on the flats between the switching yard and the gas plant.

ELLA CINDERS

An Idle Rumor

By Plumb and Conselman

I TELL YOU, JIM BLUNT AIN'T GOT A CHANCE WITH THAT CINDERS GIRL — HE AIN'T SHOWING HER ENOUGH ATTENTION! HE FIGGERS THERE AIN'T ANY USE RUNNIN' AFTER A STREET CAR AFTER YOU'VE CAUGHT IT!
I RECKON JIM CAN TAKE CARE OF HISSELF! HE AIN'T NEGLECTIN' HER! HE TOLD ME THAT EVERY MORNING HIS FIRST THOUGHTS ARE OF ELLA!
SURE! BUT PATCHES SAYS THE SAME THING — AND HE GETS UP A HALF HOUR EARLIER THAN JIM!
I TELL YOU, THAT KID IS A GO-GETTER! HE COULD SELL A GARAGE TO A GUY WHO HAD JUST BOUGHT A CHANCE ON AN AUTOMOBILE!
WELL, LET ME TELL YOU THIS, MR. MANY-BRAINS! I HEARD IT RUMORED AROUND THAT JIM JUST BOUGHT A RING!
A RING? HOW BIG IS IT?
WELL, I HEARD TELL IT'S ABOUT AS BIG AROUND AS THE THIRD FINGER ON ELLA CINDERS' LEFT HAND!
A ring? Golly, that will complicate things

THE BUNGLE FAMILY

Family Interest

By Tuthill

SUCH CRUST! EVER SINCE MY FAMILY HEARD THOSE RUMORS ABOUT A FOREIGN ESTATE, THEY'VE BEEN RUNNING AROUND THIS TOWN LIKE VOLUNTEER FIREMEN IN A FOG.
AND MY PEOPLE ARE EVEN WORSE! I SPEND HALF OF MY TIME CHASING TO THE PHONE TO TELL RELATIVES WHO WON'T BELIEVE ME THAT THIS AFFAIR IS JUST TALK.
OH NOT ALL OF IT. IN FACT THE MORE EXCITED OUR RELATIVES GET ABOUT THIS FOREIGN ESTATE THING THE CLEARER IT IS TO ME THAT WE'RE GOING TO INHERIT SOMETHING. MILLIONS, MAYBE.
EVEN A MILLION DOLLARS WOULDN'T GO VERY FAR AMONG FOUR MILLION RELATIVES.
I'M NOT WORRIED ABOUT RELATIVES. THEY CAN'T POSSIBLY HOLLER ANY LOUDER AFTER WE GET THE ESTATE THAN THEY ARE DOING RIGHT NOW.
WELL — THERE'S THE PHONE. ANOTHER RELATIVE, I'LL BET.
WHO IS IT, FRITZ BUNGLE? HE CALLED UP TWICE TODAY FOR YOU.
HELLO . . . OH YES FRITZ! . . . LISTEN . . TALK SLOWER . . . NO, . . NO . . . NO . . . . NO . . . . WELL I DON'T CARE WHO TOLD YOU I GOT AN ESTATE WORTH TWO MILLION DOLLARS . . . NO . . NO . . NO!
ALL RIGHT, GO AHEAD AND HIRE A LAWYER . . . . NO!
NO! NO! GOOD-BYE!

Federal Government Failing Miserably in Economic Crisis

With the abuses of the previous boom already corrected, continuation of the existing subnormal business pace serves no social function.

On the contrary, prolongation of the depression is pauperizing important groups of population in the United States.

At the same time, the resources of private charity are gradually being exhausted.

The will to recovery on the part of business men and bankers is frustrated by the persistence of unfavorable symptoms.

President Hoover sought to enlist the moral assets of government to stay the tide of depression in 1929. That was the right purpose but at the wrong time.

Now with deflation behind us, the Federal Government is in a far better position to intervene than it was then before the economic malady had run its course.

Experience has demonstrated that it was impractical to stop the forward swing of the pendulum a year and a half ago.

But in the meantime, the reaction has had full swing. So much so that the forces of depression in the United States since December appear to have spent themselves.

Awaiting stimulus for an upward swing, business has for months moved sidewise near the bottom.

As Lee Wolman, professor-elect of economics, Columbia University, pointed out in the Evening Post, the pace of business recovery is bound to be restrained by the timidity, fear and uncertainty of private business enterprise.

Like other competent economists, Mr. Wolman is impressed with the fact that THOUGH THE GOVERNMENT HAS TALKED FREELY IN BEHALF OF A REVIVAL OF PROSPERITY, IT HAS ACTED ONLY SPARINGLY. Public expenditures for construction in 1930 exceeded those of 1929 by BARELY 2 PER CENT. This year, such outlays MAY ACTUALLY SHOW A DECLINE, especially in view of shrinking public revenues.

Government itself of necessity is bearing a large direct share of the losses incident to depression in view of the decline in taxable income and the shrinkage of taxable real estate values.

Giving public expression to what is on the minds of numerous thoughtful economists, MR. WOLMAN PROPOSES THAT THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT BREAK THE ECONOMIC DEADLOCK BY RAISING $3,000,000,000 FORTHWITH THROUGH A BOND ISSUE, AND SPENDING THE PROCEEDS FOR ESSENTIAL PUBLIC IMPROVEMENTS.

Such a carefully conceived spending program would probably give direct employment to 750,000 heads of families who are now tramping the streets, and it would also give indirect employment to large numbers engaged in the preparation of materials and machinery.

Even more important, it would hearten thousands of key business executives who are scanning the skies for a dependable signal to go ahead.

Capital is abundantly available for such an ambitious program, but its flow into business channels has been blocked because of the timidity of investors who hesitate to buy any except the best grade of bonds. FEDERAL CREDIT WAS NEVER BETTER, YET THE TREMENDOUS INTANGIBLE ASSET OF GOVERNMENT CREDIT IS BEING WASTED IN THE PRESENT EMERGENCY.

President Hoover would do well to play some prompt politics to relieve human misery, and should show some evidences of interest and action by calling A SPECIAL SESSION OF CONGRESS TO PASS THE ENABLING LEGISLATION FOR A PROSPERITY PLAN.

Washington was wrong in its assumption that private business would be encouraged by the adjournment of Congress. Since March 4, there has been, if anything, a letdown, rather than an acceleration, of the forces making for economic recovery.

The issue is not whether business can drift through trial and error into ultimate recovery by virtue of its own resources. The real question before the country is whether, through lack of intelligent governmental leadership, recovery shall be needlessly delayed.

By well timed and properly considered measures at this state of the economic readjustment, the Federal Government can end the vicious circle of depression.

The much talk and little action policy of the administration spells malnutrition and a lowering of living standards for millions who are out of work through no fault of their own.

Manager Bill Killed

Kline Machine Orders More Potent to Legislators Than Wishes of Citizens.

Callous indifference to the desires of the forward-looking citizens of this community is revealed in the vote of the Allegheny County delegation in the House at Harrisburg on the Moore bill, permitting voters of the city the optional privilege of directing Council to engage a city manager. The bill was defeated by a vote of 103 to 91, with 20 of our legislators voting against the measure, six voting for it, one being absent.

Those on the roll of honor, voting to give the people the right to decide what sort of city government they desire, are Carl C. Baldridge, Louis W. Hagmaier, M. A. Musmanno, Thomas W. Neely, George H. Soffel, William F. Stadtlander.

Those who, by their vote, indicated that orders of the Kline political machine are of more importance than the citizenry represented in the Civic Club of Allegheny County and other important organizations supporting the Moore bill are William T. Bell, Clayton A. Dietrich, M. A. Dunn, Charles T. Gwyer, F. C. Gangloff, Samuel J. Grenet, Frank E. Hoffman, Joseph R. Lynch, P. J. Maloney, James H. McClure, George Metzler, Frank M. Reed, John A. Rhodes, Frank J. Riddle, James P. Rooney, Max J. Spann, Joseph G. Steedle, Arthur Storer, Walter E. Tucker, James Wettach.

The absentee was Edward B. Goehring.

The votes of the 20 death-knellers might be explainable if the bill made a city manager mandatory, but, under the circumstances, it must be assumed that they think the political bosses are much more capable of deciding what you need than you are yourself.

Let House Decide Blue Law

Supporters of Liberal Sunday Should Fight to Have Contest in Open.

Representative Benning has offered another bill providing for a referendum on Sunday amusements. Other bills introduced in the General Assembly in Harrisburg with the intent of liberalizing the Sunday observance law of 1794, known as the blue law, have perished in committee, yet friends of modification have reason to be encouraged by the showing made in this session of the Legislature. Never before has there been so much interest shown by our law-makers.

One bill alone on this matter, that legalizing the delivery of milk, survived the strange processes of committee action, and it immediately was visioned as a vehicle to which authorization of Sunday sports could be attached. There is known to be a tolerant attitude toward a liberal Sunday law among a large number of members of the House and Senate, but just how strong their sympathy is has not been recorded, because blue law supporters have been able thus far to get in their deadly work in committee.

With the introduction of the Benning bill, liberals in the House should take opportunity to reveal themselves as diehards and make every effort to force the bill from the committee to the floor of the House. Let all the representatives of the people, instead of a few, say what the people shall have!

Kline and Civil Service

Smart Guy Always Finds Way to Beat a Law, and Mayor Is Smart.

Revelation that the civil service law has been more marked in the evasion of it than the observance, in the appointment of inspectors of public works, is not surprising. It is said that 18 of the 28 inspectors appointed in Mayor Kline's administration have been "provisional." That is, they were given temporary appointment, to be made permanent after having taken civil service examination, not in competition, as the law contemplates, but merely to show the examination has been taken with a passing grade.

Long ago the Kline administration showed its scorn of the civil service law. Long ago the civil service commission showed its subservience to the Kline administration. Few have forgotten Mr. Kline's firing of Murray Livingston, chief inspector of weights and measures, "for the good of the service." Few have forgotten "the good of the service" was Livingston's refusal to fire a man whose head Kline sought for political vengeance. Few have forgotten how the civil service commission exempted Livingston's job from civil service, after he had been fired, so Kline could fire him again—legally.

Hence, there is no surprise at the latest revelation. The outline of the outrageous procedure shown in the above paragraph indicates just what a scrap of paper the civil service law is considered to be by the Kline administration.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, April 15.—No one, since Caruso's death, has attained the effortless flair of the tenor for publicity at the Metropolitan opera. Jeritza comes nearest. All her rivals have been more earnestly exploited. But she is a positive personality. Everything she does becomes drama, magnificently performed.

Marion Talley had her special train from Kansas City. Lawrence Tibbett was haloed with a "from rags to riches" background. Lily Pons arrived out of a thicket of Page 1 headlines. All such ballyhoos were more or less inspired by the crafty William J. Guard.

But Jeritza makes "copy" naturally and has the saving grace of not seeking it. The blonde Maria is first an artist and along with this has the vigour of a ladies' hockey team. Her sense of humor is devastating and she has no inclination to take herself seriously.

Her first appearance in America was not extravagantly publicized. She was supposed to be still another "operatic sensation" from Vienna. Scores of them have arrived before with loud clashing of cymbals and remained only to sing a seasonal swan song.

One thing that has clinched her to her public is her absence of that evanescent quality temperament. Only once has she been aroused by a fellow singer. Then she made a fugacious curtain speech in which she said a certain tenor was "not nice to me." She never appeared with him again.

Her recent clowning at the Met was the talk of the town. If she were suddenly to lose her voice, she could make a living easily in pantomime. She and her husband, Baron von Pepper of Vienna, are pals. They search out odd eating places, go to the movies and walk in the country.

The diva is extremely religious. While in New York she lives at the St. Regis and most of her friends are struggling young singers. Many believe that her first success was in New York. She was the toast of musical Vienna long before New York heard her.

Hugh Walpole is supposed to be one of the castigated characters in Somerset Maugham's "Cakes and Ale." A new novel "Gin and Bitters" is just out by A. Reposte. The author is said to be Walpole but isn't.

When Prof. Einstein was Hollywooding one of the stories concerns his attendance at a small dinner party. Among the guests was a beautiful cinema lady who listened patiently for some time to the abstruse polemics without being able to say a word. To overcome her boredom she gulped several scoopfuls of wine and becoming slightly crocked leaned over the table and touched the scientist on the shoulder and coyly chirped: "Sprechen zu Deutsch?"

We wonder if Prof. Einstein to others in the news reels and news pictures appeared to be perpetually windblown. To us he always seemed to be hip deep in a sort of Kansas tornado.

* * *

Vignette from Avenue A.—A soiled, mangy white poodle scratching himself in utter vacuity along the curb. A window flies open and a voice calls: "O, Prince!"

Pain-in-the-neck padoodle from a Park avenue cafe ad.: "Ah, partridge, cocotte perigourdine! It can be nothing less than perfection. . .a daintiness wooed to utter tenderness by a chef's blandishments. . .a piquante morsel created but for this delirious moment of fulfilment." It would be fun to squat there in full dress and ask casually for a chunk of sowbelly smeared with turnip greens.

Dorothy Parker, the legend goes, will not permit editors to tinker with her copy when it arrives always at least two months late. She is especially insistent they refrain from smoothing out the "rough spots."

From Mrs. T. E.: "What would you do with a husband who will not work and who, when cheaper coffee is bought to cut expenses, sniffs: "You've changed brands!" That's no husband, mam, it's a blood hound.

STAR DUST

By Archibald Henderson

Dust is an important factor in many phenomena, although this fact is not fully recognized. Wonderful color effects in the sunset, for example, have been traced to clouds of volcanic dust, which float hundreds and sometimes thousands of miles from their source. The amount of dust which fills the air is scarcely realized by us until we see a ray of light passing through a dark room which illuminates millions of dust particles which become visible to the naked eye.

Scientists have recently advanced the plausible theory that the scale of the universe, as now formulated by many astronomers, is much too large. A star appears excessively remote; but it is, actually, much closer than it appears, on account of the absorption of light in passing through the cosmic dust. Distances are thus apparently magnified many times as the result of the density of the atmosphere through which light rays pass.

It would be interesting to know exactly how dense the atmosphere really is as the result of the presence of the tiny motes which constitute dust. Eddington has estimated that all space is filled, fairly uniformly, with something to which we may give the name, for want of a better term, of gas. This is so excessively rarefied that one cubic inch of air expanded over 2,000,000 cubic miles would approximate it in density. The weight of the air filled with the gas is, nevertheless, appreciable; for one cubic light year of this gas weighs about one septillion tons, which would be represented by one followed by 24 ciphers.

Star dust sounds like some very fine, brilliant powder, suitable for scattering on a beautiful woman's dark hair. There are, however, various kinds of cosmic dust, and they are not illuminating, since light rays pass through them without "seeing" them, that is, causing a radiant effect.

One of the most singular of cosmic phenomena is the number of vast patches of inky blackness, which occur, here and there, throughout the heavens. The Milky Way is marked by dark lanes and patches. A famous patch of this sort is the Coal Sack, east of the Southern Cross. Again, in the constellation Ophiuchus, there is a vast dark cloud of elongated shape like a cigar—60 light years long, five light years wide.

For a long time it was believed that these were only "holes" in the sky. No stars or constellations were believed to be found in these regions. But it is now believed that these "holes" are really great clouds of cosmic dust. Such dust clouds completely blot out the heavenly lights behind them.

MARRY-GO-ROUND

By Helen Rowland

Why Men Love Animals

"The more I see of men, the better I love dogs," we quote flippantly, and congratulate ourselves on our astuteness.

Well, why not? It's easy to love a dog; the feat would be not to love dogs. Everybody loves animals—every normal human being. You can love even a pig, if its little and cute and your OWN pig.

As for a dog—a dog appeals to you with his devotion and loyalty, and flatters you with his admiration and trust. A dog thinks you're GREAT and wonderful, no matter how small or contemptible you may be.

A dog responds to your caresses with enthusiasm and gratitude, and never resents your indifference or grumbles that you "don't love him any more."

* * *

A dog never answers BACK And never nags you. He never notices when you haven't had a shave—and never tells you that you need a hair-cut, or that your clothes need pressing, or that you ought to write to your mother.

A dog never asks questions. He never wants to know where you are going or greets you with a questionaire when you come in two hours late.

To a dog, you are always "the berries." He sympathizes with all your moods, stands for your grouches and never reminds you that you've made a fool of yourself. A dog always takes you SERIOUSLY!

So does a horse, for that matter. Or a cat or a pet elephant. No woman would stand being spoken to as you speak to your horse, or endure the same amount of bullying and bossing.

And even a cat or a pet elephant never complains of his meals or is sarcastic about your cooking.

Your pet cat never tells you that you've spent too much money. A cat never gives you a withering look, when you've made a silly remark, or kicks you under the table, when you pick up the wrong fork or lead the wrong card.

Where do people get all this about the love of ANIMALS? You don't have to be noble to love animals—it's the animals who are noble, to love you. It's EASY to love animals. The great FEAT of life is to love human beings—particularly those we live with, and OUGHT to love!

They aren't exactly beggars—

They'd be furious if you called them thieves—

Yet, when it comes to property right, I'd take my chances, any day, with a regular yegg or moocher. For the species I speak of can chisel deeper into your pocketbook and peace of mind than any bum or bandit.

Somehow, they always remind me of woodticks. Happen to have any personal experience with the manners and methods of woodticks? I hope not. But you can, with profit, listen and learn from me. I am, at the moment of writing, sitting out in the wilderness and picking them off my own neck.

The woodtick seems a mild and feeble creature—a mere film of a bug, helpless and homeless. He lives wherever he can hang his shape, but he has a particular affection for the western brush. There, as the year warms into spring, he may be found, dozing on the thorny twigs of the chapparal. But so harmless does he appear, that you give him no serious thought. A week or so later, when you pass that way again, he is no longer to be found. He has gone.

He has gone but he is not forgotten. Somewhere there wanders an unfortunate sheep or pup who is remembering him with increasing keenness, every moment. Thoughtlessly, that luckless pup passed beneath that chapparal twig. And, as he passed, that helpless, homeless woodtick dropped upon his hide.

The pup did not know he had dropped. He did not dream that a great change had come into his life. But he was not long to remain in ignorance. For, once having landed, the woodtick got busy . . . began making himself at home . . . taking a little here and a little there . . . edging in deeper . . . gouging and filling up. Homeless and hungry he had arrived. Within an hour he had established residence. Within a day he was running the show—swelling up like a balloon on the pup's good gore. And, unless a frantic side-swipe dislodged him, there he would stay as long as the staying was good.

As I was saying—certain people remind me of ticks. Quiet, inoffensive seeming creatures. You never know exactly where they live. You never know exactly what they do. They just seem to loiter around.

BUT, BEFORE YOU KNOW IT, THEY'RE LOITERING AROUND YOU.

At first you see no danger in that. They're such harmless things—amusing and friendly—helpful in little ways. Besides, it's mighty flattering to have anyone become so fond of you—

Oh, yeah? Just wait!

Slowly, but surely, your casual friend proceeds to make himself or herself at home. Begins asking little favors...taking small advantages.....borrowing trifles that are, somehow, never returned ...getting caught without carfare, or lunch money, or an umbrella, or a pair of silk stockings. Begins showing up just when you're going out in the car...or dropping in for week ends—

Homeless and helpless he arrived—too feeble and friendly to arouse your apprehensions. But presently he's taking a little here and a little there—
